A free trial given. Come in any time and see the machine operated on the farm of P. J. Wilkinson, Cambray, or the Massey-Harris shop, Lindsay. For descriptive matter and price list send post card to

DOMINION DAY IN LINDSAY

The Celebration Not Quite Up to the Mark Attained Last Year.

ABOUT 3,000 PEOPLE ON THE GROUNDS

Diminished Attendance From Outside Points—The Program Proved a Disappointment in Some Respects Owing to Unavoidable Circumstances—The Balloon Ascension Delayed Five Hours in Consequence of an Accident—Speeding-in-the-Ring.

Taking all the factors into account, our citizens and the management have good reason to feel satisfied with the attendance at Tuesday's celebration. The optimistic estimates of some in regard to the number of visitors and the total of the gate receipts were not borne out, but allowing for adverse circumstances the celebration may be classde as a success.

The weather was all that could be wished, being bright and pleasant, but the downpour of the previous day and night must have caused many persons at a distance to abandon their intention of visiting Lindsay next day. Then the health scare was undoubtedly worked to its fullest capacity by the merchants of the surrounding villages, whose jealousy was aroused by the announcement that Lindsay business places would be kept open until one o'clock to accommodate out-of-town buyers. A third and perhaps still more effective agent in bringing about a diminished attendance on Tuesday was the fact that, as the Orangemen of Peterboro, Durham, Ontario and Victoria Counties will celebrate the Glorious Twelfth in Lindsay this year, many of the brethren and their friends who usually come to town on July 1st, resolved this year to defer their visit till the 12th. These three causes no doubt impaired the success of the celebration, and taking into account the undeniable fact that the program fell short of the public expectation, it is perhaps as well that more people were not disappointed. The spectators were mainly from the adjoining townships, and can be induced to overlook the unavoidable disappointment and come again. but people from a distance are not easily placated and would have resented the partial failure. Next year these people can be attracted to Lindsay by a program of greater excellence. Lastly, the Old Boys' Re-union at Uxbridge proved a strong attraction and was attended by many from the country west of us, as well as by about sixty of our citizens.

THE MORNING EVENTS.

About 10.30 o'clock the band made made its appearance and rendered a couple of lively airs as a sort of introduction to the high wire feats to be performed by Signor Casselle, the aeronaut engaged to make the balloon ascention and parachute drop from the clouds in the afternoon. The wire was stretched from the roof of the Benson house to the Simpson house opposite, and the Professor performed a number of hair-raising feats. the most daring being his going to bed act, in which he assumed a recumbent attitude on the wire, covered himself with a counterpane and after adjusting a pillow under his head was apparently as comfortable as an ordinary individual would be in his grandmother's four-poster. The performance merited the applause with which it was greeted. Upon the retirement of Casselle the Goose Lake Band, in quaint and diversified attire, put in an appearance and created much amusement for the children.

IN THE AFTERNOON.

After dinner the people flocked to the Agricultural grounds to witness the horse races and balloon ascension. The grand stand, capable of holding 1200 spectators, was packed before 2 o'clock, and it was estimated at 2.30 that the crowd on the grounds numbered fully 3,000 persons.

As the races proved "flat, stale and unprofitable," the interest of all centered in the preparations being made for the inflating of the huge balloon with hot air, and in the excellent acrobatic work, juggling and balancing done by Forbert Bros. on a platform opposite the grand stand.

About 4 o'clock an untoward incident occurred. Owing to the stiff breeze blowing Signor Casselle found it very difficult to control his big balloon during the process of inflation. The top of it was attached to a guy wire slung between two heavy telephone poles, the butts of which were supposed to be imbedded deep in the ground. The swaying of the huge mass of canvas loosened one of the poles, and finally it was jerked up and thrown against the balloon, tearing a great rent in the material The imprisoned hot air escaped in a gush and in a moment the balloon had collapsed. Signor Casselle, after a short conference with Messrs. Gregory and Greer, agreed to attempt repairs in the hope that the ascension might be made before 6 o'clock, but as several delays occurred the ascension was fixed for 7.30, and the people dispersed for supper.

At the appointed hour a crowd numbering between 800 and 1000 people was on hand to witness Signor Casselle's skyward journey. It was ten minutes past 8 o'clock when the ropes were unloosed and the big balloon soared rapidly aloft, with Casselle hanging head downward from the trapeze attached to the parachute. While the balloon was crossing the Central School grounds at a height of about 250 feet Casselle cut the parachute loose and made a graceful and easy descent. The balloon, belching forth a thick black smoke from its opened valves, travelled as far as Victoria-ave., collapsing and falling to the ground in the vicinity of Squier & Flavelle's pen factory.

Speeding-in-the-Ring.

The principal attraction for many at the grounds was supposed to be the horse races. As in the past, they were responsible for bringing many people to town, as a good horse race is always enjoyed by the average farmer. We regret to say, however, that the speeding events proved a great disappointment to the spectators.

The posponed matched race for $100 a side between fast drivers owned by Mr. Bert. Weese and Mr. Sam Brown, was called. It will be remembered that this race was to have taken place on June the 11th last, but on account of an accident was postponed till July 1st with the understanding that the race would take place, and that the money would be paid. Mr. Brown stated that his horse was not in fit condition. However the judges called the race, saying it was to take place "play or pay". Mr. Weese then drove his mare around the track a couple of times, and as the Brown horse did not appear the judges awarded the money to Weese, but Mr. Robt. Lindsay, the stake holder refused to hand over the money, saying he would not do so until the race took place.

The 2.40 Trot was the best race of the day, as there were some exciting finishes in the varous heats.

The Green race, which everybody expected would be the most exciting and amusing event of the day, proved a complete failure. Instead of there being several horses in this race, there were only two, and it was a question in the minds of the spectators whether one of the horses had a pair of wooden legs or not. By the way it got around the track one would almost believe it had. This horse created a great deal of amusement for the small boy.

In the Free-for-all Rob Roy, a beautiful black owned by Mr. Forsythe, of Stouffville, always managed to finish the several heats several yards ahead of Mr. Powell's Red Pat, and consequently this race did not cause much excitement.

To settle a little agreement as to who had the fastest horse Mr. Bert. Weese and Mr. Geo. Curtis drove Johnny Weese and Minnie Keswick, respectively around the ring a couple of times. Minnie Keswick proved to be too fast for the other horse, and won by several yards.

Following are the results of the various races:

Free for All—1 Rob Roy (Forsythe); 2 Red Pat (Powell) 3 Halforest (Forsythe). Time 2.37.

Green Race, 1-2 mile—1 Octoroon (Thorndike); 2 Lilford Boy (Mulligan.) Time 2.04.

Celebration Notes.

The ascent of the balloon and drop of the daring aeronaut was witnessed from Sturgeon Point by a number of the cottagers. The air was so clear that when the balloon collapsed the Point people were positive that it had landed behind Pleasant Point, a mile and a half away. Oakwood and Little Britain people also enjoyed the novel sight at long range.

There is no denying the fact that taken as a whole the afternoon programme proved a great disappointment to many. For this Messrs. Gregory and Greer, the managers, cannot fairly be held responsible. They offered good purses for the speeding events, and the failure rests with the horsemen, who in turn say the track is not fit for a half-smart nag to travel on. If that is true—and the statement has been made time and again—it is sheer waste of money as well as a bit of deception to hang up fat purses and cozen the public into believing they will see a smart and honest race for the coin.

THE KING'S PROGRESS

His Majesty Rests Well and His Wound is Healing.

DICTATES LETTER TO TROOPS

Review of East India Troops Was a Picturesque Spectacle—1,300 Dark-Skinned Troops in Vari-Colored Uniforms March to "Hands Across the Sea"—The British Fleet Dispersed.

London, July 3.—At Buckingham Palace the following bulletin was issued at 10 o'clock yesterday morning in regard to King Edward:

"King Edward had another excellent night and is making steady progress in all respects. The wound is much less troublesome and is beginning to heal. (Signed) Treves, Laking, Barlow."

There is some talk in official circles of a public thanksgiving service at St. Paul's Cathedral when the King is sufficiently recovered to attend, but nothing has been definitely settled.

His Majesty takes light nourishment with keen enjoyment. He is allowed a light cigar a day. He evinced the greatest interest in the arrangements for yesterday's review of the colonial troops.

"The King maintains his strength. The local pain being less, the days are passed with greater comfort. (Signed) Treves, Laking, Barlow."

ANOTHER GOOD DAY.

King Enlivened by Music and Cheers of the Indian Troops.

London, July 3. — King Edward passed another good day yesterday. The quiet and routine of the royal sickroom was varied by the excitement of listening to the music and cheers of the Indian troops, as they marched past the Palace and greeted Queen Alexandra on the balcony. King Edward demanded a full account of the review, and the formal report made by the Prince of Wales was supplemented by the personal narrative of the Queen.

His Majesty dictated a letter to the Duke of Connaught, commanding him to compliment the colonial and Indian troops upon their excellent appearance, and to thank them for their expressions of loyalty and sympathy, which he had heard with pleasure in his sickroom.

At a late hour last night the King's improvement continued.

A unique and impressive scene was witnessed in St. Paul's Cathedral last evening, when some 2,000 doctors assembled beneath the dome of the building and offered prayers for the King's recovery. Many of the doctors wore their academic robes. A litany was sung in procession, the doctors joingi̇ng in the singing. At the conclusion of the service, the congregation sent a message to Queen Alexandra, expressing its fervent wishes for His Majesty's speedy recovery.

A PICTURESQUE SPECTACTLE.

Review of the East Indian Troops by Prince of Wales.

London, July 3.—The review of the East Indian troops yesterday was largely a repetition of Monday's function, but the varied coloring of the uniforms of representative corps from all parts of Hindustan formed an altogether more picturesque spectacle. Queen Alexandra was again the central figure of the proceedings, and the public welcomed the opportunity to testify once more its sympathy with her on account of her recent anxiety and its congratulations at good news regarding King Edward's condition.

The review procedure of Monday was followed. About one thousand three hundred dark-skinned troops, headed by a detachment of the bodyguard of the Viceroy of India, Lord Curzon of Kedleston, reached the Horse Guards parade to the strains of "Hands Across the Sea." The members of the royal family who reviewed the colonials Monday traversed the lines of the soldiers of the Indian Empire. The Prince of Wales, representing the King, standing by the side of his mother's carriage, took the salute and the proceedings ended with cheers for the King led by the Duke of Connaught, the Indians drawing their swords and waving them wildly as they joined in the cheering.

On returning to the palace the Queen appeared at an upper window and took several snapshots of the Indian troops as they marched past on the return to camp. The Indians recognized the Queen-Empress, and each detachment cheered as it passed.

The British fleet, which assembled off Spithead for the proposed coronation review, dispersed yesterday morning.

Revolver Replies to Stones.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., July 3.—At the William A. Colliery at Old Forge about noon yesterday, when a member of the surveying corps came out of the barricade, he was stoned by about 500 foreigners. He pulled his revolver and fired in the direction of the crowd. Then the coal and iron police at the colliery began firing. The surveyor jumped into a wagon and made his escape to Pittston. So far as known no one was hurt.

CANADIANS FOR HOME

Coronation Contingent will Leave Camp In London To-Day.

MR. CHAMBERLAIN INDEFINITE.

Speech of Colonial Secretary at Colonial Conference Disappointing—Described as "Varied and Comprehensive, But Indefinite"—An Impression That His Hands as Well as His Tongue Are Tied.

London, July 3. — The Canadian contingent has been invited to remain two weeks longer awaiting Lord Kitchener's return. The officers are willing to stay, but the men have had enough of Alexandra Palace for a lifetime, and they have decided to sail on Thursday.

Sir Frederick Borden said they would give the answer at six o'clock yesterday as to whether the troops would stay or sail as prearranged.

Sir Frederick Borden has gone to the camp and will stay with the men until they sail for home.

At six o'clock yesterday afternoon Sir Frederick Borden stated that the contingent would leave in the morning. The War Office, he said, had invited the troops to prolong their stay a week, but that would really mean a fortnight, for a suitable vessel for transportation home could not be procured in less time, so that if nothing unforseen occurs, the Canadians will sail from Liverpool on the good ship Tunisian at 2 o'clock on Thursday.

The Canadian Provincial Premiers, Messrs. Ross, Murray, Tweedie, Roblin, Peters, Dunsmuir, and Haultain, also Treasurer Duffy of Quebec, again conferred yesterday at the Grosvenor Hotel, and discussed the maintenance of the Lieutenant-Governors. It was decided to confer with Mr. Chamberlain with a view to easing the burden of the Provinces, and also to ask for an authoritative statement on precedence and the official status. The Provincial Ministers intend to seek Sir Wilfrid Laurier's co-operation.

TIED HAND AND TONGUE.

Speech in Opening Colonial Premier's Conference Was Indefinite.

London, July 3.—The speech made by Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, the Colonial Secretary, at the conference of colonial premiers, on Monday, is said to have been a great disappointment. It is described as "varied and comprehensive, but indefinite." While Mr. Chamberlain covered a large field of subjects in his speech, he committed himself to no decided opinion on any one of them, and he advanced no definite opinion or proposal of any kind on behalf of the Government, his only suggestion in the direction of Imperial federation being that of the periodic repetition of the conference of the colonial premiers in London.

Mr. Chamberlain's speech has left the impression that, regarding the zollverein and all other important points, including Imperial defence, not only his hands, but his tongue, also, is tied.

Canadians a Paying Attraction.

London, July 3.—The authorities at Alexandra Palace have been making a circus attraction of the Canadian troops. They are charging a shilling one day for entrance and sixpence the next. Lady Laurier and her friends were stopped at the gate Monday, admittance being demanded and collected before they were allowed to enter. This charging of admittance has caused great indignation among the colonials, which will not help to heal the friction arising from the general mismanagement of the War Office.

Russia Quitting Manchuria.

London, July 3.—When questioned in the House of Commons yesterday on the subject of the collection of Likin and other dues by the Russian administration at New Chwang, Manchuria, the Parliamentary Secretary of the Foreign Office, Lord Cranborne, said Great Britain had not protested against the action taken because His Majesty's Government had been notified that negotiations were proceeding for the evacuation of Manchuria by Russia, and it was expected that Manchuria would shortly be restored to Chinese control.

On the Pacific Coast.

Vancouver, July 3.—The first train over the Vancouver, Lulu Island Railway, connecting the city with the headquarters of the salmon canning industry arrived here yesterday morning.

West Selkirk, July 3.—The gasoline tug, Eagle, was capsized in the Melton River and Fred Ricklap was drowned.

English Student Killed.

Schenectady, N. Y., July 3.—T. H. Heath, aged 30 years, of Rugby, England, a student in the testing department of shop No. 11, in the General Electric Works, was instantly killed yesterday morning, while engaged in making a test. Two hundred and forty-five volts in alternating current caused his death.

First Transport With Boers.

Cape Town, July 2.—The steamship Canada arrived here to-day with 400 Boers, who were formerly prisoners on the Island of St. Helena on board. The Canada is the first transport bringing former Boer prisoners back to South Africa to reach here.

No Action Taken.

Some discussion took place regarding the by-law to be submitted by the Council to the ratepayers for the purpose of raising $14,000 for building a new school in the north ward. Finally it was decided to let the matter stand until meeting of the council on July 7th.

THE PUBLIC LIBRARY CLOSED

As a Measure of Precaution Against the Spread of Fever.

A special meeting of the Public Library Board was held the 25th ult. at 7 o'clock in the Clerk's office. There present were Chairman Judge Harding, Mayor Ingle, Messrs. E. A. Hardy and R. Kylie.

After calling the meeting to order Judge Harding set forth the advice of the Medical Health Officer the meeting had been called for the purpose of considering the advisability of closing the Public Library for a time on account of the prevalence of scarlet fever.

"Mayor Ingle—I think it the proper thing to do. Steps of this kind should have been taken some time ago to prevent the spreading of the disease."

It was then moved by Mr. Kylie, seconded by Mayor Ingle, that the Library be closed for two weeks or until further notice.

Mr. Hardy was not favorable to the motion. He said that libraries in the United States held there as no danger of contagion from books.

Judge Harding—"It is our duty to close the Library for two weeks on the advice of the M.H.O. There is more danger of contagion in books than in other places."

Mr. Kylie—"There is contagion carried in clothes as well as in other things."

Mr. Hardy—"What about books that are at present in houses where fever has been, and are coming from?"

Judge Harding—"The reading room should not be interfered with, as no danger of contagion from book stock clumber like books. Books that have been in houses where the fever has been should be disinfected."

Mr. Hardy—"If we undertake this matter we should do it well. A special constable should be engaged to go to all the houses in the houses where the fever has been. The books at McConnell's should be destroyed."

The motion to close was carried, and it was agreed that all books in the houses should be put in a box and stored until further orders.

A Horse and a Knitting Needle.

A horse belonging to Mr. Robt. Stage of Willowdale, Ontario, was operated on a year or more ago for an abscess on its side. A short time after it was noticed that the abscess was forming on the other side and a veterinary surgeon was called to examine it, and on opening the affected part found a knitting needle was found to be a knitting needle, which in some way became imbedded in the flesh and had worked its way from one side to the other. The needle had penetrated the horse's body for a year or two.

Medicine Man in the Toilet.

Peter Johnston, of Cobocook, commonly known as «Jim Pete, the medicine man, who has been packing a bag and selling medicine at Gregory's corner for some days, was told by Chief Newson late Saturday afternoon that he must move to the market. Pete replied, saying he could not attract a crowd up there and consequently was unable to do a big business. The Chief then told him he would arrest him for being a vagrant, but Pete was not to be scared, towards the market. They had not gone far, however, before Pete changed his mind and took to his tents, running up William-st, and down Peel-st to the river. The Chief proceeded to the market with the outfit, and about six o'clock Pete returned for his wheel, when he was taken into custody. He appeared in morning for trial, but was remanded until Saturday.

LAST WEEK'S BALL GAME

LINDSAY DEFEATED OSHAWA.

The Local Aggregation Trimmed the Visitors by a Score of 3 to 2.

On account of the threatening weather only 150 spectators assembled at the Agricultural grounds last Thursday to witness the final game between Oshawa and Lindsay. Those who did attend saw one of the best amateur games ever played in town. Both teams were in fine form and every man played his position well. Much to the delight of the "rah rahs" Mosers, Cinnamon and Miller were the batteries for the locals and Smith and Andrews for the visitors.

Miller handled the rubber in such a way that Oshawa was unable to find him until the third inning. Uncommon good him good support at the plate and the fielding generally to the boys was a feature. The Oshawa twirler was a puzzler for the locals. He managed to keep the hits well scattered and the fielding behind him was excellent, and they won on their merits.

Lindsay scored two runs in the second and one in the third. Oshawa got one in the third, and during the remainder of the game neither team was able to score. The Lindsay team comprised all local players, while the visitors had a couple of players belonging to Bowmanville and Toronto.

Near the finish of the game an accident occurred at third base, which looked as if Oshawa player, fell walle trying to put out a fast Lindsay man, and twisted his knee. Dr. White attended to the injured man, but no further playing was done.

The game was a first-class exhibition, and it is to be hoped that the local team will receive better support from our citizens at their next game, for Mr. Walker tried and put them to satisfaction.

Bad Season For Beekeepers

Local beekeepers are not encouraged at what they see in their hives, and fears are entertained that the honey production this summer will be very much below the average unless the conditions of the weather change very soon. One man has been unfavorable for honey making, the frequent rainfall, cool temperature and cold nights having made the little workers rather sluggish, and their cells are being filled slowly. Even though fully half a month of fine weather and warmth every day the bee's business season will be very short, and it cannot make up for lost time to the extent of a large a production as in former years.

Sunday Excursion Party's Lesson.

The Penetang Herald says: Perhaps some people will say that because it was Sunday the accident happened to the steamer Leo, which went her to the bottom in ten or twelve feet of water. The most probability is that if the vessel had been at her dock where she should have been on the Sabbath day, she would still be afloat and in commission. It is said that there were about one hundred and forty Sunday excursionists on board the vessel when she met with the accident. Fortunately none of them were drowned or sustained any injury, but it is certain that some for the time being would have preferred the safety of their church pews to the risk that they were running after the boat struck and till she was beached.

BURIED IN AN OLD PUNT

Curious Wish of a Backwoods Settler in Hastings County.

A correspondent informs the Campbellford Herald that "Woodcock's Point" is the name given to the northern extremity of Addington county, is now deserted and lonely. Once it was a pretty and thriving settlement by Geo. Woodcock and his wife, who settled there some forty years ago. Now a mound a short distance back of the white cottage is the resting place of the once sturdy backwoodsman, his wife having outspent the remainder of her days with her daughter in Toronto. On the 7th of June, at the ripe old age of 72, and when feeling his end was drawing. According to his wish his favorite old punt was used as a coffin, contrary to the custom of the first settlers on the mainland, who were buried without coffin or shroud. The old man also wanted his potato hill put for a grave, saying he could haunt them if his desires were not fulfilled. Accordingly, his wishes were used as a place of burial. One of the pall bearers remarked that he stuck an unfurnished paddle at the head of the grave. Thus ends the last of poor old George Woodcock. He was an honest fellow, and I never knew him to do anything mean, or what I would call right, should I ever lose anyone say anything unkind of him, I would certainly knock him down."

Over Zealous.

A country convert full of zeal, offered himself for service in his first prayer meeting remarks.

"I'm ready to do anything the Lord asks me," he said, "so long as it's honorable."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

In Manitoba and Assiniboia there are 60,000,000 acres of rich arable land, which could support 60,000,000 persons. The present population is 320,000.

The respectable prohibitionists are talking of starting another newspaper in Toronto to counteract the pernicious effect of W. W. Buchanan's Liberator.

The King had doubtless suffered a great deal before such a large personal absence formed. He here appeared manfully hoping to see the Coronation ceremony through.

The administration of oxygen and the injection of glonoin (nitro-glycerine), the most powerful heart stimulant known to the medical profession, are indications of the serious character of the King's illness.

If the King's surgeons would give the public bulletins of the King's temperature, pulse and respiration, physicians the world over would feel better pleased. As it is the assurances so frequently given that "under the circumstances the case is satisfactory" are extremely vague, and admit of much reservation.

It seems probable that the term of compulsory military service in France will soon be increased from two to two years. This is a clear gain to the nation in the very serious matter of take three years out of the life of a youth, when he should be qualifying for the real work of life. Civilian France will yet emancipate itself from the thrall of modern militarism. The Dreyfus case revelations did much to prepare the people for the work.

The Synod of Huron declares for the adoption of some system of public ownership by which competition would be removed, saloons become houses of refreshment, salaries reduced to a fixed salary, and a percentage of the profits from food, but not from alcoholic beverages, it also deprecated the treating habit. The synod sees the evil of that part of the Gothenburg system which gives an incentive to decrease the salaries of the employees. Municipal ownership plan involving that will prove satisfactory.

President Mitchell, of the Mine Workers' Association, in his statement of the men's case, shown conclusively that while the cost of mining has increased 13 cents a ton, the coal losses have changed the public 20cents a ton more, so that instead of losing by the increase of cost of mining, the coal barons have made a profit of nine cents. The miners work 240 days' work a year, and few average $300 a year in earnings. It needs no argument to show that they are underpaid as much as the public are over charged. What a pity that they take the mines into their own control!

The question is often asked, "Where are the boys? Where are they spending their evenings?" The Watertown Times says it is high time parents set forth to ask, "Where are the girls? Where do they spend their evenings? What are their habits?" The girls need looking after. The cigarette is the first step to the downward career, the others follow naturally and rapidly. Go to a large city and visit the opium dens, where the victim is smoked into the morning and it is at night. Ask the young women to be proud three times around the appetite for the pipe and they will tell you it was the cigarette. Watch the girl.

Dr. McKay told the Liberals of South Oxford last meeting that to seek that his defeat was not due to lack of exertion on his part. He had been assured that he lost the votes of 500 Liberal Prohibitionists; he has the support of the liquor men as well on account of his refusal to pledge himself to follow the course that they asked. He said he could prove that many Liberals went into the riding by such men as Sifton, Walker Corby and Cockburn to fight him! What a combination that equal the prohibitionists in zeal and hankering and with the distilleries of Gooderham and Worts and the Tories will now, we suppose, be content with such support as that. Whitney may choose to give them on the referendum vote. They have earned their bed.

Though the judges of the Court of Appeal in Ontario are considered as strong and impartial a bench as there is in Canada, there is generally quite a little manœuvring to get a certain judge for a special situation. For instance, in the Lennox election appeal the Conservatives hoped to gain the seat because the evident intention of the disputed ballots favors their side, they say, and they bring the appeal before Judge Meredith, who has a reputation for dealing with the merits and equity of the case rather than with the strict interpretation of precedent and statute. On the other hand, in the East Middlesex case, where the Conservatives can only gain through a flaw and a strict reading of the technical directions, the appeal is sought before Judge Osler, who is more particular on the technical interpretation of the law. The benefit a man's name is quite a factor in judicial as well as other decisions.

Who furnished the Tories with the cash to be used in the last two elections? Perhaps the courts will discover the good (?) angel.

The Ontario medical council wants the Legislature to change the law so as to enable it to prosecute osteopaths and those who give electrical treatments.

When a sick man begins to hankey for his tobacco, he's all right. The statement that King Edward asked for a cigar and smoked it is worth a whole column of descriptive outlines.

Nat Shad, a full-blooded negro, has been elected a member of the N. W. T. Legislature. He is the first of his race to be elected to a legislative body in Canada.

Belleville Ontario: The Intelligencer expects that Hon. Geo. W. Ross because he was not knighted, it is nothing to the Premier's discredit; Wilfrid Mackenzie Bowell was given a title. It caused a big sensation, he was rewarded for merit. But the old chap likes to tackle over it.

King Edward is thoughtful even in his suffering. He wants the poor to have the dinner promised them.

The profits of the Hudson's Bay Company this year were more than double those of the previous year. Land was in good demand and the price of furs was high. This is the growing time.

In 1871 the British nation passed through a similar period of suspense to that which is now experienced upon when King Edward, then Prince of Wales, lay for weeks dangerously ill with typhoid fever at Sandringham. He and Lord Chesterfield were both taken ill at Sandringham, Norfolk shire; Lord Chesterfield died, and the King lived.

—Belleville Daily Ontario We heartily agree with the protest which some of our contemporaries raise against the Duke of Marlborough succeeding Lord Minto as Governor-General of Canada. It has not been yet officially decided upon but the name of the Duke has been mentioned in such a test cannot be made too soon. Up to the present Canada has been accustomed to seeing men in the position, and we don't want a little wind-off youth even he has a big title.

The new soldiers on the pirates are building on money houses that the Rat Portage saw mills are busy night and day turning out lumber. The Canadian Pacific has secures back freight for its cranes which is far more profitable than building "supplies." Stewart Lyon has decided that Canada will have forty million inhabitants in the year 2000, and the majority of them will be located west of Lake Superior.

The glory of the capture of Manila has departed. In his testimony before the Senate Philippines Committee Admiral Dewey made the positive statement that Manilla surrendered to him at the time he sank the Spanish fleet, and that he would have occupied the city at once had he had the 5,000 troops on garrison it. When finally the actual surrender was made Admiral Dewey was in ignorance of the prearranged plan The Spanish commander demanded the surrender of a city attack to satisfy his ideas of honor. Yet in that attack ERA X, soldiers were killed and forty-five wounded.

Speaking of the failure of the compulsory arbitration experiment in Australia, Goldwin Smith says it is clear that it was easy to foresee such a result. How could anybody manage to compel employers to pay wages by judicial decision irrespective of the fluctuations of the labor market and of changes in the profits of trade? By what legal process could an employer be compelled to continue giving wages which he could not afford to give, or an artisan be compelled to work for nothing for wages than he could obtain elsewhere? Mechanics may be profitably employed when the temper of the employers and the employed is such that the public will accept the joint view of their mutual interests has likely been obtained. But compulsory arbitration is impracticable, as this experiment in New Zealand has shown. Australia is the phrase of a well-meaning administration. Happy, young youthful nations, if they can afford the risk, and we may learn wisdom from the result of their experiments.

Like other evils cramps and diarrhoea come suddenly. Promptly give a dose of Perry Davis' Pain-Killer and the pains will go immediately. A bottle in the hand will save hours of suffering—be prepared.

The Small of the Back

That is where some people feel weak all the time.

They are likely to be despondent and it is not unusual to find them borrowing trouble as if they hadn't enough already.

The fact is their kidneys are weak, either naturally or because of sickness, exposure, worry or other influences.

"I was taken ill with a kidney trouble," writes Mrs Thomas Hall, of Brockville, Ont., "and became so weak I could scarcely get around. I had headache, and cramps in my stomach, and my food did not digest. I took medicine without benefit, and finally decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. After the first bottle I felt so much better I continued its use and six bottles made me a new woman."

A REMARKABLE BALLY

King Shows the Recuperative Powers of Man Not Half His Age.

London, June 30—There is no reason to doubt that the King has astonished his physicians by his recuperative powers. The grave operation performed only six days ago, has had no unfavorable effect on his constitution and a high recuperative power, which is usually found in a man of half his years.

The rapidity of his progress thus far is so remarkable that entirely the idea generally held that his manner of life had placed his vitals so vitally below that of most men of his years. It is unreasonable, of course, to jump at the conclusion of the Brittish Monarch's ultimate recovery, but it is already assured. Such confidence will be unjustifiable for a considerable time, but the signs are so decided officially whether a second operation will be necessary to give strength to his been fully restored.

The wound has healed with less incident, and there were fewer watchers outside Buckingham Palace. Yesterday other night since the operation, the public apparently having accepted the official announcement that King Edward has passed the point of immediate danger.

The bulletin issued yesterday morning at 10 o'clock was expectantly read till 10 o'clock, consequently the few persons who were passing at that time were the only ones attracted to the announcement. When the footmen posted the notice, however, the crowds soon increased, early churchgoers stopping to read the latest news and passing with expressions of thankfulness.

Sunday has again been a day of international service for the recovery of King Edward throughout the Kingdom. In the morning a vast throng of the general public gathered at St. Paul's Cathedral. Besides the Lord Mayor and representative gathering of Government and municipal officials and uniformed colonial officers. The Duke and Duchess of Connaught, and Princess Louise and Lord and Lady Lansdowne, sat under the dome. An impressive service was conducted by the Bishop of Stepney, the Right Rev. Cosmo Gordon Lang, and the sermon on the whole audience sang "God Save the King."

Queen Alexandra, the Prince of Wales, and almost all the other members of the royal family now in London attended a similar morning service in Westminster House Chapel, while there was a large gathering of royal personages at a service held at noon in the Chapel Royal at St. James' Palace.

Sir Francis Knollys, the King's Private Secretary, the Right Hon. Sir Dighton MacNaghten Probyn, Keeper of the Privy Purse and Extra Equerry to the King and Queen, the entire royal household, attended the service in Westminster House Chapel and the Queen, who had not Ingham Palace since the King was previously left the precincts of Windsor Castle, received a most sympathetic greeting. The public was delighted with such evidence of the King's continual improvement.

Throughout the United Kingdom all religious denominations made similar intercessions for the Sovereign's recovery. Marquis Vai, the Papal Envoy to the coronation of King Edward, conducted a service in Brompton Oratory yesterday afternoon, his congregation including Sir Wilfrid and Lady Laurier and other Canadians.

Buckingham Palace wore a queer appearance yesterday. Only for a week past, and the constant coming and going of royalty and attendants vehicles bore testimony to the feeling of increased confidence that the King would recover. In the afternoon a party of princesses drove to Shaw House, Richmond, and the Prince and Princess of Wales paid a long visit to Buckingham Palace. Last evening the Queen and the Royal ladies dined within sight of the public through the windows in front of the palace, thousands of people being gathered in the space in front of the building.

The King yesterday was again sufficiently transferred from his bed to a couch.

Several postponed functions are being arranged. Lord and Lady Lansdowne announce that their reception will be held July 1. The King has commanded that the Prince and Princess of Wales shall represent Their Majesties at the India Office reception to be held July 9.

Lord Cranbourne authorizes the following announcement:

The King is rapidly getting better, and he moves, therefore, seems most appropriate for public rejoicing. No chairman of the Bonfires committee, I suggest, that bonfires throughout the country be lighted Monday night.

THE CORONATION.

An Invitation From Queen Alexandra Indicates Event in September.

London, June 30—According to The Daily Mail from Copenhagen says that Queen Alexandra has invited the deputation of Danish Princesses to return to London the end of September for the coronation of the King.

Tribute From France.

Paris, June 30—Gen. de Gillifat, the ex-Minister of War, has written to Lord Cranbourne, expressing extremely sympathetic letter on King Edward, which concludes:

"We cannot forget what he did during the Franco-Prussian war for relieving our sick and wounded. To him, as to his august mother, we should remain grateful. Moreover, whatever it was a question of good and noble action, he, as Prince of Wales, was always powerfully seconded by his charming consort, Princess Alexandra. In this domain she reigned over hearts as Queen Victoria, Queen Alexandra, the pearl of England."

EXPLOSION SHOOK THE TOWN.

Stick of Dynamite Thrown Over Stockade of Coal Mine.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., June 30—Shortly after midnight Saturday night a dynamite bomb or a stick of dynamite was thrown over the stockade at the William A. colliery of the Lackawanna Valley Coal Company at Dupont. There was an explosion which shook the town. The guards were near by and no one was injured, but none of the buildings was damaged. Several shots were heard after the explosion. Owing to the fear of mob violence no arrests were made up to out until morning. The guards report that the stockade ready to repel any attack.

Work was commenced this morning on the North Branch mining colliery under the guard of fifty Coal and Iron police behind the stockade constructed barricades.

The strike has now lasted seven weeks, and the general losses are estimated at $40,000,000

Presbyterian Gathering.

Toronto, June 30—At Osgoode Hall, on Saturday, Judge Maclennan dismissed the appeal from the return of R. E. Truax, the successful Liberal candidate for Middlesex East, and, accordingly, the seat is safe for the Hon. Ross Gibson.

A protest has been filed against J. Tucker in West Wellington. The petitioners are John Richardson, R. E. Johnson and Dan Williams, and the usual charges are made.

Lost From Training Ship.

Queenstown, June 30—The United States training ship Monongahela arrived here today. She experienced terrible weather. On June 17, a boy of the name of Stephens was washed overboard and drowned. Boats were lowered and attempts made to save him, but they were unsuccessful.

Dr. Potts Will Get Up.

Denver, Col., June 30—Rev. Dr. Potts, of Toronto, will probably be the speaker at the Sunday International S.S. Lesson Committee.

Bridge Collapsed Under Crusher.

The County stone-crusher and engine, which were going to Bobcaygeon to do some work on that village, met with a mishap at Sheriff's Creek June 26th, and as a result the crusher is lying in about four feet of mud and water. It was being taken across the creek, supposedly a creek, when the structure gave way, in the centre and the crusher went through. The team of horses, driver and engine got over in safety. The bridge had been reported to be dangerous for traffic, but was repaired lately.

Intercessory Service.

Instead of Coronation services held last St. Pius Pabacuch June 29th at 4 o'clock, there was an intercessory service of prayer for King Edward. Owing to the disagreeable weather the attendance was small, only about 30 parishioners being present. The service was very impressive. Hymn 38 was sung at the close of prayer to the tune first sung in as follows: 'Great King of nations, hear our prayer, while at thy feet we fall, and humbly, with united cry, we cries for mercy call." Rev. Mr. Marsh made a few remarks touching on His Majesty's illness, and hoped that Providence would spare him to rule over the British Empire for many years to come.

The Weekly Post.

THE HEALTH OF LINDSAY.

Since our last issue The Post has has been very severely criticised in editorial and editorial calling attention to the outbreak of scarlet fever and the inefficient means being adopted by the Board of Health to cope with the disease. For the publication of that article we have no apology to offer—the facts as presented to us by reputable citizens, the assurance made at the behated Board of Health meeting that a number of medical men were not complaining with the law, and strong evidence of unfairness in the matter of disparaging, all combined to foster a feeling of alarm as to the possible consequences in case the expected extremely hot weather set in, when it would be almost impossible to keep children indoors. Under such favoring conditions the infection would certainly have spread, with great rapidity, and instead of only 18 houses being placarded there might have been 100 in the course of a week.

Luckily the expected hot spell did not set in, and the energetic measures promptly adopted by the Board Health as a result of the warning articles in The Post and Watchman-Warder have accomplished the desired end. To-day the town is practically free from scarlet fever; seven or eight houses are still placarded, but the patients are convalescent and are only awaiting the expiry of the legal term of seclusion to mingle with the public as formerly. Mumps, other infectious disease of any kind exists in the town.

It is to be regretted that the general public is prone to exaggeration in the case of contagious diseases. The Post and Watchman-Warder, in the articles in question, gave the correct number of houses placarded, and stated in the plainest language that only children were being attacked. This explanation was misinterpreted by many, and absurd rumors were put in circulation. These reports had been flying about for several weeks previous to the appearance of the newspaper articles, and were a result of the manner communicated by visitors owing to the outbreak being in a locality subject to excitement among our citizens. The press comments should not, and do not, result in or to the presence of diphtheria and the alarming number of deaths, but probably did so in many instances. The unpleasant experience should give a good effect for good. Board of Health. That which has occurred may happen again at any time. The community of 7,000 people, located, closely together, is subject to visits from a few cases of contagious disease, and knowing that this place was not alarmed the Board of Health and the town physician should act in concert for its control. During the past outbreak the Medical Health Officer felt it incumbent to offer some excuses for doctors who did not comply with the law. In such a case the public demand protection, but excuses, and if Dr. McAlpine cannot or does not wish to afford that protection he should resign his office. It is hideous and ridiculous—and really our business men—to devote a little more of their attention to Board of Health affairs, and the Council should be made to realize that an isolation hospital is a pressing necessity.

THE POLITICAL OUTLOOK IN ONTARIO

In the recent election both political parties displayed rare ability, but that the greater ability was on the side of the Liberals goes without saying. In the person of the Premier, Hon. G. W. Ross, the Liberals had one of the very ablest men in all Canada as their leader, and were it not for the long time the Liberals have been in power, would undoubtedly have won the Premiership. But notwithstanding the long term in office the Liberals would have had a clear majority of ten but for the triangular contests in London and South Wellington, and the Prohibition candidate in South Oxford. In a political contest on the record of the Government the Liberals would carry these three ridings by large majorities. Ten would have been considered a very decisive majority.

It is a well known fact that the Conservative party went into the fight equipped with men and money as has rarely been the case in a provincial contest. It is pretty well known and generally believed that they had a campaign fund of almost—if not quite—$200,000. This very large amount of money enabled the party to go into the contest with every prospect of success, hence the enthusiasm manifested in the early part of the fight. That enthusiasm was infused into their following throughout the Province. On the other hand, the Liberals were actually handicapped for funds, having scarcely enough to pay for the printing of their campaign literature, and in every other election occur anywhere in the near future Mr. Whitney might not be able to command such large sums of money, while the Liberals would not be any worse off than before.

Mr. Whitney indulged in a tremendous amount of investments during the campaign. No form of abuse was too bad to heap upon the heads of the Liberal leaders and the Liberal party. Misrepresentation and misrepresentation are sins for which Mr. Whitney has an affinity. For example, at his Massey Hall meeting at Toronto, on his return from New Ontario, he cited but three men who wanted the Ross Government maintained—and they were three Irishmen—and he did not mention the public everywhere that he would have an increased majority.

The elections are over, but at the byelections Mr. Whitney will suffer for his folly. He is now on the wane, and the most likely he supplanted by some other leader before another general election. Hon. G. W. Ross will continue to grow in the public estimation. He is a statesman, temperate in all he does and says. He is surrounded by a Cabinet of progress. Let development be their watchword for the next four years. We have the finest and healthiest Province in the world. Let us develop it—do not leave the work or the next generation to carry out. Let us continue with unabated vigor the progress and absurd rumors were put

ABOUT ROAD MAKING.

The annual report of A. W. Campbell, Road Commissioner, is to hand, and contains much information and instruction. It looks as if the majority of the township in Victoria do not want a county system, and what Mr. Campbell says on this point will be interesting. Among the benefits to be derived from a County system he says:

All the expenditure placed on roads would be spent in a manner which would be of much more a great measure to those who contributed it in the first place, together with the provincial grants.

Under county control a properly organized corps of men can be employed to build and repair the roads, at an other employments they become experienced and no better work, and the matter of repairs are ready to make them as soon as signs of wear appear.

By a county plan uniformity of work and system will be secured throughout the various municipalities. Under township control a diversity of plans is certain to be adopted.

The county plan exp rienced and properly qualified man can be employed to have constant supervision of the work, whereas under township control each municipality cannot afford to pay the salary of such a man. Under every good system it is necessary to have responsibility centralized, and not have it divided and easily shifted from one to another, as it now be under the statute labor system.

Under county control modern machinery, too expensive for individual ownership, can be purchased and handled to advantage, as experienced operator can be employed for such plant, and hence a better and more uniform class of work will be secured.

A township can manage its roads properly only by adopting a plan similar to that outlined under a county system, but by extending it over the county it becomes more cheaply operated.

It is urged that, while there may be some feeling adverse to township parting with the control of any of their roads, it is nevertheless impossible for a township to equitably do the case of heavily travelled roads, to levy the necessary taxation equitably, or employ the most economical and at the same time serviceable system. The trend of opinion has turned towards collecting the most important roads of each county, placing them under the management of the County Council. It has been shown that by such a means road making can be placed on a more businesslike basis, and consequently greater efficiency is secured, and a much more equitable system of levying the cost, for a better use of modern machinery, and for a higher grade of overall and workmanship. At the present time, township councils are unable to obtain the results the statute labor, and are in consequence compelled to make annual appropriations of money from the general tax. This money is in the main, spent on the roads which would comprise a county system, but on account of the contracted character of the township system township councils cannot expect to enjoy the expenditures to the greatest advantage.

A greater cost to the individual citizen need not be forced, as no greater road mileage is to be maintained. The effort of a county system is merely to group the most heavily travelled roads under one management, where they can be most economically maintained.

The chief points in the systems of road management in township where improved results have been adopted include the following:

Statute labor is commuted at a fixed rate per day, and the amount is collected at the same time as the other taxes by the township tax collector.

The township, if deemed, is divided into a convenient number of good divisions for road purposes, usually two, three or four, and a road commissioner is appointed over each.

The duties of the road commissioner are:

(a) To supervise all work and repairs done on the roads and bridges within his division.

(b) To acquaint himself with the best methods of constructing and maintaining good roads, and of operating engines and other road machinery used by the township.

(c) To employ, direct and discharge all the men and teams required to carry on the work, and to purchase necessary materials.

(d) To see that all washouts, drain and culvert obstructions, slippery fields and other unforeseen defects are repaired or protected with the least possible delay, to prevent further injury to the road, or accident to the users of the road, and to otherwise act promptly in all cases of emergency.

(e) To report to the Council early in each year as to the work required the coming season, and to carry out the instructions of the Council with regard to the work, and perform such other services as may be required of him from time to time, under the written instructions of the Council.

(f) To collect the road tax in his division.

(g) To keep an accurate record of the men employed and the work done, and to furnish his written report to the Council at proper intervals in order that the receive, upon being satisfied as to the accuracy thereof, the statement may issue cheques in payment thereof.

(h) To carry out all works and see that they are undertaken systematically, so that no time will be lost in taking men and teams from one job to another.

The usual road appropriation is made from the general funds of the township, this to be used for the purchase of tools, machinery and materials, or for small jobs and contracts.

The residents of the township are employed to do the work, provided they come properly equipped, and will do a fair amount of work.

Work is paid for in cash, if desired, but preferably by cheque; payment to be made at intervals with the pay roll submitted by the road commissioners or overseer, accompanied by necessary vouchers, the road commission as may be considered necessary.

A general plan for road improvement should be laid down by the council for the commissioner to follow.

This plan should specify the which to be graded, width and depth of road metal, character of drainage, etc., of all roads.

Roads of importance should not be less than twenty-four feet between the inside edges of the open ditches. No roads should be of less width than eighteen feet.

All road making machines should be under the care of the road commissioner.

The same men and teams should be hired to operate the machinery for the entire season, as they become proficient and do better work. This applies particularly to the operation of a road grader.

The council appoints foreman in different parts of the township to collect the necessary labor, and act promptly when the roads are blocked with snow, the men employed to be paid in cash by the council.

Another point he discusses, is the question of "dirt road, and on page 43, he says:

Nearly all roads in Ontario have at one time been dirt roads, and in the process of evolution some have become gravel or broken stone roads. A dirt road nicely crowned and well drained is a good road for a time, in addition on which to place a layer of gravel. A driveway which has passed through an opposite stage of a macadamized road, and has, during that time, had due attention given to its drainage requirements, will have developed the points at which open drains, culverts and under drains are most needed. With these provided gravel may be applied to the best advantage. The little wear to which they are subjected, however rendering their maintenance very simple will make the time required for their improvement comparatively short.

These dirt roads are very much abused by the road makers. With each year's statutory labor, and, regulated by rules and statutes as laid down, the centre of the road to be mixed with mud during the fall rains. For six months of the year it is dried in, if a or good a driveway as could be desired for light travel. In order to extend its usefulness the greatest care must be taken to see that drains and culverts are placed wherever needed, and that they are always in perfect working order. It should be crowned, or rounded up, so as to shed the water, freely to the side ditches and in making this crown, no sod or vegetable mold should be carefully excluded. A great deal of injury is done by the kind of work, for instance in grading machine along the edges bringing loose stones and sod to the surface, which should be thrown outwards and across the open drain. Underdrains should be used judiciously, while a complete system may not be needed, tile drains should be laid in places where the water does not leave the side of the road early in the spring or wherever the ground appears to be continually damp. If open drains are kept in good working order and all culverts and drains kept crowned, its condition in fall and spring will indicate the points at which tile drainage is most needed.

LOCAL BREVITIES

—July made a good start in the weather line Tuesday, but appears to be good and hot yet.

—A son of Mr. Moses Bonnell, while playing in the back yard at his home on Adelaide-st. afternoon, accidentally fell and broke his left arm. Dr. Jeffers set the fracture.

—All law offices in Lindsay will be closed at one o'clock on Thursday, and at three o'clock on every other day except Saturday during July and August.

—The sale of household, furniture effects to be held Saturday next, July 5th, at Mr. R. B. Allan's residence has been cancelled for the present.—Adv.

—The union excursion and picnic of Cambridge-st. and Queen-st. Methodist Sunday Schools, which was to take place on the 3rd inst., instead of Thursday, has been postponed indefinitely.

—Every sort of craft that would float was made use of on July 1st by visitors who took a rare day for a trip up or down the river, with a bit of fishing thrown in, and it is estimated that fully 500 persons spent the day on the water.

—Much sympathy is expressed by friends here for Mr. Michael Devey, whose wife passed away on Tuesday morning. The deceased, who was a daughter of Mr. Thos. Cuff, of the north ward, was much respected by a large circle of friends. The funeral took place on Saturday to the Roman Catholic cemetery.

—The stock of the Raven Lake Ice Company, which is managed by Mr. John McDonald, of this town, is largely interested, will shortly be placed on the market. Raven Lake is situated in Dalesy township, about 1 1-2 miles from Victoria Road. The ice is much superior to that of the lake and the facilities are such that they cost of production will be only about one-half that of other companies.

—Belleville aldermen appear to be gifted with some common sense. During a discussion on the street repairing the other day the attitude of the Board of Works was referred to the condition of the roadway on some of the side streets, the City Fathers not responsible for the streets reply that they had enough to do in the matter of fixing side streets when the leading thoroughfares are in such condition in order that visitors and commercial men may not carry away with them a poor impression of the town. Good roads are a necessity, and the worst side to the transient visitor, and from a commercial standpoint it is improvident to let William-sts. in the town have the appearance of a bog rather than for its manufactories and superb location.

A Commercial Education.

A commercial people, in a commercial country, with commercial needs, requires a commercial education adapted to the requirements of the Federal College as the best place to secure it. The new catalogue will be opened in Lindsay in September.—(2w).

A Dominion Day Accident.

Master Earle Hopkins, aged seven year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Henley, of the north ward, was the victim of an accident on Dominion Day, about 5.30, and as a result he received injuries which will confine him to his home for a period of three weeks or more. The little fellow was hooked down and run over, and had his ankle made a mash for liberty, racing at full as a Cambridge-st. belter, it could be stopped. The boy was picked up by Mr. E. Timms and Mr. A. Silverwood and driven in the latter's carriage to Dr. Barrow's, where his wounds were dressed. His head and face were badly cut and bruised. The horse is owned by Mr. Frimes and is a nervous animal. Mr. Meehan says he tried to stop the team, and he could hardly cut and child and hurry him to a doctor, but it was impossible to bring the animal to a standstill.

MERRY WEDDING BELLS.

Morrison—Morrison.

—A very pretty wedding took place at 6o'clock Monday morning at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Morrison, Victoria-st., when their second daughter Mary Ethel, was married to Mr. Robert Morrison, of Sault Ste. Marie. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. W. Manning, B.A.

The bride looked charming attired in a gown of pearl grey with satin and chiffon trimmings and hat to match. The bridesmaids were Misses Nellie Hagar and Lizzie Caughlin. Mr. Ab Neilly, of Norwood, assisted the groom.

After the usual congratulations had been extended to the happy couple a wedding dejeuner was served, after which the bridal couple left on the 6w o'clock train for eastern points. On their return they will reside at Sault Ste. Marie. The Post and their many friends wish Mr. and Mrs Morrison a happy married life.

Short—Bowes.

On Wednesday, the 2nd inst. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bowes, Oakwood, was the scene of a happy event when their daughter Lottie, was united in marriage to Mr. Charles Short, of Kingston. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. G. R. Clare, of the Methodist church, and only the immediate relatives were present.

While the strains of the wedding march were being played the bride entered the room leaning on the arm of her father, who gave her away. She looked charming in a gown of mousseline de soie trimmed with silver sequins in the very latest fitts, and wore a tulle veil with octagon bonnet and lilies of the valley, caught in the centre with a handsome pearl crescent. She carried a bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Irene Thompson, of Woodville, looked charming in a gown of white organdie over silver silk and insertion, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. J. L. Spence, bell, also of Woodville, officiated as groomsman.

The groom's gift to the bride was a pearl necklace, while to the bridesmaid and groomsman he gave pearl pins. The nuptial knot was tied at 4 o'clock, and after which there was served Mr. and Mrs. Short left on the evening train for their home in Kingston, the bride wearing a navy blue suit with white silk waist and picture hat.

Among the many beautiful presents was a handsome case of carvers bestowed by the groom's friends in the firm for which Mr. Short is travelling.

No. 1, held their annual picnic in Ferrie's grove, in spite of the unfavorable weather in the morning about four hundred persons assembled on the grounds and Uncle Tom's Cabin presented in every way a success. Among the attractions of the afternoon was a cance race which was very much enjoyed, Mr. F. Roach coming out victorious.

Cricket Notes.

—The Peterboro Colts failed to play the L.C.I. team here Tuesday. The date—July 1st—for a match with Peterboro had been set for two months, yet Peterboro neither came nor said any word to the effect of not coming. All arrangements for the match, the participation of the bat and ball so kindly donated by Mr J. C. Grace had been made, and the action of the Peterboro Colts is very unpleasant. A game equal equally have been arranged with a Toronto club to play here on the first had word been sent. Lindsay has visited Peterboro in regard to dates for games all year, and not after this has been done Peterboro has acted in this very queer manner.

A Surprised Doctor

SAID A CASE OF ST. VITUS DANCE COULD NOT BE CURED.

Called One Day and Found the Patient Running and Playing Ball. That Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Had Succeeded Where Other Medicines Had Failed.

The sufferer from St. Vitus' dance, often finds her case pronounced hopeless by the physicians, and the disease is usually so helpless as one infant, that she is to witness with much horror. St. Vitus' dance is a disease of the nerves, and it is very difficult to cure them, and for this purpose there is no medicine available in the world so speedily as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Such a case is found in the cure of Miss Louise Laffman, Kitchener, Ont., a resident of Waterloo. Mr. Who was cured by these pills after many doctors had failed to benefit her in the least. The young lady's friends were much alarmed at her daughter's illness as follows: "I do not think it possible anyone could be afflicted with a more severe case of St. Vitus dance than that which attacked my daughter Louise. Her arms and legs would twitch and shake and jerk in spite of herself, and her left side became numb as though paralyzed. These symptoms attended her, but their treatment not only did not do her but her condition grew worse. Her tongue became swollen so that she could hardly speak, and she could neither sit still nor stand still. She could not hold anything in her hand and it was necessary to feed her. Her friends thought we feared she would injure herself. The best doctor who attended her (with me she would never get better, and I had given up hope of her recovery Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After she had taken two boxes we could see an improvement in her condition and one day the doctor who had said she could not get better called while passing and found her resting—something she had not been able to do for months. I told him it was Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that was curing her and he said, 'Well, I am surprised, but continue the pills; they will cure her.' She used in all eight or nine boxes and is now as healthy a girl as you will find anywhere, and she has not since had a symptom of the trouble."

If you are weak and ailing; if your nerves are tired and worn out, your blood is out of condition you will be wise to use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which are an unfailing cure for all such troubles. Insist on having what you get the genuine, with the full name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," on the wrapper around each box. If your dealer offers imitations or sent post paid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing direct to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

LIFE IN SOUTH AMERICA

MR. CLYDE GREGORY'S IMPRESSION OF CARACAS, VENEZUELA.

Corpus Christi Procession an Interesting Sight—The City, Built of Cement, Nestles in a Hollow Among high Mountains—Remarkable Beauty of the Spanish Women

The following letter from Mr. Clyde Gregory, now in Caracas, Venezuela, written soon after his arrival to his brother, Mr. A. E. Gregory, drugist, will be read with interest by many friends. Clyde has been in the employ of the Stirling Boiler Works Co., Charlerton, O., for the past several years as mechanical engineer, and early in May was commissioned to proceed to Venezuela as the company's resident agent, with headquarters in Caracas.

Grand Hotel, Venezuela.
Plaza Bolivar, Caracas, May 29.

My Dear Ed.—Just across the road from me is a Catholic church, eight or ten bells. Each bell has a rope attached to it, and to each rope a man. And each man is trying to see who can make the most noise in the shortest time. I think the big crackbell bell takes the prize. Some days are right opposite my window, about fifty yards away. To-day is a feast day, "Corpus Christi." The plaza opposite the hotel is decorated with flags and I believe the church is to have big doings after a while. Those bells have been going since yesterday at noon, ringing in time was every half hour for ten minutes as if there were an hundred fires or an revolutionists were Attacking the Town.

Thank goodness, they let up about ten o'clock last night and did not start till a quarter to nine.

I had a drive about the city yesterday, I can't say it is a pretty city, but it is certainly very curious. The roads are very bad condition, and driving is no pleasure. The houses are nearly all built of a peculiar kind of cement, half mud and half stone, with a flat roof. The general effect is a reddish-yellowish tinge, and houses are scattered thick with which the town is surrounded. The town is situated in a little hollow among the hills, 5,000 feet above the sea, and I was twice as the crow flies from La Guayra, but through pass travel 28 miles on the German railway to get there. Just to the north of us I suppose 6,000 feet high stands Caracas. The other hills around us are very from that to 2,000 feet higher than that. The road winds the highest peak 9,000 feet above sea level. I think the town is most remarkable for the number of its churches. Every street leads to a church, and each church has its festivals and days.

Just now the Plaza Bolivar is alive with people ready to see the procession. The spanish beauty is there, with her mantilla, in all her finery. Some of the women are very beautiful. This is the first time I have seen any of these spanish girls out, almost every house is offering one than through the barred windows half I don't mean looking the street, and sometimes they come out and talking to them, but they were all, they are, very strong against being seen and usually there was the father or brother hovering about. It must be hard to make love under those conditions. It is not the thing to be seen talking in a room and some one outside talking to the young lady. All the houses have barred windows and one entrance, and usually a gate.

The largest percentage of the people are black, I believe more by fancy it is a representative Caracas group—colored black, white, and a mixture of white with either. The ladies are very fond of green and in place, in all the colors of the rainbow, and the most of them are fat. The mixture of colors is very pretty, and with the fat it looks a little funny. I think I am going to be very much taken up with the Spanish girls. I'm getting quite fond of them, and it's 6 o'clock and it is now 10.30.

May is supposed to be one of the hottest months here, but I do not believe it is much more than 80 degrees, and it must be delightfully cool for Canada, in the winter months.

The Procession

has just passed and the bells are still ringing. They came up now in again to give the last blast before the start. The procession was rather impressive. First came a number of speckled mongrels, followed by about then some priests in all sorts of garbs, from white to green and red, and came some small boys with altar bells. Then came a long line of white-robed sisters, beginning in front of "church dignitaries" walking under a canopy. After them the band, and then a large crowd, packed as close as they could be from side to side of the roadway. It was quite a big description of it. I think that Cathy Gregory would be interested in his Eternal City, only it was in Rome, not Caracas.

I am going down on the street and Plaza now to mingle with the people and get a closer look at the fresh spanish girls.—Your affectionate brother, CLYDE.

P.S.—Where I sat down stairs I found the people very fond of hearing their prayers, and the procession went just going into the Cathedral. I wondered in and out among the crowd and then over to the church and looked up the nave. The singing and the music was the best I've heard since leaving Chicago.—C.

Purchased the Bennett House.

Mr. Hiram Jewett, who for many years has been connected with the Snowden house, Peterboro, has purchased the Bennett house, Kingston. This hotel is the leading one in that village and has a large patronage. Under Mr. Jewett's management the house will be greatly improved, and will make equal to any hotel in the district. Mr. Jewett's Lindsay friends will wish him the success. He is a prominent Oddfellow, and is occupied every position in the gift of the Peterboro brethren.

Saturday's Market.

The market was well attended last Saturday and the various offerings were quickly disposed of. Prices were the quotations: Butter 16c to 17c, per lb. eggs 13c to 15c, per doz. chickens 75c, per pair, ducks 75c to 80c, per pair, turkeys 12c to 13c per lb. hay $7 to $8, straw 75c, to 12c per lb., potatoes 75c to 80c per bag, new potatoes $1 to $2 per pair and potatoes $1 per bag.

May Enlarge the Church.

The board of management of the Cambridge-st. Methodist church have had plans drawn up with a view to altering and enlarging the present edifice. The plans will be submitted this week for the consideration of the board. The proposed improvements, as advocated by some of the trustees, include the building of a new stoneroom and enlarging the seating capacity of the church by extending the building westerly.

How He Announced It.

There was a minister in a little Nebraska town who had two matters which were very close to his heart. He had prayed long and earnestly that the mortgage of the church might be paid off and that he might have a son and heir. Not long ago a boy came to gladden his heart and home, and on the same day the rich man of the village handed over $3,000 with which to pay off the church debt.

The town was wild with enthusiasm over the double event, and their hearts fairly made up to which subject was uppermost in their minds, but which he would refer to first in his sermon on the following Sunday. The eventful day arrived, and excitement ran high. There was an expectant hush when the minister entered the pulpit.

"My friends," he said, "you know what has been close to my heart for many years, and you know of the joyful happenings of the past week and now, my friends, I want you to join with me in thanking God for the soncer that has been sent us." And then all bets were off.

Use of Space

The merchant who thinks he cannot afford to pay for a large space in the paper, and therefore stays out of the columns altogether is making a great mistake. Some of the business done being done to-day is done in small spaces. Of course the man who wants his advertisement to cover a great deal and does not see his way clear to spend a great deal for the space he is using, will naturally think if he can some other way to make his advertisement attract attention. It may be a clever phrase which arests the attention, it may be a novelty put out which brings out the quality of the goods, it may be only a heavy border or a striking type style. It is true that every man could have some distinctive feature which makes his ad. look more spacious, even though the ad. was a small one. It is frequently if the advertisers know how to gain that distinctiveness and it is frequently if he is gaining it he can do so without great additional expense. Most large advertisers see the necessity of varying something attractive, some of them have the out which multiplies the value of the space. No matter how it is done it will be possible to make the small ad. stand out so that it will attract the attention of the reader. The great necessity is to select the best way and keep pushing along that line until the public finds it natural to look for what is said, the way it is said and the way it is and seem the value of taking to heart the message contained in the announcement. There is no other method of reaching the public through an advertisement that appeals to the wants of the moment.

LOCAL BREVITIES

—Twice a fool is he who doesn't advertise and then wonders why success eludes him.

—The Kennedy & Davis Milling Co. are making alterations in the stores or built by them last season.

—The rate of interest to depositors in the post office savings bank will be reduced from 3 1-2 to 3 per cent. after July 1.

—Dr. Gillespie is building an addition on the south side of his handsome residence. The new building will be used as an office.

—The G.T.R. Library will hold their annual excursion to Lakefield, per D.T.R., on Lindsay's Civic holiday, Thursday, August 14th.

—Rev. R. Seaburn and Mr. E. C. Smyth, of Bowmanville, were in town Friday, passing through to Minden where they will spend a few weeks.

—Workmen have completed the laying of the slate roof of the new fire hall. The brick to complete the tower will be delivered about the end of the week.

—So far the small hog butcher has given very little annoyance to local log parties. The weather has not been favorable for pound in the silogather.

—The man who never dares risk a penny in advertising his goods, can generally be heard above the general uavil chorus, insisting, "Advertising doesn't pay."

—Mr. Albert Jewett has purchased a new carriage to run behind his stalwart horse. The vehicle arrived in town from the McLaughlin factory yesterday afternoon.

—Mr. Richard Kylie, of the City Carriage Works, shipped lately to a gentleman at Galesburg, one of his top-buggies. It was very much like the handsomest carriages that has been turned out by the firm for some time.

—A report from south St. Marys says that Mr. Thomas A. Edison will spend part of the summer in the region north of Bobcaygeon, fishing for nickel with the aid of a clipping. Jacobs, which he has recently purchased.

—Mr. L. W. Taylor, of the Collegiate Institute staff, has been appointed one of the examiners at the Educational Department in Toronto. Mr. Taylor will leave for the city after which he will spend the balance of the holidays at his home in Mitchell.

—Famous Falls Star: The symptoms of the cause of Fenelon Falls will go out this week to Mr. and Mrs. Louis McCormick of Lindsay, on the death of their little daughter, Laura, which took place there yesterday. She will be remembered as having taken part in the Carlers' concerts late last fall, her singing greatly delighting the audience.

—Peterboro Council has closed a contract for stone crushing at the price of $2.65 per cord. The contractor will crush screen and deliver the stone at any point within three quarters of a mile of the town yards. The town furnishes the crusher engine, fuel and stone.

—Mr. J. Lyons, Lakefield has purchased the greater portion of his stock for power at Hedley's Falls, formerly known as Campbellford, and of the Crow Bay Falls, adjoining that village. The Crow Bay Falls has a head of 70 feet and Crow Bay Falls a head of 30 feet. The two will develop 15000 h. p. in a dry season.

—Lakefield Journal: It is a report that is often heard in connection with the Kawartha Lakes, but only that—it not more a common or proverbial. Mr. Frank Langford, Bobcaygeon, Point, a village, without a hotel. Why not build a large house on a spacious lawn, fitted up in the boatbuilding style and have a wharf. Something could be done.

—A large portrait of the opportunity to have Highlands conspicuous in the exhibition in the window of Mr. Gordon's store. The Fenelon Falls boys have just completed a similar arrangement with Mr. Kylie, Bros. in Michigan, and are some forty dollars ahead of the deal, which they will join this popular community in, at Battle Creek Mich., for another season.

—Mr. C. B. Taylor is making great improvements in his handsome residence on Bond-st. When completed it will have cost, with completion of granolithic walk four feet wide half around the house from the main entrance, and the house has been lifted, new centrehall built, new Pozzoli & Maththe are putting in a system of heating, and Mr. Taylor's son is looking after the painting, graining and other necessary finishing.

—The town of Orillia has now 800 h. p. of electric energy available, as a result of the completion of its power plant at Ragged Rapids, Severn River. Over 500 h. p. has been disposed of, including a contract with the City of Toronto, and a government for lighting and the operation of pumping plants at Orillia. The annual charge will be $1440, or $18 per horse power, per year. The contract to renew already in sight as $6,000 and the terms are well satisfied with the venture.

MODERN CITY OF ZION.

HEADQUARTERS OF THE CHRISTIAN CATHOLIC CHURCH.

Description of the Unique Community Established by Rev. John Alexander Dowie.

Our readers will peruse with interest the following letter from Mr. Arthur W. Lee, formerly with J. Sutcliffe & Son, and now a member of Zion City community in Illinois, established by Rev. John Alexander Dowie:

Zion City, Illinois, June 23, '02

Dear Mr Editor,—Without going into any preliminaries, I will try and describe the location of Zion City. It is my intention to systematically write you several letters and will confine my remarks in this letter to the location and growth of this beautiful place on the western shores of Lake Michigan.

Leaving Chicago on the North-Western line you move out in a westerly direction, gradually curving for a few miles, when you are flying along due north at sixty miles an hour through beautiful parks and suburban towns all the way with the exception of a few short intervals to Zion City.

Forty-two Miles from Chicago.

Nearing the City a huge sign reads thus: "Southern Boundary of Zion City." Then about a mile further on looms up another sign thus: "Zion City, 6,500 acres."

Zion City, with its eastern borders washed for two and a half miles by the blue waters of Lake Michigan, slopes back over ten square miles of territory. Nature had already endowed the site with charming parks and slumbering ravines; the trees are nearly all oak and hickory. To attempt to go into details would be an imposition on your space, and I would surely get "snowed under." Five miles to the south of us is the City of Waukegan, with a population of twelve thousand; then, ten miles to the north is the City of Kenosha, population fifteen thousand, and with Racine, Milwaukee and Chicago all within 42 miles of us we find ourselves in the heart of a population of

When we arrived here last July what is now Zion City was a farming community, and in addition to the ordinary farm houses and outbuildings there were several other buildings, namely, a small depot, lace factory, lace operatives' home, engineers' headquarters, planing mill and small country store. These were all that decorated the imaginary streets of this destined city less than a year ago. To-day our population is nearly six thousand, hundreds of houses have been built, many of them costing thousands of dollars, we have a large brick Lace Factory covering five acres of land, which will employ thousands of hands, a Tabernacle accommodating six thousand people, a bank and general store having a frontage of two to three hundred feet and employing sixty-five hands. The power house, a very solid-looking red brick structure, has already received its first instalment of one and electricity will be freely used in Zion City. A fine large stone and brick college is in course of construction also. The Administration buildings are nearing completion, and a mammoth Hospice that will accommodate one thousand guests will be completed in less than 30 days—in good time for the Feast of Tabernacles, which begins July 12th.

Miles of streets are graded and thousands of shade trees are set out. Great boulevards 300 feet wide, running diagonally and at right angles, are being graded, with about 100 feet of the centre reserved for shade trees, shubbery and flowers. These boulevards all lead to and emanate from a common centre, where will be erected Zion Temple, which is to accommodate between thirty and fifty thousand worshippers, and to cost two million dollars.

My next letter will treat with the founder of Zion City and his object in view. Thanking you in advance,—I am, yours respectfully,

ARTHUR W. LEE.

P.S.—We have just learned that the North-Western Railroad is to begin at once and build us a depot to cost about eighty thousand dollars. They already run an excursion weekly from Chicago out here and return for twenty-five cents.—A. W. L.

A Sort of Counter Irritant.

Jones: "There seem to be smiles all over your face this morning."

"H'm!"

"And a new piano."

"Don't you believe it. The baby makes such a racket yuo can't hear the piano; the piano makes such a racket you can't hear the baby."

Newspapers and Magazines.

—What makes the happy relation between man and woman is an eternally interesting question, and a clever discussion of why marriages fail, presented by Rafford Pyke in his article, "The Woman's Side," is certain to receive the very wide consideration which has been given to that author's previous articles on the discussion of woman versus man. The July Cosmopolitan seems to be almost equally divided in interest between men and women. "An experiment in Domestic Finance" is another entirely novel article which will appeal to women, while some twenty pages devoted to the "Captains of Industry" will receive the consideration of men in all classes of business.

RESCUE OF SANFORD.

ABOUT 100 HOURS ENTOMBED.

Brave Rescuers Never Faltered in Their Self-Imposed Task of Delivering a Sorely-Threatened Fellowman From the Bosom of Mother Earth—Five Who Risked Their Lives—Sanford's Story.

Paris, June 30.—Joshua Sanford's life is no longer menaced by the old well in which he spent 100 hours. He was taken out Saturday afternoon at the conclusion of one of the most persistent battles with nature ever encountered. To-day he lies in the Skelly home, a few yards away from the scene of his remarkable adventure. With the exception of a severe cold, aching limbs, and a sore head, the young well-digger is none the worse for the peril of the past week. In fact, he declared Saturday, after being taken from the well, that he wanted to sit up and talk with his friends. This the doctors refused to permit. The physicians state, however, that he will probably be as well as usual within a week or so.

After being taken from the well and placed in a bed the young fellow sank into a sleep from which he did not awaken until Sunday morning. From the moment he was placed in bed he was carefully attended by two trained nurses. The doctors had provided all these details the day before. While his sleep was peaceful, he moaned a great deal, and several words were uttered during his slumber that indicated that his mind was still in the cavern from which he had been so miraculously rescued. He was much refreshed, however, and Sunday, partook of a light repast of eggs and toast. Then his sisters were admitted to his bedroom, and they were with him for an hour. He talked little to them, but kept his hand constantly on their faces while they sat near. The doctor had forbidden him to talk. He chafes under this restraint and insists that he is perfectly well and should be permitted to talk and eat as he wishes.

In spite of the extraordinary vitality he has exhibited through the terrible ordeal, Sanford is in a very weak condition. The doctors are a unit in the opinion that he was fast succumbing to the foul air and exhaustion incident to the mental and physical strain. He could not have stood the torture another day.

The story of the entombed man and the incidents surrounding his rescue, form one of the most amazing recitals in the history of peculiar adventures. If there is a parallel, the newspapers of the country never heard of it. Tuesday afternoon he was working around the old well, the scene of the accident. At 10 minutes to 2 he was in the hole, when the walls caved in. Work was commenced hurriedly, and kept up with the hope of rescue, until Thursday afternoon. Then another cave-in took place in the old well's surface. The tapping on the pipe from below ceased, and the people supposed the life was crushed out of Sanford. They quit work and the crowds departed.

Late in the day a farmer wandered over the spot contemplating with some interest the pile where lay buried alive a man he had known. He went close to the well and thought he heard a faint tapping from below. Listening, he was convinced that the man still lived and he rushed to town for aid. The man had evidently fainted after the second cave in, and, therefore, did not reply to the signals from above. When he revived he began to signal again, and it was this noise that again brought the rescuers to work. The work was pushed with vigor, 200 or more men working in relief gangs.

A day later, Friday, about 11 o'clock, the diggers discovered the man. Late in the afternoon they uncovered him, but his foot was held fast. It was this member that caused the most stubborn fight.

For 24 hours many men worked to release Sanford's foot. Saturday afternoon, when in the most imminent danger, the foot was suddenly released and the man hauled to the top of the well. He was safe after a hundred hours of the most agonizing torture ever endured by a human being — a torture made more refined by renewed hope, succeeded by the blackness of despair, as the well would cave in further and send the struggling man further down into the depths of the [illegible] well. The doctors even thought of administering morphine to the man and cutting off his foot, or attaching his body to the steam hoisting machinery and either pulling him from the well's grasp or pulling the foot from his body.

Joshua Sanford's release came very suddenly. A moment before, the workmen were not sure that the man's foot could be released without entombing him and those who were attempting his rescue. This was explained to the man, as he lay on his back, groaning with pain, which had come as a result of the new operations incident to running the second tunnel beneath him. The great mass above seemed to be slowly but surely pressing the life out of the man. At noon, Carnie had gone to the surface after working all night and part of the morning in the hole, and explained to John Penman, the Paris millionaire, who has been spending his money and time freely to save the man whom he had been hiring at $2 a day to dig the well in which he was entombed, that the struggle was approaching the end, and that they could never take the man from the hole alive with the plans as previously laid out. He was joined in this assertion by Messrs. Hamilton and Allen, who has been working so hard with him.

Then the work was begun, heavy timbers first being passed into the prisoner, with which he reinforced the arch of brick over his cells. This was a precaution in the event of a cave-in when the foot was reached. It was the work of but an hour to dig into the chamber by the new route, but it required twice as long to handle the delicate work of tearing away brick by brick, the debris around the immediate place of confinement. Slowly the men worked while the sand rushed in on them and nearly smothered the prisoner and his rescuers.

Then they came to the key brick that supported the arch—to release this would tell the story whether it would be life or death for all. The men sent up word to have the cot ready, and the crowd was then formed so that a lane would lead down to the house a few yards away. John Carnie in person drew out the last brick. He reached in, and, with a slow motion, pulled out the key to the arch. He felt the whole structure tremble, and some loose bricks and much sand fell, but that was all. The moment the brick was withdrawn Sanford pulled his foot clear, and leaned far back into the upper tunnel. He was free at last, but he still lay quietly while his rescuers backed from their perilous position under his chamber and made ready the bucket. Then he partially drew himself out and stepped into the bucket, not without assistance, however.

AFTER SECOND CAVE-IN.

"The second cave-in left me in mighty bad shape," resumed Sanford, in telling his story, after a pause of some duration. "I was wedged in very tight to one side. My head was thrown partially over to one side and back to a painful position, and my arms were fastened on my back and breast, and I was almost suffocated. I could hear the people signalling above, but I could not reach around to the pipe to tap on it. That's what made them think I was dead. I finally got hold of a piece of brick with one hand, but I was afraid to even tap on the brick lining of the wall. Every move caused the bed of sand around me to move, and I was constantly spitting it up from my throat, into which it ran through my nostrils. I used the brick to scratch on the walls with. The scratching can be distinctly heard, and does not cause vibration that a tapping does. I heard the men resume work. I kind of thought I would be saved. I don't think I suffered for food or water while I was in the hole. I may have been delirious, but I don't recall the circumstance. I slept a great deal. I would not let the men come into the chamber where I lay, though I could have probably gotten out a good deal sooner if I had. I feared that they would be killed, for I knew another cave-in was liable to occur any moment. I did not think I could be so fortunate as to escape death in that event.

"I heard the workmen the moment they broke through from the new well to the old one. I was afraid they would start another slide when I found them working above me, and, therefore, called to them not to do that. I wanted them to go lower and come in lower down. They finally did this. I tried to help myself, but could do mighty little. I felt cold at times, and I guess my circulation was bad. The first thing I asked the men to do when they reached me was to put something over my head to keep the sand from trickling down my nose and choking me. They put a hat over me, but that was not enough, and later they got the towel. Finally I got loose, one of the men reaching in and getting the brick from behind my back and then off from my chest. I helped myself a little after that, but finally we got down to my feet.

"It seemed as if I could never get one foot loose. I was perfectly free except that. I was in a fairly comfortable position, kinder reclining and sitting down. My leg from the knee down was caught between several brick and kind of doubled under me. They covered my foot in such a way that while I could move it a good deal it was impossible to get it out without a tunnel being run under my feet. I knew this was dangerous for the sand, which was near, and was liable to cause a slide. We tried a whole day to get that leg out. Finally they started the shaft under me. Ropes were tied around me and ran into the new well so that if the old well caved in more I would at least not be carried down any further. Then the men started the new tunnel. They had to dig but a few feet of earth and they reached my foot in two or three hours. They had it loose in a few minutes and then I was lifted out slowly.

"I washed my face before I got into the bucket to go to the top. I did not want to appear before all those people with a dirty face. The men had told me about the crowd waiting to see me. The doctors wanted to send me down a chair to go up with my leg through a rope. I finally went up in the bucket they use for hoisting dirt. One of the men went up with me to be sure I didn't faint. I feel all right, but my lungs are sore. I am all right."

Brave Men to the Rescue.

All Paris and the Country surrounding for 25 miles congregated around the scene of the affair and remained there practically night and day. All business was suspended and everyone sought to do something to contribute to the man's rescue.

While hundreds of people worked unceasingly and probably half as many were at different times in danger of death in the new well, five names stand out prominently in the work of rescue as indicating that where the greatest praise should be bestowed. They are: John Carnie, Richard Doyle, George Blanchard, Robert Hamilton, George Wentworth.

A COLONIAL REVIEW.

Canadian Troops to Parade on Tuesday and Wednesday.

COLONIAL PREMIERS ARRANGE IT

Mr. Chamberlain Has Given His Hearty Support, and the Fair, White, Yellow, Black and Brown Soldiery of Every Clime of the Empire Will Pass in Review Before Her Majesty the Queen.

London, June 30.—No body of men were more keenly disappointed over the postponement of the coronation than the Indian and colonial troops who have come from all ends of the world to take part in an historic event. The colonial Premiers, with the hearty support of Mr. Chamberlain, Secretary of State for the Colonies, have now arranged, to the great delight of these troops, that an Indian and colonial review shall be held at the Horse Guards Parade on Tuesday and Wednesday next.

Representatives of every Indian regiment are now here, including the Sikhs, Ghurkas and Pagans. With them will be the Canadians, Australians, New Zealand Maoris, the Hong Kong pig-tailed sappers, the barefooted Fijians and the fair, white, yellow, black and brown soldiery of every clime.

Queen Alexandra, as at Aldershot, will take the salute. The Duke of Connaught, the Prince of Wales, the Indian native rulers, the colonial premiers and other distinguished visitors will be present. The men even hope they may march up the Mall, past Buckingham Palace to be seen by the King, but herein they are fore-doomed to disappointment.

Boers Going to Manitoba.

Montreal, June 30.—Two smart looking Boers from Cape Colony who were passengers by the Lake Ontario, left by the Pacific Express Saturday to take up land in Manitoba. Fatal Fire at Kamloops.

Kamloops, B.C., June 30.—About 12 o'clock last night fire broke out in the old J. A. Mara store. The following buildings are a total loss: Cosmopolitan Hotel, insured in the Guardian and Scottish Union for $1,500 each. This property was owned by J. T. Edwards, and was one of the old landmarks of Kamloops. Next came Mara's late store, upon which there appears to be no insurance. A dwelling owned by H. C. M. Ridley, next to this store, was an old building, which was in former days used as a provincial government office and jail. Estimated loss is about $8,000. A guest of the Cosmopolitan Hotel, named William Bastow, a young Englishman, lost his life in the fire.

LINDSAY, FRIDAY, JULY 4, 1902.

LOCAL NEWS-LETTERS

CAMERON.

(Special to The Post.)

Rev. T. H. Macdonald, retiring pastor of the Methodist church, preached his farewell sermon on Sunday morning. His successor is Rev. A. J. Toll, B.A.

Mr. Taylor Perkins is erecting a handsome residence on Peel-st. Mr. Warren Hill has nearly completed the carpentering work, and the brick arrived this week, sufficient hands being engaged to finish it before the brickyard. Taylor is our energetic salesman on the Cheese board, and is always thorough in what he undertakes.

Mr. Wm. Harris, postmaster of the best Reform Campaign and the Bill, has had a large staff of men engaged painting and kalsomining this section of the road. That is one of the most difficult books in the whole slip, but Mr. Harris' long experience in conducting our Post Office, with the difficulty, and his knowledge of the road is exceedingly useful.

Miss Jardine and McQuade, teachers, have had a very successful term, and the high marks obtained by the former teachers bid fair to still keep up the continued progress of the scholars.

CAMBRAY

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

After a very pleasant sojourn of two years among the people of this village, Rev. T. H. Macdonald preached his farewell sermon, which was listened to with the attentive attention of last Sabbath evening. We wish him every success in the field of labor at Coboconk.

Miss A. Fitzpatrick has gone to spend her holidays with her parents in Lindsay.

Mrs. J. E. Carmichael, of Galt, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kent.

Mr. Basil Taylor, of Lindsay, spent quite a short time here.

Mr. Fred Bailey, principal of the Public School, has gone to Lindsay for the holidays.

Miss Katie Spence, of Woodville, spent Sunday with Mrs. Jas. Brokenshire.

The people of this village were treated to a roaring temperance lecture, which was held at all elevating on Monday. The example was the worst shown for some time along this line, and we feel sure if that sort of thing continues, the very fitting day comes in the fall the people of this village at least will be on the right side.

KIRKFIELD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

A pretty wedding was celebrated in St. John's church on Wednesday, morning, June 25, when Miss Hattie Carties being Miss Minnie (Bertram, Jewish daughter of Mr. George Bertram, of this village, and Mr. H. Barrett, contractor and lay D. T. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Fr. Sullivan in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives. The church was prettily decorated with ferns and cut flowers. The bride was lovely in a pretty white silk trimmed with lace applique and tucks and chiffon. Miss Hattie Carties, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a pretty figured muslin dress, and carried a bouquet and a large picture hat and carried a large bouquet of flowers. Mr. Chas. Maguire supported the groom. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride, only a few close friends being present. The happy couple left amid showers of rice on a northbound train, where they took the train for Montreal.

Mrs. Maguire, of the Queen City of Lindsay, spent a few days with her mother, Mrs. Carties, last week.

Mrs. Talbot and children, of Callaghan, also visited with friends here during the week.

Quite a number from this place took in the picnic to Pigeon Lake on Dominion Day, and report a good time despite the unfavorable weather.

Rev. Fr. Bertheelon, of Downeyville, was a welcome visitor to town last week.

ST. MARKS, MAP.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Everyone is glad again, for the water which threatened to totally engulf the land and destroy everything but bushes has again receded. Last week we had a heavy rainfall, continuing for two days and geomplaints with a very strong wind, which caused Lake Mantoba to flow southward into Pigeon Lake and ignore that level with the water and fill all the sloughs and ponds on the ridges. The boundry of the flood may now be determined by the quantities of scum and weeds carried by by the water, which the wind left lying on the ridges. It was the highest water seen in this place in twenty years or more, and caused great alarm to many who had lands lly near the lake. Many families were forced to leave their homes and had to move to higher land and pitch tents, and some had to cut up their wheat beds where loaded and drifted away, and to take provisions to the top of the hay stacks of their barns, houses until the water went down. Some boats drifted loose miles in other parts. The tinsmiths had much trouble with their cots, but no lives were lost.

Several of our young people drove to St. Laurent to attend the B. C. picnic yesterday. It was a pleasant day bright and sunny, but not too warm. Special to Fenelon Falls from here and the road passed through twenty or more sloughs, two of which were so deep that the water came in over the buggy.

LLONTYNE.

NORLAND.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Mr. Isaac Strong met with a serious accident saturday last. While at work Mr. Strong was driving over the Gully bridge, just east of the village, their horse took fright at a pile of stones that was left at the end of the bridge for building purposes and bolted leaving the occupants into the ditch at the side of the road. Mr. Strong had two or three ribs broken and received some severe cuts about the body, being trampled on by the horse. Mrs. Strong was more fortunate, escaping with a good shaking up.

Mr. G. W. Alisly had a young daughter presented to him by his wife on Sunday last.

Mr. J. S. Houston, formerly of this place, but at present principal of the Federal Business College of Owen, spent a few days in Norland last week, renewing old acquaintances. Mr. Houston we understand intends opening up a business college in Lindsay.

Miss Clara Rilance, of Beaverton, is visiting her sister, Mrs. W. J. Lily.

Mr. S. B. Trick spent a few days this week in Toronto and Oshawa on business.

Mrs. Robt. Windrim, of London, is visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Clark.

Mr. G. W. Alisly spent Monday in Lindsay on business.

PENIEL.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The tea of Peniel Sunday School, served on Monday, June 23rd, succeeded in realizing the full of their expectations. The entertainment in the afternoon and evening was very heartily enjoyed, in the afternoon the children held the floor and a very pretty dialogue full of relations were delivered by Ruby Jackson, Ethel Davis, Daniels, of Cannington, and Rev. Mr. Copeland, of Port Perry, and Messrs. Cooper and Wallace, Lockout Comedies, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

We regret that Mrs. F. Kloyd, who is ill at present, is not able to be active at church, particularly at the affair mentioned.

The union picnic of S. S. No. 2 and S. S. No. 9 was successful in every way. The sports were greatly enjoyed by young and especially by the children. The hoop race was a great feature, a remarkable one. The Class—Sitful Parker, Leslie Kennedy, Willie Mellon, Rose Callaghan, John White, 2nd Class — Albert Austin Kennedy, Mary Mellon, Ethel Mellon, Rose Callaghan, Willie Mellon, Willie Callaghan, entertained the visitors with a pretty Oliver Twist. Pt. 2nd—Bella Middleton, Pretlie Parker, Robbie Graham, Alvin Courtney, Bursee Johns, Nellie Mellon, Willie Callaghan, 3rd Class, Jr.—Carry Watts, Naomi Kennedy, May McMillan, Evans Johns, Marshall Middleton. 1st Class Sr.—Sarah Callaghan, Lockert Dalgleish, Willie Bell, Talbot—Manser, Ashworth, Wilmer Kennedy, Pearl McMillan, Pearl Wells, Merritt Courtney, Gracie Parker, Albert Hodges, Nellie Hodges, Ethel Bell, Annie Middleton, Vera Johns, Georgie Johns. Present for his services Mr. Copeland, Mr. Smith, W. McMillan, E. Parker, R. Callaghan, J. Watts, A. White, A. Kennedy, An. Kennedy, P. McMillan, M. McMillan, N. Callaghan, W. Kennedy. Average attendance for month are for—Div. 1, J. D. McFadyen, teacher.

In contract for building a fence along the cemetery has been given to Mr. John Watts. The fence is to be of wire and promises to add much to the appearance of the church premises.

Mr. Leslie Kennedy has erected under his barn. Mr. Leslie Kennedy is making preparations for a big picnic for his Cousin this summer.

School closed on Monday last and the teacher has gone to spend a few days with his parents at Inglis.

Mr. H. Elliott, teacher at Argyle, Ellon, is home for the holidays.

OAKWOOD

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The Oakwood drain, under the supervision of Mr. Shields, is progressing in good shape, and with fine weather we expect to see it completed in a couple of weeks.

Mr. Geo. Hogg, of Toronto, is here. He will remain a couple of weeks.

Mr. Willie Webster, of Toronto, who was here for a few days visiting his parents, has returned to his duties in the city.

Mr. Geo. Mason and wife are out of town for a few days. Mrs. Mason is visiting at Cannington and Mr. Mason is spending his holidays in Minden.

Miss Minnie Thorndike, of Toronto, is home for a few days, the guest of her parents.

Mr. Jas. Patterson, formerly of Oakwood, but now of Toronto, is visiting friends here. Mr. James Tyle.

Mr. Nelson Romley, agent for the Dominion Wagon Company, who had started to canvass Maripposa township, has moved to Manitoulin Island to sell for the balance of the summer and fall. He was well liked in this winter, and as he has a good thing we believe he will do well in his new field.

As announced the Presbyterian tea on Friday evening last was held in the church shed. The weather recently very fine were expected, however the attendance was not as was a very good turnout. A first-class program was rendered in the church. Rev. Mr. Webster very efficiently acted as chairman. Choice selections were rendered by the choir under the leadership of Mr. Joseph Coad and Miss Ethel Coad, and a duet by Miss Addison on King Edward. On account of the bad weather the following events left over a 10 cent social was held on the following Friday evening. The proceeds for both events amounted to about $60.

Oakwood can now boast of having the finest and most complete telephone in them. Mr. A. O. Hogg and Mr. E. Tyle have had lines placed in their houses this week.

Both churches have good congregations on Sunday last. By a unanimous vote it was decided to hold service during July and August at 7 o'clock Sunday evenings instead of 3 in the afternoon. This we think will prove a great convenience for the people of North Mariposa. Sunday School will be held at the usual hour.

We are pleased to state that Mrs. Robt. Gardiner is recovering from her illness.

We have to relate another harrowing accident, which occurred on Friday last to Mr. Sylvanus Weldon's farm. Owing to the breaking of a rope Mr. John Robson fell to the ground and was severely injured. He is recovering.

Mr. Wm. Jordan, we are pleased to state, is doing well.

Mrs. Fletcher Jordan went to the city on Monday to visit her parents.

Mr. Robt. Gardiner went to the city to see his children on the 1st.

In conclusion we regret to say that this all the bad news we have to impodeuce to be penned by the writer. Circumstances over which he has no control have compelled his removal. He therefore takes this opportunity of thanking his numerous friends for all many kindnesses extended to himself and family during their residence among them. All are assured that wherever their lot may be fixed in the future, they will always look back upon the two years happy and profitable years of their history as the two years of the prosperity village of Oakwood. They will be pleased at all times to hear of the prosperity and happiness of all.

Mr. Jordan has 40 or 150 acre farm for sale, with good buildings, well fenced and well watered, 35 acres of cultivation? I have several parties who want to purchase such farms. Write stating price and terms at once to Elias Bowes, real estate agent, Oakwood.

Mr. John G. Dickey and family are convalescing, and our genial friend Dickey will be much missed behind the counter during his stay at the Lindsay Library board. During their two years residence here they have made many friends, who will be sorry to see them leave. We understand Mr. Dickey and several others of our young men are engaged as manager for Mr. Stroud, of Toronto, who is moving his stock to Norwich, Ont., where they will reside.

Don't forget the strawberry festival given by the Methodist Sunday School on the grounds of Mr. Jas. Wellesley evening, July 9. Tea served from 5 to 8 p.m. Music provided from Lindsay. Mr. Gilchrist, convenor, assisted by a committee on the program. Come and enjoy yourselves. Admission, 10 cents. Tickets 25c., children 15c.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The British steamer Tockett brought to Philadelphia from Argentina, Egypt, five thousand tons of sugar grown in a section of the country that is now practically a barren waste, but has been made rich by irrigation.

There's a lot of human nature in the hard luck story. Only a few of the people watched and waited for the new Carnegie library to be well-prison. It was hard to tell whether the Prince of Wales or Prince Joshua and King Edward the last days.

The Ontario Medical Council has decided to put up the bars another notch, and from the standard for entrance to the study of medicine at Lower Canadian universities is also disproved of the combined arts and medical university course, recommended by a committee appointed to be taken after the arts course. Some fear it will tend to discourage the medical preserve.

The Toronto Globe says there spot on good roads in the state of New Jersey. A few years ago a South that sum will be expended this year, according to the report of the State Commissioner of Public Roads. Last year 1,000 miles of macadam, miles of new highways were completed, and 2,000 miles improved, duplicate and this year it is expected to build more. The commission has more so great is the number of new roads projected. The Globe adds the hope that the State is finding itself unable to meet the demand for funds. The State Government has been the leader in the good roads movement in that country, and it would be a pity if it should be unable to keep up the $29,000,000 in the value of taxable property within New Jersey's borders, as distributed in a large part to the Northern States.

—Miles of new highways were completed last year in Ontario, 1,000 miles of new highways were completed, and 2,000 miles improved, duplicate and this year it is expected to build more. The commission has more so great is the number of new roads projected. The Globe adds the hope that the State is finding itself unable to meet the demand for funds. The State Government has been the leader in the good roads movement in that country, and it would be a pity if it should be unable to keep up the $29,000,000 in the value of taxable property within New Jersey's borders, as distributed in a large part to the Northern States.

AT COOL OF DAY.

High swaying boughs, and lowly warbling grasses
Glow with the glory of departing day;
Switch it pales and silently it passes
Out of the world, and leaves it still and gray.

Now, while we watch the tender twilight falling
Stealing the landscape from our dreamy eyes,
Softly we hear the birds about us calling,
Dimly we catch the faint, far-off replies.

Slight breezes rustle, and around us rises
Earth's evening fragrance, born of flower and sod.
Filling the dusk with sudden, sweet surprises
Going like incense, up the air to God.

This is the hour, when once, in Eden's garden,
God came and walked—in sandal and angor then;
Surely at evening still he comes — with pardon,

ORANGEISM TRIUMPHANT

Saturday's Great Rally of Brethren in the Good Town of Lindsay.

GROWD NUMBERED FULLY 10,000 PERSONS.

Four Counties Represented in the Great Procession—Kent-St. One of the Widest Thoboughfares in Canada, Taxed to Accommodate the Great Throng of Spectators—The Celebration One of the Most Successful Ever Held in the Midland District—A Great Day for the Cause and for Lindsay Business Men.

Saturday, July 12th, was a great day for Lindsay, and we say too, that the principles which had their birthplace in the Green Isle and have since spread to many quarters of the globe. It was a great day also in the sense that it disclosed that the bitterness and irritating tendencies peculiar to the celebrations of long ago have disappeared, leaving barely a vestige of which they might be identified. The diffusion of education has produced a spirit of tolerance which enables our people to respect the views of others, and to freely acknowledge that all have equal rights and an equal responsibility to perform the duties of making this Canada of ours one of the great nations of the world. This can be done—it is being done—and the great leading and orderliness so manifest on Saturday were pleasing guarantees of the increasing ability we seem to solid and lasting success.

It is admitted by all that in size Saturday's gathering surpassed anything which the one held here four years ago, notwithstanding that the Orkaney County brethren decided at the last moment to join the County lodges at Goderham village. The weather was simply perfect for, and fully charming to, a gathering, and everyone in the humor for a holiday.

The Grand Trunk Co. had made very complete arrangements for handling large crowds from all points, and the numerous special trains arrived sharp on time, with every seat in the coaches occupied. Extra coaches were also attached to the regular trains, and in this way over 5000 visitors were landed in comfortable fashion and without mishap. The train from Coboconk arrived as a double header, having over 750 passengers on board. Over 1000 persons came in by steamer from Bobcaygeon, Fenelon Falls, Port Perry and other points along the lake, and it is estimated that fully one-half the farmers within a radius of ten miles drove in during the morning. Every stable yard was crowded with teams hitched for 10 o'clock, and late comers were compelled to seek shelter for their beasts wherever could be found, in very many cases being unsuccessful in their quest.

The cafes of the leading hotels taxed the efforts of the hotel men and other caterers. It was past one o'clock when the last of the crowd finished dinner, and the waiters had little rest, because half an hour later the dinner bell was rung for supping for supper. Many ladies who could not face the wild rush for empty places at the hotel and restaurants, had their meals obtained needed refreshments at private houses, while the hungry sons folk purchased supplies of the tempting eatables at the nearest grocery and appeased the cravings of their inner man on the spot.

On all sides we heard the expressions of admiration effected by the fine appearance of Kent-st. The waving banners and flags gave a "festive" appearance to all that was thoroughly in keeping with the sentiments of the people as a whole towards the visitors. We hope the success of our Central Fair will follow the same plan next September.

PARADE OF THE BRETHREN

The parade was one of the largest that have been held in Lindsay for a number of years, the length being materially owing to a misunderstanding the week before, which led to a mistake instead of traversing the principal avenues of the town, it was decided to make a procession of humanity, and with banners, streamers and flags fluttering in the air presented a sight which will long be remembered. The procession passed up and down the wide thoroughfare several times and was headed by Mr. Wm. Cottingham, of Omemee, County Master. Mr. L. W. Wallace, Past District Master, was marshal for the day, and he was assisted by Mr. W. Warren, three gentlemen were mounted. Mr. Geo. Hall, County Director of Ceremonies, and Past Preterboro, was also mounted.

The order of the procession was a carriage containing Mr. Thos. Stephenson, Grand Secretary and Lt. Master Mr. John Kelley, Lindsay, P. G. M., and Mr. Robt. Welly, P.G.M., Peterboro. A second carriage held Mr. W. Ellis, Grand Chaplain, Past Grand Master of the Loyal True Blues, and Mr. Geo. Hall, of Orphanage Court, and Mr. N. Ingram, of Port Perry, Grand Secretary of the L.T.B. After these came carriages conveying lady members of the Port Perry and Omemee Ladies' lodges. Then followed the various Orange and True Blue lodges and bands, the order of march being:

—It is a pity the parade did not start at the Fair grounds, as was at first intended, for all out-of-town visitors were disappointed because the procession did not traverse our leading streets.

—Mr. Kennedy, the clever drum-major, who formerly led the Orillia Officials while leading the Cobocong Boys Brigade Band on Saturday, failed to engagement at Toronto Industrial Exhibition, and Bud Harrison was there.

—Only one fight was reported during the day, and that took place in front of the Chinese laundry on Kent-st. Constables Andrus and Nelson soon dispersed the crowd; that gathered, the fighters will no doubt pay the penalty for their bad behavior.

—The skating rink was the centre of attraction for many of the visitors. At one time there must have been upwards of 1000 people present witnessing the lads and lassies gyrate. The country is lapping in fantastic. The dancing was continued till late in the evening.

—About 18 members of the 57th Regimental Band, Peterboro, under the leadership of Prof. Glidden, were the most musical combination in parade. Their music at times was always appreciated by the spectators. They came with Peterboro No. 93.

—Welcome band, which came with Fraserville No. 46, comprised 16 members and they looked smart, dressed in gray suits with dark brain. Jas. Melmin, their heavyweight drummer, is a great fellow. He is a general good fellow. Mr. T. Carson is leader of the organization, and their music deserves special mention.

—The hotels and restaurants were crowd to their utmost capacity. The hotel men are still wearing smiles because of Saturday's big receipts.

—The half-dozen lemonade stands erected near the market, and the peanut and candy venders did a brisk trade while the speech-making was going on.

—The Str. Keposhi brought down about 200 excursionists from Port Perry, Washing the two True Blue lodges. The day being warm, the lad's were delighted.

—The Str. Maple Leaf, towing the palace barge Lindsay, arrived in port about 11 o'clock, bringing Victoria Temperance Lodge, No. 23, L.T.B., from Bobcaygeon, and their friends, numbering about 250 in all. They returned at 5 o'clock.

—The feature of the day was the Boys' Brigade Fife and Drum Band from Cobocong. The aggregation was looked after by the Rev. Mr. Beatty, Presbyterian minister, and Mr. Herron, musical director. Taken average of this musical combination is good, and their music was enjoyed by everyone. The boys were dressed in white trousers and sweaters.

VICTORIA COUNTY OLD BOYS.

(To the Editor of The Post.)

Dear Sir—I read in the issue of Friday last, in noting the "Old Boys' Reunions" held in other towns, you make the suggestion that we should undertake to hold such a reunion next year. In connection with this I would like to inform you that help such a good move—former Lindsay Boys, Victoria 104, Queen Sts Marie, Mich., was in the parade.

Boys Old Boys formed such an association last year, and called it "Old Boys of Durham, Haroa and Simcoe Counties Already these seven associations

If some of our old Lindsay boys, resident in Toronto, would, I think, take this matter up I am sure Victoria County would be able to form one and a strong organization for any of the counties mentioned.—Yours, etc.,

A COMING ATTRACTION.

Norris & Rowe's Big Trained Animal Show.

What promises to be one of the big events of the season is the forthcoming visit to this town of Norris & Rowe's Big Trained Animal Show. Beyond question there is not an amusement institution in America that has earn a hold on the public's favor, as these big moral shows. The rise of the great enterprise has been phenomenal. First starting small, it has grown and kept pace with the marvelous strides, until the present season, it is the equal of any attraction on the road. The past season was a record-breaker, visiting San Francisco, Portland, Seattle, Salt Lake City, Denver, Kansas City, Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth, hundreds were turned away at every performance, and its tour was a veritable triumphal march. The season of 1902 of the Norris & Rowe's Big Show promises to be long and prosperous in advance of similar exhibitions in the field of amusement. Among the special features this season are the marvellous lions, camels, seals, buffaloes, baby elephants, and the most wonderful Shetland ponies and performers, while many o f the popular features of last season are retained, so that taken all in all they give as good a show as any one can desire and wish to witness.—31.

THE KAWARTHA WATERS.

OUR BEAUTIFUL LAKES AS THEY APPEARED TO A WESTERN EDITOR.

The Trip of the Ontario Historical Society From Peterboro to Lindsay Proved a Revelation of Sylvan Charms.

In the Woodstock Sentinel-Review of July 3rd, Mr. G. H. Patterson refers in the following complimentary manner to the charms of the lake and river trip from Lakefield to Lindsay, on the Trent Valley Navigation Co. steamers, as enjoyed on the occasion of the recent outing of the Ancient Historical Society:

On the second day of our meeting the delegates enjoyed quite an unusual treat at the hands of the united local societies, Peterboro and Lindsay. This was nothing less than a sail through the famous Kawartha lakes from the village of Lakefield, situated some six or seven miles from Peterboro' to Lindsay. The time occupied, was from nine o'clock in the morning until five in the afternoon. Although the Kawartha Lakes and that singular bit of Canadian waterway familiar to people in the eastern part of Ontario, it is probable that little is known of them in the west, even by the readers of the Sentinel-Review. They are situated on the borders of and between Lake Ontario and the Georgian Bay, being several hundred feet above both. They are bordered by pine, spruce, balsam and other evergreens and forest trees and a more ideal spot for camping or boating can scarcely be imagined. Those who are too busy have the advantage of not being over crowded, as the Muskoka and other well-known Ontario resorts are rapidly becoming. These lakes extend a distance of ninety miles, the scenery all through being almost uniform. The clear, limpid waters of the lakes is supplemented by countless ripples of stream and dashing waterfalls, large and small, with the banks along the shore, the numerous little projections stretching out into the lakes and the adjacent islands form a kaleidoscopic picture of ever-changing sylvan beauty. The name Kawartha is Indian, and signifies "Land of shadows and bright waters and the happy lands." If this be really the meaning the name is most appropriate. The chain of lakes numbers eleven, including Balsam, Cameron, Sturgeon, Pigeon, Clemong, Buckhorn, Deer Bay, Lovesick, Stony, Chief and Katchewanooka. Apart from the opportunities for hunting and fishing which these lakes and their surroundings afford, there are opportunities for camping grounds, summer cottages and boating grounds. All these lakes are being connected by the Trent Valley waterway, or as it is generally known, the Trent Valley canal. The object of this work is to connect the Georgian Bay with Lake Ontario, taking advantage of the waters, stretches or chain of lakes intervening.

A line of boats runs daily over these lakes, and objects of interest to the visitors are the several locks through which they run during the trip. At Burgess Park, Cobourgh, Peterboro, and other places numerous summer cottages have been erected and these places have become quite popular summer resorts.

It is safe to say that the members of the Historical Society never enjoyed a more delightful outing than over these Kawartha Lakes between Peterboro and Lindsay and the recollections of it will long remain green in their memories.

The French Canadian Story.

The most striking feature of recent Canadian literature has been the discovery and exploitation of the interesting and picturesque material which is afforded by habitant life in French Canada. It is in working this field that Dr. W. H. Drummond, of Montreal, has found his well-deserved fame. The Westminster for July introduces a new writer, J. E. Le Rossignol, who contributes a charming story of French-Canadian life entitled "An Anchor of Souls." Mr. Le Rossignol is a graduate of Toronto University, and is now a professor in the University of Dublin. He is a nephew of Rev. Dr. Henderson, Methodist Missionary Secretary, of Toronto, and formerly minister in Montreal.

RESCUED FROM DROWNING.

Fell into the Lake at Sturgeon Point — Rescued by Mr. G. H. Hopkins.

Master Harry McDiarmid, second son of Mr. P. A. McDiarmid, barrister, had a narrow escape from drowning at Sturgeon Point, had a narrow escape from being drowned about 10 o'clock on July 10th. That little fellow, who is under four years of age, stole away from the cottage unnoticed and went to Hopkins' wharf. Mr. G. H. Hopkins was in his boathouse when the young lad arrived. Young McDiarmid told him that he came over to float some scap in the water of the wharf, but was warned by Mr. Hopkins not to do it. Harry then passed around to the back end of the building unnoticed by Mr. Hopkins, who was fixing his boat, and while doing so he fell into the water.

The two ladies who happened to be wheeling past the spot at the time noticed the boy's danger and gave the alarm, whereupon Mr. Hopkins jumped in and succeeded in rescuing him. The little fellow was taken to the cottage and Dr. Martin sent for. Mr. and Mrs. McDiarmid were in Lindsay when the accident happened. Mrs. McDiarmid having come up on the morning boat.

Advance in Price of Hogs.

Mr. W. J. Moore, local stock buyer, consigned a load of hogs to the Wm. Davies Co. and a load of cattle to the Toronto market July 10. Messrs. McDougall, Brandon & Austin, of Fenelon Falls, also made their weekly shipment of hogs to the Geo. Matthews Co., Peterboro. The price of hogs has advanced since last week, but the price of cattle remains the same. Farmers were paid $6.90 per hundred for hogs to-day.

On an Outing Trip

The manager and office staff of the Frost Wire Fence Co., of Welland, passed through Saturday from Port Perry on the City Bradiger Steamer, on a trip to the Kawartha Lakes, starting from Port Perry. The party comprised the following: Mr. A. L. Pace, Mr. G. E. Boyd, Mr. A. Doubt, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Frost, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Mountjoy, Miss B. Griffith, Miss Bertha Neloe and Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Hinson.

An Embarrassing Incident.

A young matron of Lindsay met with an accident one day last week. She went out with a girl friend to register the baby. Instead of going to the Registrar's office, they went to the Town Clerk that was to be County Registry office. The genial Registrar advanced to the counter when the elder of the two ladies—and she looked very old—said, "I want to register my baby." "Ah," replied the Registrar, "There must be two of them—everything's perfect double in this place. Is one in duplicate, I keep one and put a certificate on the back of the other, which I return to you." "You mean twins," said the elderly matron, "I have only one." In that case," replied the Registrar, with that twinkle in his eye, "I am sorry, but there we can do nothing for you, you must go to the Town Clerk; you will find twins at his office." Exeunt the ladies, suffused with blushes.

Pretender to the Throne.

The fact that very few people know there exists a pretender to the throne of Brunswick, and not only for the House of Brunswick, but likewise for the kinsfolk and gentlemen of the lady who which speaks for (per ancestry because "the prelitelate." She is Mary Theresa Henrietta Dorothea, Archduchess of Austria Este Modena, Princess of Hungaria, whom the loyal Jacobites call her Christian and Catholic Majesty, Queen Mary IV. This lady, who is the wife of Prince Ferdinand, elder son the Prince Regent of Bavaria, is descended from the female connection of Queen Prince Charles Edward Stuart, who was the male line having become extinct with the death in 1807, of Cardinal Duke of York, grandson of James II and younger brother of Prince Charles. This line might have retained the sovereignty but for the Act of Settlement, passed by the House of Commons by a majority of one vote in 1701, whereby the succession to the crown was settled on the Princess Sophia of Hanover to the exclusion of all Catholics and of Charles Edward. Stuart, Duke of Albany, Earl of Inverness, Baron Arklow, Prince of Leven (Lady Ogilvy) and Mr. Cranston Mitcalfe, who profess to believe that their keeping alive of the pretender is by no means purely sentimental.

THE DURHAM DROWNING CASE.

Durham, July 9th, 1902.

Chief Newlove, Lindsay, Ont.:

Dear Sir.—The bodies of the young man (Bergson) were found last night, and arrived today. I never found in their clothing give the information that their friends live in Englandville, Ont. Yours truly,

JAMES CARSON, Constable.

As a result of enquiries made Chief Newlove learned that a man named Bergson resided in Lindsay a few years ago, and is now supposed to be living some miles south of the town, following the occupation of cooking lumber camps. He is a name some lived near Janetville, but removed to the north-west some time ago. Chief Newlove sent word of the accident to the south end of the town, and as he received no reply it is presumed that the young men were not relatives.

WEDDING BELLS.

Sanderson—Brown.

On July 9th a very pretty wedding took place at Maple Hill, Fenelon, the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. Brown, when their daughter Katie was wedded to Mr. W. Sanderson of Marmora. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Sinclair, of Fenelon Falls. The wedding march was played by Miss Annie G. Brown while the bride entered the room, supported by her father and preceded by the flower girls, Misses Sophie Moyses and Annetta Brown, who strewed her path with flowers. The bridesmaid was sister Miss Maggie Brown, and Mr. W. McAvoy, of Lindsay, supported the groom. Master McKenzie Moyses was ring bearer.

After partaking of a sumptuous repast the happy couple left for Fenelon Falls where Mr. and Mrs. Sanderson boarded the train for Midland and other western points, after which they will proceed to their home in Marmora, accompanied by the gifts and best wishes of many friends.

Garvey—Dehlinger.

Buffalo Courier, July 7th: The marriage of Miss Mary A. Dehlinger to Mr. P. J. Garvey was solemnized in St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock yesterday morning by the Rev. Rector Father Nelan, C.S.P. The bride was in organdie trimmed in Irish point with the veil falling in the fashion of a trained skirt, which was finished in accordion plaiting. She was given away by her brother, Mr. Paul Dehlinger. The maid of honor, Miss Frances Kelley, was gowned in white Swiss and carried a bunch of sweet peas, and the bridesmaids, Miss Katherine Garvey and Miss Anna Garvey, were dressed in white Swiss and carried a bunch of white carnations. The groom was attended by Mr. John Garvey, of this city, and Mr. Frank Dehlinger, of Buffalo. The bridal processional was ushered in by two little flower girls carrying pink baskets of sweet peas, preceding the maid of honor and the bride. The bride's table was centred with a large wedding cake surrounded by decorated with carnations and sweet peas. Mr. and Mrs. Garvey left on the Lackawanna for other points in Canada on their wedding tour. The happy groom is an old Downsyvill boy, being a son of Mr. Patrick Garvey, well known in this locality.

The Post as an Advertising Medium.

Messrs. Hogg Bros. who have carried on a very extensive and successful business at Oakwood for the past years, and who recently sold out to Messrs. Ward & Cressell, send the following footnote to a business letter received by them from the latter firm for itself: "We are believers in judicious newspaper advertising. Our store business for over eighteen years has grown in the ratio of 100 per cent, and we feel satisfied the investment brought us increased business."

Peterboro Cheese Board.

Over 1,000 boxes of cheese were offered at Wednesday's sale by the Peterboro cheese board, and all sold at 9c. This secretary read a letter from Commissioner Robertson, of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, stating that the Department had offered to bear part of the expense of a refrigerator car by paying $3 per car on 50 cars per week, the crown would undertake the proposition of all the expenses of provision of a refrigerator car for perishable cars. No reply has as yet been received from the commission. The board adjourned for two weeks.

Caught in Time.

The Westminster—which is now an illustrated monthly magazine, having bequeathed its newspaper features to a new 32-page weekly issued by the same publishers, called "The Presbyterian"—just escaped the fate of the Regina Illustrated magazine. It had a fine illustrated sketch of the coronation ceremony, and a study in its significance, by Canon Welch, as its opening article, but on the eve of publication the Coronation programme was changed and the article had to be killed. Fortunately the editor was able to drop on Canon Welch for a sketch of Westminster Abbey which with excellent illustrations, makes a very fitting opening feature for the initial number of the new series of The Westminster.

There's a Bad Man in Midland.

A deadly attempt was made on Sunday night to wreck the waterworks pumping plant. On Monday when the engineer started the pumps to work he discovered that something was wrong. Upon investigation he found that some person had visited the tower and taking a piece of 300lb. cap which leads to the pressure below, had descended by means of a rough ladder made for the purpose, and tampered with the valves so as to prevent the water from entering the stand pipe. This meant that if the pump had been worked something would have to smash. The ladder and remains of the candle were found where used. Only some one acquainted with the operations of the plant and familiar with the construction of the water tower would have done the deed. Such an evil-disposed person should be behind prison bars.—Free Press.

ANOTHER FLOOD ACCIDENT.

Young Lad Nearly Drowned in an East Ward Creek.

Wednesday afternoon, while a crowd of small boys were playing along the swollen creek in the east ward at the point where it crosses Caroline-st., a young lad about seven years of age slipped off a rafe into deep water and in all probability would have been drowned had it not been for the prompt action of a youth named Fred Cresswell, who promptly jumped in and rescued the child as he was being swept away.

THE ORILLIA POWER PLANT.

Contractor Patriarche Presents a Bill for Extra Work.

After many delays and vexatious worries the Orillia power plant is at last supposed to be completed, and is at hand. Power plants seem to be expensive luxuries, as Contractor Patriarche has received in payment $211,462.55, which included his item of $35,000 for contractors compensation, and the value of the work and material he furnished, and another little charge of $12,700 for interest.

The Times says: This is the bill that the town has been waiting many months for, and now that it is presented steps will be taken towards a settlement, and all the facts made public. It is claimed by Mr. Patriarche contends that the contract is cold, and that he is entitled for all work and payments of the kind, and that he has been treated shy with Mr. Patriarch on this question, and he looked by eminent legal authorities in this contention that the contract is binding in every particular, and not one cent more than his price for it, there will be no extra work furnished and unfortunately agreed upon by the engineers and contractor. If this special clause of the contract is enforced, the contract price will be reduced by nine thousand dollars. Just why the contractor should be paid full price for the entire work which he obtained from the manufacturers at 55 cents on the dollar of one-between man after the other the itemized account. Another problem is the charge for interest, $12,700, and twenty per cent. profit on the outlay, $35,000.

The account was referred to the finance committee, and as soon as Engineers Mitchell and Park can be brought to Orillia a bill will be prepared by the town, based on the contract. A comparison of the two documents will be an interesting study. Meantime no rulings, is being asleep over Mr. Patriarche's claim of nearly a quarter of a million dollars.

Married in Millbrook.

The wedding took place in Millbrook on Wednesday afternoon, at the residence of the bride's father, of Adelaide Louise Mulligan, youngest daughter of Mr. Henry Mulligan, inspector for the Midland Loan and Savings Company, to Mr. William J. Bakins, of Toronto, formerly of Lindsay, of the late Samuel Bakins, of Millbrook.

A Whole Township in Appeal.

Hill Honor Judge Dean left by Wednesday's train for Pembrooke where he held court to hear any appeal from the court of revision of the municipality of Lake. Formerly and Longford. The Thompson Lumbering Co. brought a claim for damages against the Crown timber agent there because of the action of the latter in preserving it for future growth. There are involved by the case twenty-five. It is an interesting experiment, and which should interest highly the question of the best policy to be adopted as to the future of our still unopened timber lands.

Cricket Notes.

Railway Notes.

—From Jan. 1 to June 30 the Canadian Atlantic Railway carried 182,315 passengers over its lines, the decrease for period last year of 12,301. For the year ending June 30, 17,660,000 tons of grain were carried in addition to the usual miscellaneous package freight. The earnings of the railway for the year, it is stated, have finally made up, and will not be known until about the end of July.

—The "Railway Gazette says, it is announced that the Pennsylvania Railway will pay rebates to passengers on its twenty-five Chicago trains when these trains are more than two hours late. If the detention is somewhat less than two hours, but more than three, the rebate will be paid to passengers for an hour it is three dollars, and for four hours or more it is four dollars. It is understood that proportionate rebates will be paid to passengers to and from Pittsburg, Altoona, Harrisburg and Philadelphia. The report that rebates would be paid in case of delay has been published as a rumor for several days, but now we have it from an officer of the road. This is a genuine novelty. What if it should become the fashion on ordinary trains?

A BOOK WITH A LOCAL FLAVOR.

"Olive Langdon—A Tale of the New Dominion."

It will no doubt be of interest to our many readers in Victoria County, and to the citizens of Lindsay in particular, to learn that a novel bearing the above title is to be published in Boston during the approaching month of September. The author is Mr. Geo. E. Fowler, Inspector for England in West Division High School, Chicago, and son of the Rev. Dr. Fowler, late master at Fowler' Corners, Fenelon, and one of the first to land in Victoria County, mainly in Lindsay, though many of the incidents of the stirring plot occur within the boundaries of Fenelon township and the village of Fenelon Falls. The hero of the tale is a student in Lindsay Grammar School in the early 40's, and several other students there, as well as their Principal, being brought upon the stage incidentally, some of them being inflicted in the process. Many well-known personal and places in the Kawartha Lakes district, the volume will be found very interesting and instructive. No doubt our local bookseller's will have copies for sale as soon as the novel is published.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Toronto Star: H Prof. Doherty, of the Ontario Agricultural College, has devised a sure destroyer of wild mustard. He has done this by "Yorkshire higher service than any for which Knighthoods have been conferred up to date.

I. If there are any able-bodied Canadians who are disappointed at the cessation of enlistment for the army, there will be another army created within a few weeks to harvest the grain crops in our Northwest.

A plaintiff in England has won damages of £250 for injuries sustained through being thrown from his carriage. The horse starting when scared by the sudden whistling of a tugboat near by. Tugboat men should begin to blow softly.

Dr. Sheard, Toronto's Medical Health Officer, advises people who go to summer resorts to inquire into the water supply and sewerage disposal, lest they bring the germs of typhoid fever home with them. He has had very good luck in the old saloon bucket that hangs in the well.

On September 12th the world will celebrate the 400th anniversary of the introduction of coffee to civilization. It happened that Kolschitzki, the Polish leader, found a large quantity of the berry in the camp of the Turks when he raised the siege of Vienna in 1683, and in this way the habit of coffee drinking spread throughout Europe.

A Boston police judge has decided that drunkenness is not the excuse for drunkenness it must be proved that he entered this state condition of his own free will and without compulsion whatever. He evidently believed that man does not drink because they want to but because other people insist on forcing to pay the cost of drinks. Perhaps he thinks that drunkenness is hard to reproduce by the sober and hence must be made.

It's all very well to propose to act at post old Silas Toole, the York county man who was crowned out of $500 the other day, that some wealthy person of his folly get out and cheer for higher taxes levied on clubs for some cause that's worthy of not a few of them "thank the Lord," let be "dead sure" that the "cause" and "the people" are as far choice as mythical gold mines and oil wells, when filtered through promoters offer them a chance to get in on the ground floor.

The girls of Fremont, O., have organized a society to boycott all youths who do not come up to a certain standard of character. The plan of the society is this (verbatim):

"We will lay down rules insisting on total abstinence from swearing, lying, stealing, keeping late hours, or bad company, drinking, gambling and smoking. From all these things must these boys and young men refrain if they are to be eligible to our companionship. Committees will be appointed to report from time to time the characters of 'steady' men, and will report back to the union, which will then take action as the circumstances warrant. Every young man will have a rating, which will be entered up and kept as regards his life actions justly. We will spare no effort to develop the 'black sheep,' and will boycott them completely."

The road-builders in the Temiskaming district have found dynamite effective in the removal of stumps, and they promise to provide good roads for the settlers in short order. They also machinery for ditching and grading, and they make no cordurroy roads. This is a decided advance on the old methods, and it may have far-reaching consequences. If it pays the young Napoleons of Temiskaming, similar treatment may be effective in the Dominion Land Office, in use waiting for the stumps to rot so that they can be pulled out, or to dry so that they can be removed by fire, a dynamite campaign in the Department, which will convert wooden into metallic fields before the owner's hair has time to change colour. That's business.

A great moral question has cropped up in Saskatchewan, where the bumper crop is so large that the local railway facilities are not handle it working six days in the week. A couple of years ago the manager worked on Sunday under like conditions, but this year the rules have been laid down from Saturday to Monday, and 3000 bushes were too far gone on Monday morning to be worth putting up. This, the managers say, might be saved by calling the help in to take care of the berries on Sunday. They write to a local paper that they think it is selfish for a portion of the citizens to use their talents and influence against the simple act of saving the crop upon which a wise Providence caused to grow, when everything possible was done to keep the people off Saturday night. They do not believe in Sunday work, but think it less sinful to take care of fruit after it is grown than to let it decay. The case is certainly a hard one. Prime facie, there is at least as much occasion for emergency sunday work in a canning factory as in smelting ore or cutting hay, but it is not right to refuse to send on Bibles by gas light or electric light on Sunday?

In considering the question of the big coal strike, it is well to note that of Commerce gives expression to some wholesome truths which should regulate the action of the parties that they do receive in certain quarters. The feeling idea that labor and capital are in a state of hostility is readily a contingent in the minds of the ignorant and too lazy to think idea of it. It is of a piece with the idea that commerce is a kind of war to be fought with bullets aimed at prevent the use of goods, to be goods good things cheap, and averting the calamity of receiving more than we give. The Globe says, in part:

All the evils which are developed in the condition of unstable equilibrium in which the relations between labor and capital are unfortunately now at a disadvantage. It is difficult to find any radical difference between the rights of the interests of the buyer and seller of an industrial product, and that of the employer and workman concerned in the manufacture. They are not more antagonistic in the one case than in the other. In both there is a struggle to gain every possible advantage in purchase or sale; but commerce is not commonly on the theory that both parties to a bargain should treat each other as antagonistic enemies, and there seems no good reason why such should be regarded as the normal relation between employer and employed.

THE BLACK BASS SEASON.

(Toronto Daily Star.)

Thus ought to be a careful study made by the Provincial authorities to see whether the protection now accorded for black bass cannot be improved upon. The Georgian Bay and other these fish spawn much earlier in Lake Ontario and Lake Huron than in the more northern waters of the Georgian Bay and Muskoka. Fishing begins on the 16th of June, and at about the 25th of June the anglers in the north of Peninsula that are full of spawn. These fish are caught two or three weeks too soon, and are more cowardly than ever after the opening of the season. After their eggs are deposited they are hatched black bass sores and tired out, and cannot fight. Many of them are not survive. At through the Georgian Bay and Muskoka district black bass are, in our opinion, caught too soon. An experienced fisherman who has made his living with his nets for 45 years, and who is now a strongly argues that the black bass season should not open until the 15th of July. He thinks the close season should be adjusted in different districts to suit the ascertained requirements of each district.

There is another aspect to this question. The taking of black bass in the Georgian Bay is one of the chief attractions to Canada. The flow of tourists is in the latter half of July and in August. If the season opens a fortnight or a month before the fish are ready for it, the fishing is seriously injured. At the time the great body of visitors arrive the fishing is spoiled, and they make big catches. They tell the tale of what they have caught. They find a solitary bass under the wing of a boat, and they carry it in triumph, not reflecting that it is the only fish taken, and that it is an offspring. Loder on the bass, being needed, is spoiled, and the fish, solitary, stuffed, put in schools, and the tale of the big catch is told. The bass fishing of the summer resorts is spoiled for other and it seems evident that a change in the close season is advisable.

ALASKA BOUNDARIES.

To any who have not had clear and concise knowledge about the Alaskan boundary dispute and why it is that Canada has been so persistent in her claims, the letter of the Rev. Dr. Sproule of Collegiate Institute closing exercises, and why it was read at the Dominion Day celebration at Portland, Oregon, which is a very clear and concise statement of the position of the Canadian claim, and the following view of the circumstances, as set forth by Dr. Sproule, Mr. Sifton should make the strictest intelligible to any reader:

The three radical points of difference between Canada and the United States are: (1) that the treaty, upon the interpretation of which the boundary dispute depends, was made and running along Portland Channel, which is the most southerly point of Observatory Inlet of the present map, and that Canadian contention is that it is the Portland Channel of the present map; (2) that the United States claim there are no mountains parallel to the coast and that there, before the line must be laid down by agreement, the United States claim, it is stated that when the crest of the mountains is more than ten marine leagues from the coast, the ultimate drawn at a distance of ten marine leagues; while Canada claims that there are well-defined mountains 9 to 6 along the coast, at a visible from it, (5) the United States claim that the Portland Canal is not an indentation of the sheet into the land, but that it is a mere waterway, and that the line must be drawn leave the shore line around the bay and Canada contends that it is a territory, while the Canadian contention is that the boundary line is the point of the sea-ward point of the ocean coast, unless the bays are of miles wide, this being a well-established rule of international law.

The importance of the latter point is that if the United States claim contention should be held to be correct, the mouth of the Portland Canal, as Lynn Canal will be in Canadian waters, and all United States vessels in the Canadian coastwise service in British Columbia direct access to the Yukon country by way of the White pass route, whereas, otherwise, if the Lynn Canal continues to be wholly in United states territory, against which Canada has made protest, the boundary line will be 30 miles back from the head of Lynn Canal and the only Canadian access to the territory will be by rail from a point on the south side of the Portland Channel. It does not seem to strengthen the United States claim that Canada has made no offer to arbitration was so persistently refused.

MR. BLAKE COMPLIMENTED.

Hon. Edward Blake is getting much praise from commercial and shipping journals in Great Britain for a few minutes' speech he made in the House of Commons on the steamship trust. The Shipping World says:

"It is something approaching a miracle to find anyone in the House of Commons to talk sense about industrial combinations and railroads, and shipping engaged in the oversea trade. And the little speech of Mr. Blake, who followed the genial and impulsive Mr. Lemieux, was one of the leader in the House, contained a good deal of sound common sense, sound principles and wise counsel than any thing that has been heard in the House of Commons in the same space of time for a generation."

One passage in Mr. Blake's speech which is thus approvingly referred to, is as follows:

Wind had happened was a tribute to, and an acknowledgment of, the wisdom of Parliament in the regard to the carrying trade. What had happened was that the American trust bought a lot of English shipping lines, and they found they were worth in order to carry on business in which Parliament had was what the share was about (Cries of "Hear, hear") I thought it would be found out when the report was published that this great object lesson, the eight or nine hundred thousand that we had destroyed the true gods, and set up false idols.

I ought to prove a paying business for British ship builders and owners to sell vessels at 100 per cent. of their value. It will take time, but they can build new ones to compete with the American trust, and it is not likely that competition on the high seas can be crushed out permanently by any combination of capital. There can be no tariff walls to effectually restrict competition in this case.

HOT WEATHER AND HORSE HATS.

They have been having a hot spell in New York, and the people are taking measures to permit wearing hats, to sleep on the grass in the public parks. The Herald says that over on the east side all or the small park horses were left to the limit by women and children seeking relief from the terrors of little tormented homes. In some of the green squares the branches of trees almost impossible to find a spot large enough for a child to lie down and be not overcrowded. Nor were the horses the only sufferers. Commissioner of the Municipal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, Gilchrist, and gave away some thousands of straw hats, without regard to the ability of horse owners to pay for the hats, the greatest of the efficiency of horse head-gear. Mr Hawes said:

Careful investigation has proved that the use of hats has saved the lives of thousands of horses in the last two years. It has been strongly stated that a sponge soaked in water and placed in the hat would keep the horse's head cool by evaporation. We have tested this, and it is true, as our veterinarians say, that the sponge, by the evaporation of air, which the water does not materially reduce, does a temperature. This has should be worn along."

Mr. Hawes in the distribution hats the society has obtained portraits of horses, placed in front of its headquarters building, and at the ambulance station at No. 141 East Twenty-second street. Photos will be stationed to play a hose on all horses on days when the heat is excessive. At the request Fire Commissioner Scott the ambulance will be furnished of all fire engine companies to spray horses at such times.

Open the Churches.

Tax other day, on St. Catherine-st., was "Presbyterian" in the St. John News. I noticed a number of American tourists variety endeavoring to find admission to a Protestant church whose doors were securely locked, and which presented a cold, forbidding appearance. Why are the Protestant churches closed during the week, anyway? Do they serve their full purpose by being locked up for three hours once a week. The Roman Catholic churches are always open. You can enter and say prayers, or light a candle, or do what you can, whatever your creed, be welcomed by the divine service lighted and pleased with color effects. Admit that the Protestant churches are closed, you can gratify your curiosity in a very simple way, to select churches of a great city. The Catholic churches are open, one is all also open. The open church, in the case, would be made a moment from the struggle of the world and the conflict from a life of temptation. I think the Protestants could do no benefit equal the practice of our Cath. friends, to whom the church is a place of refuge, and, I think, those who are quick to turn to it, because it is carried.

They know they are irritable and fretful; but they cannot be otherwise.

They complain of a bad taste in the mouth, a tenderness at the pit of the stomach, an uneasy feeling of puffy fullness, headache, heartburn and what not.

A LIFE IN PERIL.

From L'Avenir, St. Jerome, Que.

Among the thousands of young girls who are in the high schools, and are rapidly carrying them through that most perilous period of their lives, there are a few who are suffering from the broader realm of womanhood, there is none more enthusiastic than Miss Eva Gauthier, a young lady well known to most of the residents of St. Jerome, Que., and greatly esteemed by all who have made her acquaintance. In a recent interview with a reporter of L'Avenir de Nord, Miss Thomas said: "From the time I was fourteen years of age I had frightful fits of agony my health was very bad, I was very weak; had no appetite and could do no work. At night I generally had a fever and could scarcely sleep. I suffered from headaches, dizziness and nervous troubles, and I was without becoming breathless, and I was very nervous. Naturally my friends feared I was going into consumption. I had consulted many of doctors but their treatment did not do me any good. I had tried several medicines, but with the same poor results, and I had come to think I would never be cured. I had read in a paper the statement of a young lady who had suffered as I had, and I consulted with mama, who was of the opinion that I should try the pills. I decided to try this medicine because I was so tired of being sick, and so I had only used the pills a short time when I began to feel better and in a couple of months every symptom of my trouble had disappeared and I was as strong and healthy as any girl could be. I have since always enjoyed the best of health and I feel that I owe it entirely to my experience proves helpful to others who are suffering as I was."

The happiness of health for both men and women is in their power to use Williams' Pink Pills which act on a narrow field and supply new blood to enfeebled systems. They have cured many thousands of cases of anæmia, the ailments of growing girls, pains in the back, neuralgia, depression of spirits, rheumatism, indigestion, constipation, sciatica, St. Vitus' dance, and paralysis. But substitutes should be avoided if you want the benefit of the genuine pills. Dealers will try to sell you a substitute because it yields them a larger profit, but if you insist on having Dr. Williams' Pink Pills you can get them from any medicine dealer, or sent post paid at the rate of 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

LOCAL LEGAL

Divisional Court Toronto, Before Falconbridge, C. J., Street, J., Britton, J.

McIntyre vs. Lodge of Loyal Judgment. Appeal by plaintiff from judgment of County Court of Victoria dismissing the action on appeal. Plaintiff was employed by defendants. The work was to clean out the town corporation and the Lindsay Gas Company and to repair Mansion House. Injuries sustained by the plaintiff on the night of October 9th, 1901, by falling into a deep trench dug by the defendant company along one of the streets of the town. Judgment was reserved at the trial, and the trial judge gave $75 and costs. The company had been authorized by a resolution of the Town Council to lay down their mains along the streets of the town. They had given notice to the corporation for all damages to arise therefrom. The plaintiff was not aware of the public nuisance, accidents by night. A portion of the work the company had opened a trench at the corner, in which the corporation men were laying a granolithic walk, and had erected a board fence along the dark side of the ditch and was in charge. Both of the defendants had put up any lights at the point in question, and the street was very dark. On previous nights the Gas Company had brought in large loads of gravel to warm persons of the existence, and, the night of the accident was preparing to lay down the pipes. The Gas Company had to dig up the highway without the authority of the town council, but the Council, in giving the authority the town corporation not to allow the Gas Company to carry liability. Section 531 does not apply because the Gas Company in acting with the consent and license of the town corporation. The evidence shows that the highway was not properly fenced to the knowledge of the town corporation, and the plaintiff was injured by such non-repair and by the negligence of the defendants in not that the trench was lighted. Dulmage vs. Stone, 1 O. R. 610, was distinguished. Appeal allowed and judgment to be entered for the plaintiff against the defendants for $75 with costs. The defendants to be entitled to a judgment against the Gas Company for indemnity. Judgment against the town corporation should not recover the costs from the Gas Company. Necessity of appeal to the Divisional Court. Merry (Lindsay) for plaintiff. H. L. Dayley for defendants.

THE EMPIRE'S GRANARY.

(Ottawa Free Press.)

An extract was given a day or two ago from the report of the Agricultural Department of the North West Territory for the year 1901. Further examination shows that the future production of grain and other produce of that wonderful country cannot be estimated if the increase seen between 1900 and 1901 in the development is likely to continue in proportion. And there is no reason for doubting that as immigration increases, and the field for the increased the development will be even more rapid and extraordinary than at present. The Commissioner (Lieutenant Governor) Cornwall, in his report to the Dominion Government, the Territories, the following table, which speaks for itself:

	Acres	Bushels	Acres	Bushels
1901	4,544,478	3,146,767	449,517	9,011,000
1900	4,063,893	4,086,146	337,471	8,000,000
1899	4,000,000	3,000,000	300,000	6,000,000

It will be seen that last year crop shows an enormous leap in quantity, 3,146,767 bushels of wheat, an increase of 25.57 bushels, in oats 42.88, and in barley 33.33 as compared with 3.75, 24.06 and 32.18 respectively in 1900. The average yield of wheat was 755,967 compared with 605,241 in 1900. It is not only in the fact that the Territories are going to excel in the government making every effort to increase the quantity and consequent value of her stock of all kinds. As it is, the Territories have largely established their claim to be the stock depot of the West. The report shows that the total exports of cattle, sheep and swine, in quantity, total something over 48,000 head, and in 1900 it exported 40,000 all Canada. Thus 42 per cent of the total exports of live stock came from the Territories. The Department of Agriculture is making every effort not only to hold what it has, but to increase the quantity, and it is the fact that it rules over an agricultural territory such as Canada, practically. Thirty-eight pure bred bulls were imported into the Territories last year from Ontario and Molobe and under the usual departmental management, and the department, in conjunction with the Territorial Pure Bred Stock Breeders' Association, is sparing no pains to foster the local industry. Cattle are paying (the conditions being now favorable). The need, and it is being met, is to increase, the department has entered into an agreement with the Canadian Pacific Railway Company for the carriage of cattle, sheep and swine in free of transportation charges to the contractors, and it is the intention of the department, statistics of the dairy industry in the Territories are given. The figures show continued and marked progress. Farmers' institutes, dairy and butter societies have been established, and the progress of all such work. But the government is not confining its efforts to the dairy. It is providing hospitals, sanitaria for consumptives, the magnificent site of which recently making it equally suitable for such institutions. The "great West" is, it is said, at present not very widely known in Ontario, but it is expected shortly to become in a very few years one of the most prosperous, populous and important sections of the Dominion.

4.—On Glenelg-st., south side, from William-st. to Lindsay-st., walk to be 5 feet wide.

5.—On Somerset-st., west side, from Kent-st. to Peel-st., walk to be 5 feet wide.

6.—On Glenelg-st., north side, from Somerset to Albert-st., walk to be 5 feet wide.

7.—On Kent-st., west, that portion fronting the Hospital grounds, about 300 lineal feet. I had to remove the old plank walk there in order to grade the grounds, and as it is not in condition to be laid down again. Walk 5 feet wide.

8.—On Peel-st., both sides, from William-st. to Cambridge-st., walk to be 5 feet wide.

9.—On Wellington-st., north side, from William-st. to Cambridge-st., walk to be 5 feet wide.

10.—On Russell-st., south side, from William-st. to Cambridge-st., walk to be 5 feet wide.

These walks I have referred to are needed, and in many cases I have had verbal request to have them put down. I would therefore recommend that they be advertised, and if such tenders as are not petitioned against be proceeded with. If you decide to build them by contract they can be all completed by the end of October, if they are good to do so.

At a recent Council meeting considerable discussion took place as to the disposal of the street storm water. I have written to all the Corporation Engineers in the cities and towns of Ontario, and I have received several replies which I place before you tonight, also a copy of the questions I asked them to answer.

All Hore—We are not going to be able to build all the walks already approved.

All Jackson—That's true, but by passing them the Council for next year will know how much there is to buy during this winter.

All Hore—Yes, that is the use of dabbling with the work we cannot finish this year? I'm sorrowful.

All Jackson referred to the reduction of one of the hand instruments by Mr. J. Young, who proposed to take a claim against the town in connection with it, but that had been remitted. He never demanded the money, but will now be asked to do so and if not the instrument be properly returned.

The Lighting Tenders.

All McDiarmid, chairman of the Police and Lighting committee in connection with the lighting tenders received from the Gas Co. and the Electric Light Co. I was instructed to get a lighting system should be connected with the fire alarm system by means of switches, so that when an alarm was sent in at night the building would be instantly illuminated. Both companies agreed to so arrange their system. The Electric Light Co. proposed to do the 47 lights, at an initial cost of $184, for 30 years and installation, the current to be supplied at a metre rate of 10c. per 1000 volts, instead of 20c., charged formerly. The Gas Co. proposed to put in 50 lights of 25 candle power each, the initial cost of this system to be $400, including brass fixtures, and to be supplied at the current rate of $2.50 per 100 feet. In conclusion the Chairman said he was convinced that both offers were based on actual cost.

All Robson—But after all we lack figures to show the actual cost of either system.

All McDiarmid—You can't get at that except by actual experience. Mr. Wm. Johnston, Dominion inspector of Gas and Electric lights, told me some time ago that the illuminating capacity of a 25 cp. gas lamp was only a fraction in excess of a 16 cp. electric lamp. As to the cost of the respective systems, I think they will figure out about the same.

All Hore—Are we going to get it at the cheapest and best?

All O'Reilly—I find gas cheaper for my own house.

All Jackson—The Kent-st. street lamp fit will gas cheaper to be brightly than the others.

Finally it was moved by All. Hore, seconded by All. Burrows, that the tender of the Electric Light Co. be accepted.—Carried.

It was mentioned that the low rate quoted for current would apply to the town hall also.

Council then adjourned to take up committee work.

BOARD OF WORKS MATTERS.

Tenders for Cement Walks—The Disposal of Street Storm Water.

All. O'Reilly, chairman of the Board of Works, asked the attention of his colleagues while he read the tenders sent in for the construction of some cement walks. The tenders were:

Mr. James Bogue, Peterboro, asked, at 15c. for sidewalk, 6 feet wide and finish, and 60c. for expanded metal work per square foot.

Mr. Hayes, Peterboro, tendered at 14½c. and 12½c. for the two, and offered to lay surface finish, his price for expanded metal work being 95. per square foot.

All. McDiarmid—Where is our commissioner's tender?

All. O'Reilly—He didn't put one in.

Commissioner Chalmers, when questioned, said he did not wish to run any risk owing to the hot weather, high price of lime and other drawbacks.

All McDiarmid—That's all right if you are going to run the town, but I think the commissioner should be here to do as you were told.

All. Burrows—I was instructed and understood that Mr. Chalmers was to tender in order that we may have a basis of comparison.

All. Jackson and others maintained that the Council had not been instructed to tender, the matter had been left open, and no resolution to that effect had been passed.

Mr. Chalmers was spoken to by the Clerk here out All. Jackson's statement.

All. Burrows—Well, let the walks be tendered out again.

All. Jackson—Shall pay to a yard price that they're costing us?

All. McDiarmid—Give us the point exactly—we have enough to way by which we can accept the lowest tender, saving. That's the reason we want a basis of comparison.

Mayor Ingle—I gathered from your remarks at first that you think you have cited the Commissioner was not empowered to tender.

All. McDiarmid—No such thing; I think it would be fair to find out the cost of walks built by city work at comparised with the contract price.

All. Burrows—It costs us a good deal more than by contract. Chalmers can't manage them.

Mayor Ingle—Now, don't make such insinuations—you don't know anything about it.

The tenders of Messrs. Bogue and Hayes were referred back to the committee made by the Commissioner early in the season and proved to be about the same. Since then the price of labour, etc., has increased.

All McDiarmid—There is another point—are the walks built by the Commissioner as good as those made by the contractors? Judging by the Peel-st. and Kent-st. walks, I think they are.

All. Under all the circumstances, and seeing that we have to pay for them, it would it not be well to let some by contract, especially as we have in view of the Commissioner's statement that he cannot do them?

It was then moved by All. McDiarmid, seconded by All. Burrows, "that Mr. Bogue's tender for sand finish be accepted."—Carried.

All. Jackson—We will require an overall.

All. O'Reilly—I am in favor of a local work.

All. Jackson—That is all right, but he must be a capable person.

All. O'Reilly—I'll see to that and get applications.

All. Jackson thought the selection of a man should be left with the commissioner, but the matter was finally vigorously opposed by All. McDiarmid, who contended that as a commissioner it was decided that Mayor Ingle should pick the man.

Other Business.

A proposition to fill up the old Court House cellar for a local work met with the approval of a few members, although it was stated that the new lockup in the fire hall basement would not be fit for cells. No action was taken.

Commissioner Chalmers.—"What about the plans and specifications for the Wellington-st. bridge repairs? When do you expect me to draw them up—I will not do the work at night without extra pay?"

All. Burrows.—"Well, then, we will discharge you."

A lengthy and at times heated discussion on the subject of the disposal of street water brought the meeting to a close about 11.30. A number of letters from the engineers of various cities and towns were read, a majority of whom endorsed the running of surface water into the streets under certain restrictions, as unpolluted. Commissioner Chalmers, and Clalmore, but the practice was condemned by several as being dangerous to the public. Other letters are to be given at a future meeting, and likely be discussed with greater warmth at a future meeting, as the disposal of storm water is becoming a critical question in Lindsay.

FREIGHT HANDLERS LOSE.

Ten Days' Strike Ends in Unqualified Victory for the Railroads.

Chicago, July 12.—After ten days of strike the Chicago freight handlers, employed by railroads, gave in an unqualified victory for the railroads. At a meeting of the strikers, presided over by President Curran, resulted in an almost unanimous vote to return to work, leaving the whole scale and other questions for settlement between the men and their respective roads.

At the conclusion of the meeting the strikers went by hundreds to the warehouses to apply for their old positions, and the teamsters who have remained out in sympathy again took up their reins. There was immense quantities of freight, which had been held back for days, now being rushed to the railroads, or taken from the warehouses. Many teamsters expressed unbounded joy at the termination of the strike, but the men were seemingly more than the men themselves. The strike is estimated to have cost the merchants $10,000,000, to say nothing of the loss to the strikers, amounting to lost.

The meeting of the strikers was brief, only long enough for an angry speech by President Curran, who complained of betrayal by the union ranks, and the taking of the vote.

The Association of Daily General Managers, embracing every road which enters Chicago, has issued the following signed statement:

All of the men, as well before on hand for work, reported at the freight houses at noon yesterday, we put to work. No conference was held with any committee or individual representing the union and agreement was made with the union in with any committee. We simply reported for work, and they doubtless expect and will be the pay offered July 1, and which the railroad companies have been willing all along to pay."

CONFIDENT OF VICTORY.

President Mitchell of the Mine Workers Expresses His Views.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 17.—President Mitchell of the Mine Workers arrived yesterday for the miners convention, which will meet to-day. He expressed no anxiety whatever as to the probable action of the convention, saying it was doubtful what would be done. "I shall make a speech and the convention will do as it pleases," he said, "but I will wait until that time to say whatever I intend to say. I am confident that we will win our strike." We are in good shape for the struggle, however, and have plenty of money at present."

The opinion prevails among the delegates that there will be a strike of the soft coal men.

Registration in the convention began to arrive yesterday morning. While the delegates to the convention are non-committal, the majority of them do not favor a strike. The impression prevails that what the anthracite men are.

FEED LEE RICE MUST HANG.

The Cabinet Decided That Law Must Take Its Course.

Ottawa, July 16.—As a last resort Mrs. Rice appealed Tuesday night to the Administrator, Sir Henry Strong to save her son Lee Rice, from the gallows. The old Chief Justice, however, gave her to know that nothing could be done in the matter so far as he was concerned. She then went once more gone into at a meeting of the Cabinet, and it was decided that it is evident that some of the Minister's sympathy had been won by the mother, but as the matter is the whole matter, it was decided that Lee Rice must hang. The law takes its course Friday.

Victim of the Experiment.

Dover, N.J., July 17.—Miss Emma H. King, the young woman who submitted to experiments with the germs of consumption less than a year ago, died at her home here. Dr. Barney of Brooklyn, might prove the value of his theory of germ of tuberculosis, died in circumstances which have led to a thorough and searching investigation. At the farm house of Fred Shuman, at Shippenport, on lake Hopatcong, Miss King, who was this place, on Sunday night.

Dr. Barney died of poison self administered, but it is not believed that she committed suicide. It is on the contrary the arsenic powder which killed her was a medicine which was received according to the physician to restore her to life and vigor which was here before her conscious to become a martyr to science, but which she came from Brooklyn and the time Dr. Barney operated on her.

PAGE WIRE FENCE

This is the Page Standard It Bar Fence, made of "Page" wire which is twice as strong as common wire. The continuous coil, fully wire appearance, allows for expansion and contraction which is important owing to Canadian climate. Our upright wires are in one piece and have a breaking strength of about 800 pounds. If made of pieces spliced at each horizontal, they would have a breaking strength of only about 300 pounds. We also make gates, ornamental fence, poultry netting, nails and staples.

KILLED INSTANTLY BY LIGHTNING

Thos. Hickson, of Ennismore, Met Death near Port Hope on Monday.

Thomas Hickson, son of Mr. James Hickson, Ennismore, was struck and killed by lightning during a very heavy storm that passed over Port Hope district Monday afternoon. The deceased was one of the many men employed upon the new double track being laid by the G T R. now a few miles west of Port Hope. The storm suddenly coming up, Hickson drove his team under a tree near by for shelter, and he had only been there a few moments when the fatal flash occurred. It appears that the lightning struck his watchchain, which was exposed and fastened to his suspenders, and holding the watch, which he carried in a front pocket of his trousers. The timepiece was shattered by the lightning. Except what appears to be a slight burn on the back of the head there were no marks or injuries made upon the body of the unfortunate man. An Italian laborer, who was standing near, was knocked over and stunned by the electric shock.

The body was prepared at Port Hope for interment, and later removed to the home of the young man's mother in Ennismore. He was but twenty four years old, and had been working at Port Hope for two weeks past. The bereavement that has suddenly come will be most poignant to the mother and family, and friends will deeply regret the death of the young man. The funeral took place Wednesday morning to Ennismore cemetery.

HERE'S A LUCKY FISHERMAN.

A Twelve Pound Maskalonge Captured With Rod and Line.

The fisherman who hooks and plays a healthy four pound bass has his work cut out for him and generally emerges from the struggle with aching wrist. But what of the man whose luck introduces him to a twelve pound maskalonge and the task of handling the monster with a 25c. rod? Mr. John Flurey, the Kent-st. grocer, can tell you all about the man and his sensations.

For several weeks Mr. Flurey had been promising to take his young son on a fishing trip, and at daybreak last Thursday morning they were in their boat en route for Ferris' landing after bass. As the fish did not bite freely at the worms used for bait Mr. Flurey finally decided to land in order that his son might catch some small green frogs.

After gaining the shore, and while looking along the water's edge for the 'hoppers' Mr. Flurey saw a sight that was calculated to make a fisherman's eyes stick out—half-a-dozen feet away, with his back fin sticking out of the water and his huge bulk clearly outlined against the shallow bottom reposed a very large maskalonge, motionless and apparently asleep. Reaching for his rod in noiseless fashion, Mr. Flurey dropped the unbaited hook in front of the monster's mouth, which was opening and shutting with machinelike regularity and a moment later the barb was sucked out of sight. Thinking it had floated under the fish Mr. Flurey gave a slight tug on the line, when—presto! the maskalonge—safely hooked—leaped about a foot out of the water, tried to tie a knot in its glistering body, and then started for deep water.

As a result of the surprise and the vicious pull of the fish Mr. Flurey lost his footing and narrowly escaped taking a header into the water, but presently he regained his equilibrium, braced his foot against a rock and pulled as he does when raising a barrel of sugar out of the cellar. The line held, and the fish, checked in its first mad rush, turned shoreward at full speed. Just then Mr. Flurey put forth another effort, and the next moment the air seemed full of flying fish of huge girth. The lunge landed about six feet back on the sloping bank, freed from the hooks.

Then it was that Master Fleury got his innings. The lad had been excited to fever pitch by his father's struggle with the big fish, and when he saw that it was free and might yet escape he threw himself upon the flopping monster and had the wrestle of his life. Fish and boy rolled about the green sward for a few minutes in a tangle of heads, feet, tail and scales, but the boy was game as well as the fish and finally managed to give the latter its quietus by administering a few taps with a stone picked up in the course of the rough-and-tumble struggle.

The home-coming was a sort of triumphal procession. The boy had to show his prize and relate the story to parties met on the way, and fishy though it was the tale was believed by everyone and lauded as another convincing demonstration of the varied nature of the sport to be enjoyed on the Kawartha Lakes. The wealthy American tourist, as yet unacquainted with the real thing in the way of fishing, would cheerfully fork over a couple of hundred dollars to enjoy one dash of such sport as Mr. Flurey and his son experienced that morning before breakfast.

May Build Smaller Library

SOME MEMBERS OPPOSE "TOUCH-ING" CARNEGIE A SECOND TIME.

Tenders Will be Called for on Two Sets of Specifications.

The regular monthly meeting of the Public Library Board was held Monday in the Council chamber, the members present being Messrs. Morris, Steele, Handy, Kylie, Wilwelle and Rev. J. W. Macmillan. The latter gentleman, in the absence of Judge Harding, was appointed chairman pro tem.

The principal working of the formal requisition to be made on the Town Council that the sum of $2000 be raised for the purchase of a site for the Carnegie Library occupied the attention of the members for over half an hour. Finally Mr. Morris drafted such a form in compliance with the statutes, and the requisition, after being signed and sealed with the official seal, was sent over to the Council, then in session in the Clerk's office. Accompanying it was a duplicate form (made in deference to Judge's Hardingle's objection) in the Clerk's minutes. It to be distinctly understood that this amount, if granted, was not to be a charge against the annual revenue of the Board.

When the matter came up for debate, Mr. Macmillan urged in earnest language that the Board reconsider its decision to apply to Mr. Andrew Carnegie for an additional grant on the ground that the increase in the cost of labor and material made it impossible to erect a suitable building for the sum granted (=$4,000). "We may take the easy of some labor organizations in other places," remarked the speaker, "and look upon the grant as a gift which relieves the leading course of his illgotten wealth, but I do not agree with that. We have been granted $4,000 for a special purpose, and it is a matter of honor upon whom we have no claim, and I do not think we should so violate the trust dignity or gratuitously ask for more. We have accepted the offer of Mr. Carnegie in good faith, and I do not think we should be guilty of a breach of honor." Mr. Macmillan said that if the sum had been raised in town for the purpose, machinery and site would well apply to the Commissioner for further aid. He hoped that some of the members had raised a little coin themselves, which appeared to be the case, for about a week ago, Mr. Ball spoke to a number of citizens and all and agreed with him that to apply for another grant would be very bad taste. We should either have a site donated by some public subscription or modify the plans so that the Library could be erected for the sum granted by Mr. Carnegie.

Mr. Morris spoke with the chairman. Mr. Carnegie had probably made his offer in a moment of philanthropy and now special willing to do a little more. He (Morris) personally he had not been entirely in favor of accepting the grant, but the practice seemed to be general.

Mr. Handy admitted that, like Mr. Macmillan, he felt somewhat upset at about asking for a second grant, yet on the other hand, towns to have a public library, as provided by the statutes, Parliament to be on the safe way of raising the extra amount. Personally, he felt it would be a big forgetting that Mr. Carnegie was willing to grant us any amount, provided that town complied with certain conditions as to maintenance.

Mr. Steele—It is intended that if Mr. Carnegie granted us $2,000 towards the maintenance charge shall be increased pro rata?

Mr. Flavell—No, it was our intention to state the Town Council would allow that a building of this kind should not cost more than $4,000 to be erected in the town council."

Mr. Macmillan—Then, if the plans for a building to cost $11,500 —and not this big fire-proof vault, where four-fifths of those present rooms a trifle, and the thing is done.

Mr. Steer—I wonder why the architect did not sign all that on cost of the difficulty.

Mr. Flavell—The size of the building is based on the requirements, according to the best information, experts, and it would be a pity to modify them unless it is absolutely necessary.

Finally it was agreed that specifications for a somewhat small building should be prepared, and tenders will be called for on two sets of plans for the same, the cost of the work not to be asked for another grant.

A Morning Runaway.

What might have been a very serious runaway occurred on Lindsay street about 10.30. Messrs. Watt, Jamieson and Wesley Trevitt, Lindsay, were at the freight shed when the Coboconk train passed. One of the horses in a cutt and took to grass. The horse running at a terrific rate as far as the Victoria Flour Mill, where they were forced in between the mill and some cars. Both mills were stopped in the bottom of the waggon, and they did not get out of the seat, which seed in Lindsay for some time. Fortunately no one was hurt, but the horse got beyond a bad shaking up.

O'Keefe was operating a circular saw at the mill when the accident happened. He was taken to Dr. McAlpine's office, where the injured hand was dressed. Granolithic Walk Contracts.

Mr. Jas. Bogue, of Peterboro, contractor for the stone and brick work in connection with the new Court House, was the lucky tenderer for 28,000 square feet of granolithic walks. The contract was let at the Board of Works last Monday. The price of 19.1-4c. per square foot for short walks and 16c. for expanded metal work. Mr. Hayes, of Peterboro, the other tenderer, was a quarter of a cent higher for sand finish work and one a foot higher for metal work. Mr. Bogue is well up here a few years ago, and as they have given good satisfaction we think the contract just awarded will be carried out in the same thorough manner.

The First Garden Party.

The garden party held under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Centenary Methodist church Thursday was not the first. Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Bank's beautiful residence left nothing to be desired as a decided success. The evening was all that could be desired, and there had a tendency to bring out a large crowd. The lawn was prettily decorated with large and small flags, bunting and Chinese lanterns, which cast a very pretty and fairy like appearance. The refreshments served were looked after by the young lady workers of the church. The Orange Young rendered some sweet music during the evening, which all appeared enjoyed. The popular Lindsay Mile Band, under the leadership of Prof. Little, Campbell, Beecroft and Dr. Ward, were present and added much to the delight of the crowd, playing some of their choicest and most graceful manner, and Miss Carnell and Miss Lillie Bank, sang with her usual appreciation. The Mark Street ladies had charge of the parlors with another number entitled "Cosy Corner." The ladies in charge of these parlors were heard to better advantage. We understand the Quarterly Conference decided to hold the next at several garden socials in the Connection for week. The generosity of Mr. and Mrs. Bank in throwing their fine grounds open to the public was highly appreciated by the Ladies' Aid Society. The pleasure was enhanced by a brought to a close by the band playing the national anthem.

Police Court Calendar.

On Thursday, July 24, Mr. D. Mallon was as usual on his daily rounds collecting His Majesty's mail. When passing Brady's grain warehouse on the east we'll he noticed two up three feet sitting inside, and one of them said, "Hello, Ad. Is that thought you would be lockmaster before this." Mallon replied saying he did not be sure of the position as that, and then turned back, entering the building. As he was chatting to the poor Mr. D. J. Scully, he forewarned the warehouse, who was not very friendly to Mr. Mallon. Mr. Scully, however, told him to "get out, or he would put him out." A. said he would put out for him—it was Mr. Brady's building and the latter was a gentleman. Mr. Scully was out. Finally them put him out, but while doing the Mallon used abusive language. And finally put Scully on the back of the neck with his mail bag. Scully laid an information against Mallon, and the latter appointed before Magistrate Steers last Tuesday on two charges, one of assaulting Mr. Scully and the other of using abusive language. He was fined $1 and costs on the first, and Mr. G. H. Hopkins was counsel for Mallon.

For being drunk and disorderly on Dominion day, Jonathan Tracy was nabbed by Chief Newton on Wednesday, 9th, and placed in the "cooler." He appeared next day morning before P. M. Steers to explain his bad conduct. The accused was a fine of $5 and costs $7.70 in all, or ten days in gaol.

It will make the butter better

CHAPTER X.

Three days more, and Melville was pronounced well enough to travel, and Laughlin was alone. The first day, in enthusiasm over, the exploits can even out. The populace of Brentwood had settled down to its usual routine, and but for some scores of unemployed men and a gang of troublesome tramps infesting the outskirts little was left in the town itself to recall the excitement and turmoil of the days of the strike. Over in the yard of the Seattle mines and carpenters by the dozen were busy at work, nearly all of them local craftsmen. The lull wind that whirled the Seattle's thousands up in smoke and flame was blowing mainly in dirgeds into the pockets of Brentwood's artisans and filling them to the coffers of Brentwood's merchants. The Big Horn might be be better managed and in more prosperous condition, but the Seattle brings the money. Barclay's banquet had turned many a hand and not a few hearts against the municipal leaders, and Barclay's dollars were paying for the people. The regulars had gone home over the Seattle, the guardsmen had preceded them over the Big Horn, and the people had returned to the guardianship of their own municipal and Brentwood's police. The sheriff had discharged his extra deputies, and Eric Langdon, begining to see the end of his year's special salary, took counsel with himself in the matter and decided he would planned his daily life. It had been Channing's expectation that he should take a room in the yards and his meals at the Brentwood, but Langdon had decided for rigid economy. It might be long months before he could hope for promotion and better pay, and it was his determination to live at least half of each month's stipend to go toward the payment of his debt and 10 more to form a fund on which he could depend in the event of life or accident. Miss Isbel of the Brentwood hated, he said, to have him go, but directed him to a quiet, homelike little place, where he secured a room and plain but sufficient board under the roof of a widow whose sole support had been killed in a collision on the Seattle three years before. Yet the hotel man was at hand not seldom to see him go. He liked him well, but certain of the owners did not. He begged Langdon to come round and make himself at home whenever he felt like it, but secretly feared he might be too busy. There had been a few days immediately following the strike when the majority of the municipal council, the district attorney and other prominent citizens and business men had expressed themselves as delighted to meet Mr. Langdon and as grateful to good work for his gallant conduct at a critical time. But since Barclay's banquet they met him with a certain constraint; they met him but at all, for his duties kept him at the yards from early morning to late dark. There seemed to be just one set of men whose eyes lighted up at sight of him, who were taught to hope his organization and many of whom never passed him without some manifestation of a military salute. These were the members of the Brentwood rifles, officially known as Company "C" of the Fourth Nebraska. One evening, hardly a week after Mayville had gone, three of them came to see him. "Lieut. Hoy said, was going to quit. He had been so quizzed and criticised during the strikers' day away with their guns that he couldn't stand the pressure. The lieutenants were given, we wouldn't let Langdon come round to the armory two evenings a week and drill them." Now Langdon had been planning a course of reading in the library of the Young Men's Christian association, but the rifles were importunate. Something should be done, and he promised. Eighteen men appeared the first night —Tuesday—and 28 the second—Friday. One of the lieutenants was the son of the leading banker of Brentwood, the other a young lawyer. Both greeted him civilly and sat and watched his work with absorbing interest. The third night "Cap" came round and looked on. Forty-four men were in ranks—twice as many as he could ever scrape together for drill—and, though he stood behind them Langdon during a rest, and said he found his business required all his time and attention and therefore he had reconsidered to resign, his manner lacked cordiality. Two weeks later a committee waited on Langdon to know if he would accept the command of the company if elected, and after exchanges of letters between himself and Channing Langdon said that, if unanimously chosen and the lieutenant resigned commission, he would serve. Then it got into the papers. The members of the company, as a rule, were young clerks, bookkeepers and salesmen, highly intelligent and of good families, and their hapless experience had made them the laughing stock of the street boys, the railway shop men and the rip-roaring class of the community as well as of certain envious fellow citizens. "The soldiers," they were called, when all that was needed to make them a force to be dreaded by lawbreakers was a captain who knew his business, could command their respect and teach them attention, drill and discipline. Lieutenant Perrigo was presiding at the meeting when a newspaper was read in a caustic speech pointed out their needs and defects, and, saying there was just one man in the community capable of doing them justice, proposed that Langdon be elected. Brentwood's Mr. Eric Langdon, wherever the whole meeting, barring its presiding officer, strong to its feet and cheered. There was not a dissenting voice, and 49 members were present.

Yet within a week the Brentwood Banner began publishing insidious little paragraphs. "It is understood that the rifles contemplate a change in the captaincy. What has Brentwood done that several capable officers should be overlooked and the command tendered to a kicked out captain from the army?" was the first specimen. The Examiner asked if the rifles expected to add to their popularity by giving to their head a man who would have slaughtered a score of fellow citizens but for the prompt and merciful intervention of local officials. The Examiner was sarcastic and Brentwood's election, and this official well knew the paragraph to be from the pen of neither one, but he couldn't quarrel with his bread and butter, and it was best to admit that, now the strike season was over, that he had actually interposed in behalf of the strikers. At all events, he did nothing to cause its correspondent The Brentwood Sun (Populist) said if anything was wanted to make the company in which the rifles were held it was the rumor that they had tendered the command to an officer who, if any whose drunken folly was so near to costing scores of people their life or fortunes, since. And Langdon, who stood ready to devote valuable time and energy to the improvement of the rifles, received not a word, not a hint, of reward, whatever, for his tireless efforts, which, we, who dently at work. The election, which was to have taken place the first Monday in January, was postponed a fortnight. Meanwhile, Erica friend of the Brentwood, took him aside and advised him to withdraw his name. The committee, on the contrary, had begged him to "stand pat." Meantime Langdon's number of honorary members at $50 apiece, got a "swell" uniform, gave a series of very successful dancing parties and what they termed exhibition drills, where the clockwork precision and graceful ease of their movements elicited the loudings and fidings in behalf of prolonged tumultuous applause, it prompted the rifles to issue a challenge to all comers west of the Mississippi and east of the mountains to compete for a valuable prize at the Exposition building in April, the anniversary of their master's birthday. Not the thing the rifles knew Eric Langdon was going down to Guthrie twice a week to coach the Gunnison Grays, Company K, Fourth Nebraska, and Brentwood, which had refused to let itself of his services, was promptly informed that he should leave for them elsewhere. The Sun couldn't say much now, because it was down on the rifles for having old cost to the Seattle. The Banner wouldn't say much, because Mr. Armstrong was ashamed of what he had said, and this happened to be a matter that didn't bother the Examiner. Meanwhile, Langdon had done what it could to make Langdon friendship his new position at the yards, now duly and formally appointed its adherence of the man who had charge of the Seattle's interests and work against the best interests of the community in whose midst he had found a home and the life-long friends him elsewhere. Appeals were written to Langdon to compel authorities to remain at his post. Channing announced that his post now included the Seattle mines and that he was up a cabal against him among the Grays who had had his two weeks start and had won their good will; besides, there was now that $1,000 prize hanging up for all comers, and companies from Minnesota, Iowa and Kansas had entered the list. So the Grays stood firm. Then the Brentwoods strove to hedge and to limit the contest to companies that had not received professional assistance," but that resulted upon themselves. Then The Sun was inspired to see what it could do to stir up a strike against Langdon at the yards of the Big Horn, where there must be men who rebelled against the supervision of a strict, solid man who had served in the ranks. They were in the minority, and the Banner, which had promised to be super calling for Langdon's dismissal or resignation, undertook to "Channing's order, hauled up before the superintendent and "gave the sack." Then Langdon was called to the office of the superintendent at Brentwood and higher officials in Chicago. Langdon was called upon to explain his overbilling. Langdon was speculating through the yards, and Channing, having investigated unbeknown to Langdon, fell flat. He had won the respect of the better people of the community (and expected training) he minded his own business and gained the sympathy and interest in the affairs of the operatives and the crews of the trains. In March the superintendent of the Seattle offered him a similar berth at bigger pay provided he would move to Sioux City, and the offer was declined. In April the great drill came off. The flag of the rifles was trailed in the dust. They were not even "placed" by the judges, and the great prize was won in almost half-hour by the Gunnison Grays.

Time and again Langdon had received warnings from the police that there was a gang of the south side ever watching for a chance to "do him up" and from mine boss of the Brentwood that there were influential men on the north side, potent in the councils of the Big Horn, who would hurt him if they could. One day there came a curt summons from a local lawyer to the effect that bills to the amount of $500 had been placed in his hands for collection and calling upon him to take immediate steps to meet them. Langdon called to inquire and was curtly, almost insolently, received. He paid the money, however, to convince him that two of the bills were those of dealers at Pawnee to whom Langdon had gone and scrupulously been paying $10 a month apiece. The inference was plain. Nothing had tonglint to the balance of the claims and sent them through. Perhaps a rank for collection. Langdon wrote to Channing, but no answer came. Twice the latter had written him that the president and vice-president directors had spoken to him about Mr. Langdon's debts. It was evident that some enemy was hounding him, but so long as Channing was "on deck," he was wrote to Langdon, he could count on his support.

But Channing was no longer on deck. The increase in train work, the strain, the immense labor devolving on an active official of the road whose resources could its resources, had finally told. Nervous prostration and collapse had succeeded, and Channing was ordered at last.

It was the first week in May and with all nature sweet and smiling about him. Eric Langdon came up from Guthrie, where, in charge of a freight, his heart heavy as lead. He had spent the early hours of the night in midnight, freight work, working hard with the Grays, for their ambition was boundless now, and they had entered for a competition in an adjoining state. The night itself he had spent trying to sleep under the roof of the Guthrie station agent, but sleep would not come, and he had paced the street and walked the platform under the glittering stars. On Monday, said the ticket-agent, the 20th of May, he paid, Langdon had no appetite for breakfast. He took a cup of coffee at the station restaurant on reaching Brentwood and, though it was barely 6 o'clock, went to his office. Langdon's office witchcen not, ed his haggard face and wondered at his early hours. Early as they were, some one had been before him. The safe door stood open—the cash was

The Goods—The Dull.

Upon the shelves from day to day, My goods they gathered and they lay. "If things go on as they are now, Long, Long, "I'll surely burst!"

Said Slow, "I'll surely burst!"

"Why don't you advertise?" said Emarsh.

Said Slow, "I never thought of that!" And then he straightway wrote an "ad."

Which told his story pat.

And in this paper there appeared This "ad" of Slow's, and, lo! and in six weeks or thereabouts (He store was stripped complete.

About Peat Fuel

Hamilton Herald: It is not improbable that the question of the price of anthracite coal will give a stimulus to the peat industry in Ontario. It is in the opinion of some persons well from the standpoint of the interior as well as from that of the island region. There, it is said, the peat is more easily accessible, vast deposits of it are in close, easy, and cheap, excellent fuel could be obtained. In several instances it has been used suitably in Germany and Sweden the manufacturers have found it a very important industry, and an enormous quantity of it has been used as a substitute for coal. We notice that Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in his speech in the industry on a large scale, proposed to compel authorities to remain at his post. Channing announced that his post now included the Seattle mines and that he was up a cabal against him among the Grays who had had his two weeks start and had won their good will; besides, there was now that $1,000 prize hanging up for all comers, and companies from Minnesota, Iowa and Kansas had entered the list. So the Grays stood firm. Then the Brentwoods strove to hedge and to limit the contest to companies that "had not received professional assistance," but that resulted upon themselves. Then The Sun was inspired to see what it could do to stir up a strike against Langdon at the yards of the Big Horn, where there must be men who rebelled against the supervision of a strict, solid man who had served in the ranks. They were in the minority, and the Banner, which had promised to undertook to "Channing's order, hauled up before the superintendent and "gave the sack." Then Langdon was called to the office of the superintendent at Brentwood and higher officials in Chicago. Langdon was called upon to explain his overbilling. Langdon was speculating through the yards, and Channing, having investigated unbeknown to Langdon, fell flat. He had won the respect of the better people of the community (and expected training) he minded his own business and gained the sympathy and interest in the affairs of the operatives and the crews of the trains. In March the superintendent of the Seattle offered him a similar berth at bigger pay provided he would move to Sioux City, and the offer was declined. In April the great drill came off. The flag of the rifles was trailed in the dust. They were not even "placed" by the judges, and the great prize was won in almost half-hour by the Gunnison Grays.

A FATHERLY TALK.

A writer in the Saturday Evening Post deal out good hard sense to clerks, and it is not inappliable to any person holding a position. The Store and Leather Journal gives it a place under the heading "A Fatherly Talk."

"A man can't have his head pumped out like a vacuum bottle, or stuffed full of odds and ends like a bottom sausage, and do his work well," says the writer. "It doesn't make any difference how clever and full of fine thing he's doing may seem, that's the big thing and the only thing that counts in the end. Business is like oil—it won't mix with anything but business.

"You can resolve everything in the world, even a great poetry, into atoms. And the fundamental principles which govern the handling of postage stamps and of million ses-cently the same. They are the foundation law of business, and the whole thing is made up of little things like them. They are so simple that a fool can't carry them; so hard that a lazy man won't.

"Days are constantly writing me for advice on how to succeed, and when I send them my rules they wonder what I am dealing out common place generalities. Of course, I can say that's what I mean, the simplest rule and if a boy will take these common place generalities and blend them into his job, the mixture'll be cake.

"Once a fellow gets the idea of every business virtues connected into his mind, he can't help doing it. Just as when a clerk crawls into the office in the morning like a sick dog and jumps from his stool with the spring of a tiger, I'm sure he feels that if I send him off to take charge of a branch office in Timbuctoo he will wave be ground when customers were He's the sort of a man they would like to break the sun an hour, every morning and have it ready two every hour. The Lord would give him the same discretionary power as Joshua He gave Joshua, and he will be noticed that he's the fellow who invariably gets the job of holding the sun up. He's pretty numerous in business offices.

"It isn't the little extra money that you may make by the way by learning the fundamental business principles, it isn't even the fact of the effect that it has on your character, but it's the satisfaction of it and especially on the judgment of the young man who is carefully trained for the fellow to fill the vacancy. Just should of a fellow, I'm sure, I'll get some one who keeps separate, ledger accounts for every job he has. Give the boss several guesses to the pounds and on general principles he'll pass the job. It is late at the end where he ought to be early, and early at the end where he ought to be late.

Here's a Mix-Up.

By marrying his stepmother yesterday, says a despatch from Wilkesbarre, Pa., to-day, Loren Dady, of Hazle Brook, Luzerne county, has unravel up his relationship that it is a puzzle not to be solved off-hand. The situation is briefly this:

Dady married her husband.

Dady is brother-in-law of his father and she is her first husband's stepdaughter-in-law.

Young Woman's Sad End

MISS ENGLISH, OF KEENE, COMMITTED SUICIDE.

No Cause Assigned—The Rash Act Shocked the Neighborhood.

(Peterboro Examiner.)

This morning James Dickson, an old resident of Keene, and an inveterate fisherman, found the body of Maggie English in the Indian River at Keene village, lounging below the bridge which crosses the village at the foot of one of the streets, and the sudden excitement that had prevailed in the village over her mysterious disappearance a few days ago assumed an acute form when the news of the awful discovery made by the fisherman spread through the village. As stated, Miss English was a daughter of Mr. Robert English, general merchant of Keene. She had been living with her uncle and grandmother in the house now occupied by Geo. of the store building. On Saturday night it appeared that she had been upon a friend and at about two o'clock she retired to her room, company with a young man named McIntyre, with whom she was said to have been, as the phrase is, keeping company. She was missed by the servants of her residence at about 10.30, and could nothing unusual in the unhappy girl's demeanour.

From that hour to her, if no information is available, she was not again seen alive. It is plain that some extraordinary influence must have operated upon her mind to bring her to the desperate act of ending her own life. If she had for any time previously entertained such an idea she must have masked her feelings in a very effective way, for she gave no sign, so far as yet heard, of any such indication.

There is little doubt of the manner of her death. It is only a short distance from the English residence to the bridge at the foot of the street. The bridge is boarded with a high wooden parapet on each side, with, at a low height above the floor of the bridge, openings here and there through which grain was passed from farmers' wagons to the vessels which frequently came up the river in the palmy days of Keene, when a considerable grain trade was done at this point.

The deceased young lady was an orphan and had previously lived with another uncle, coming to Keene to reside about a year ago. She was some 23 or 24 years of age.

It is understood that there will be no inquest into the circumstances of her death, and the remains were interred in the Keene cemetery.

KITCHENER HONORED.

King Edward VII. Personally Compliments the Hero.

IS ACCLAIMED BY VAST CROWDS

Southampton and London Give Him the Greatest Welcome of Many Remarkable South African War Welcomes—How He Received the Homage of Prince and Princess—His Genial Modesty.

London, July 14.—Lord Kitchener, on arrival at Southampton Palace, Saturday, was speedily conducted to the King's sick chamber, and His Majesty, from his couch, extended a warm welcome to him and personally expressed his thanks for the termination of hostilities. The King then presented Lord Kitchener with the decoration of the New Order of Merit. The General next saw the Queen, after which he drove to Lord Roberts' residence, in Portland Place. Lord Kitchener will visit Mr. Chamberlain, the Colonial Secretary, today.

Tolerance in His Smile.

There never was a more unassuming hero than Londoners enthusiastically welcomed Saturday when they opened their arms to Lord Kitchener.

He reciprocated the welcome with the grim satisfaction characteristic of men of action. He accepted the adulation and the compliments of royalties and the wild applause of the crowds with a suspicion of tolerance in his smile. He went about the hard day's work as if he were performing an act of duty and with good-humoured determination.

The reception accorded him by the people had that touch of spontaneity without which popular acclamation lacks the ring of genuineness, but it left this strong, still men almost unnerved.

At Southampton he bore with the tedious oration of municipal corporations not without symptoms of impatience, and he replied to these long-winded panegyrics in two sentences.

Every time he spoke publicly he displayed unmistakable signs of nervousness, but his powerful self-control never deserted him.

His manner to every one from the Prince of Wales and Earl Roberts to the enthusiastic railroad porter who held out his hand for a shake (that was cordially given), was the same.

General and Genial Welcome.

He wore a most unornamented khaki uniform. As he stepped out of the train at Paddington Station he towered above everybody and looked smart, business-like dress made the brilliant scarlet uniforms of the general staff look vulgar and artificial.

The Prince of Wales greeted him with unaccustomed animation, grasping his right hand between both his and pumping the arm laying the other hand upon Lord Kitchener's arm.

Lord Kitchener saluted him with the same tolerate smile he bestowed on everybody else. There was no effusiveness, still less any air of superiority. He was genial modesty and demeanor infinitely attractive.

His speech was brief, but it was indeed melodious. His speeches brief, almost curt in form, still tingle with honest feeling.

He has grown stouter than the gaunt shadow he was when he returned from the Soudan, but he still retains a spare, military figure and the precision of movement of a man whose every act is guided by system and method.

The Long and the Short of It.

Lord Roberts had reached only short three buttons, slipped. Lord Kitchener's pelt—they presented a striking contrast as Lord Kitchener, with his tight fitted khaki tunic and his peaked cap in formal salute, advanced to meet his chief, who had both hands outstretched in welcome.

As Lord Kitchener drove through the cheering throngs to St. James' Palace he bowed acknowledgments steadily as he bowed.

His attitude throughout, in the face of demonstrations of admiration calculated to turn the head of any man, was suggestive of agreeable but subdued surprise.

Before he visited the King and the Queen, Lord Kitchener had changed his uniform for a morning coat in process of fumigation, lest he might carry smallpox—which appeared on his uniform—which brought him from Cape Town to Southampton—to the already afflicted royal palace.

But he bore everything with cheerful resignation and smiled everywhere in the fewest words possible.

ARRIVAL AT SOUTHAMPTON.

South Africans Here Accorded a Magnificent Welcome.

Southampton, July 14—The Pacific Steam Navigation Company's steamer Orotava, which left Cape Town three days before Kitchener and staff on board, arrived here one half-past eight o'clock Saturday morning. Among the fact that Major Gordon, who also was a passenger, died of typhoid fever. There is reason to believe that the King sought Lord Salisbury's advice in the matter of selecting the retiring Prime Minister suggestion. Mr. Balfour's message was thereupon sent from the Palace to Mr. Balfour at the House of Commons. Mr. Balfour was then impossible to respond to the King's wishes with success, without being secured the concurrence and support of Mr. Chamberlain. Mr. Balfour immediately drove to the Colonial Secretary's house and saw him in his sick room. He was in a position to state that he was met in the most cordial manner, and that Mr. Chamberlain realized that Mr. Balfour was the natural successor to the Premiership, and assured him of his entire support."

Government Leader in Commons Consults Chamberlain.

LORD SALISBURY RESIGNS.

The New Premier's Relations With the Colonial Secretary Are Said to Be of the Most Cordial Character—The Personnel of the New Cabinet In Outline Much Speculation—Sketch of Their Career.

London, July 14.—The Marquis of Salisbury has resigned the Premiership of Great Britain and Right Hon. A. J. Balfour, the Leader of the Treasury and Government leader in the House of Commons, has been appointed to succeed him. The marquis' resignation was tendered at a cabinet which he had with King Edward last Friday. Saturday Mr. Balfour visited the King and accepted the premiership.

The fact of the resignation of the premiership of Great Britain by Lord Salisbury was officially given out last evening.

The liveliest speculation is rife as to the personnel of the new cabinet. The most discussed feature of the impending change is the possible of Mr. Chamberlain (the Colonial Secretary), who in many quarters has been regarded as the most promising candidate for the premiership.

Prior to the acceptance of his new office, Mr. Balfour had an interview with Mr. Chamberlain, and they consulted with his other cabinet associates. It is regarded as a guarantee that the future relative positions of Messrs. Balfour and Chamberlain will be satisfactory to both.

What the Times Says.

London, July 14.—The Times states that Lord Salisbury's resignation was not caused by any political difference with his colleagues in the cabinet, and says: "We understand that the King was very anxious to mark in some special manner his high sense of the great service Lord Salisbury has rendered to the State and expressed a desire to bestow on the retiring minister some conspicuous promotion or decoration, but Lord Salisbury begged to be allowed to decline the proposed honor.

NEW ZEALAND AN EDEN.

The Adoption of Social Reform Principles Has Worked Well.

London, June 17—Lady Jersey, annual New Zealand banquet, which was held in London to-night, R. J. Seddon, the Premier of New Zealand, said it is one of the most interesting personalities, among the Colonial Premiers, gave a graphic description of the conditions in the colony.

He said it has spurned social reform to the extreme, and has gone far into considered radical socialism. Time had demonstrated the practicability of the economic experiment, continued the Premier, with the result that the New Zealand has little crime, no poverty, every land is prosperous under the and New Zealanders are a happy, free and virtuous people. Hence, no more Sun.

From a letter written by Archie H. Green from Wellington, New Zealand, to the San Diego Sun, published in San Diego, Cal., we clip the following relative to conditions in New Zealand:

"New Zealand is said to be the most prosperous country on earth. There are no beggars to be seen on the streets. There is no poverty, no unemployed with the "hobo." There are no unemployed, and the wages are very good. The cost of living is a little more than it is in the United States, but work is generally more well obtained. Good mechanics are in power and the labor laws are very stringent. Everything is allowed to work his own divergent time. Sunday, we give them a half-holiday every week Wednesday. Every good business and factory has to be closed on that afternoon, which occurs very often in this country.

"New Zealand is called the "laboratory for political experiment" and many things have been tried here for the first time. The government would if possible just suit the Socialist party of country. The government owns the railroads, the telegraph system, the telephone system, all the street cars, all the water system, the lighting systems, and there is a government insurance company, which is run by the government, backed up by the government funds and offices appointed by the ministry. Some of the representatives in parliament were proposing that the government should open and run a

MR. BALFOUR BLUSHED

SIR M. HICKS-BEACH RESIGNS.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Withdraws From Cabinet Although Wishing the New Chief Every Success—Mr. Balfour Assures His Friends There Will Be No Change of Policy.

London, July 15.—A. J. Balfour was yesterday formally elected as Great Britain's Premier, and the new premier began his work. The expected change was marked by only one really dramatic incident, namely, the resignation of Sir Michael Hicks-Beach from his post of Chancellor of the Exchequer. Yet this lack of outward show and public prelude to a new chapter in English history is by no means representative of the deep interest and sympathy with the change created among the under currents of political life. It is safe to say that Sir Michael Hicks-Beach is the first of several whose names have figured largely before the public in the last half century who now will disappear from political scene, and nothing absolutely definite is yet settled but the Unionist party now has shortly to hear of the resignations of Earl Salisbury, Lord High Chancellor; Lord Halsbury, Lord Privy Seal; earlier of the Duchy of Lancaster, and Earl Cadogan, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland.

Some Speculations.

For Sir Michael Hicks-Beach's place Right Hon. R. W. Hanbury, now president of the Board of Agriculture, is the favorite. In the pending reconstruction, which may not be completed for some time to come, Mr. Balfour, since he has taken office as premier, will remain the leader in the House of Commons and First Lord of the Treasury with the Chancellorship, still in command of the columns of the First Lieutenant. If Earl Halsbury, on account of his advanced age, finally resigns by retiring, Baron Alverstone will succeed to the Lord Chancellorship. Lord Henn Collins becoming Lord Chief Justice. Sir Edward Carson succeeding him as Master of the Rolls; Sir J. H. Carson, now Solicitor-General, becoming Attorney-General, and probably Charles Alfred Cripps, Attorney-General to the Prince of Wales, succeeding to the Solicitor-Generalship. On the other hand members of the House of Commons who throughout the day spoke confidently discussed the new state of affairs, seemed practically unanimous, and that was that, Austin Chamberlain, Financial Secretary to the Treasury, would be promoted, a majority mentioning him as likely to succeed Balfour, the latter taking the Chancellorship of the Exchequer.

There is apparently no serious anticipation of a general election.

Premier in the House.

Mr. Balfour's first appearance in the House of Commons as premier was characteristic of the man and of the assembly. From the party meeting at the Foreign Office he immediately trooped over en bloc and shortly after 2 o'clock the House was packed. When he reached his seat, Mr. Balfour looked blushing like a school girl.

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman the Liberal leader stopped further business by making such a feeling personal reference to Mr. Balfour as is seldom heard in legislative bodies, and which was delivered with an emotion which quite unnerved the Premier.

When Mr. Balfour rose to reply, the ovation was renewed, but his voice faltered and he was only just able to utter a few words of thanks.

After Mr. Balfour's tribute to Lord Salisbury, which was universally commended for its tactful reserve, the House was emptied.

Colonial Secretary's Move.

Late last night the talk in the parliamentary lobbies revolved about the highly interesting and apparently well-founded statement that Mr. Chamberlain desires to exchange the office of Colonial Secretary for the Chancellorship of the Exchequer. If that be so, it cannot be doubted that Mr. Chamberlain will carry his point.

Among the Liberals strong fears are expressed that the departure of Sir Michael Hicks Beach will be the signal for the furtherance of the Zollverein movement. Mr. Balfour being powerless to resist the Chamberlainite tendencies.

Mr. Balfour's Remarks.

"The new Premier, when he entered the House, received much ovation. Ministerial applause, the Duke of Devonshire, Sir Edward Hicks-Beach, Lord Londonderry and others, received quite an ovation from his colleagues, the present standing and closely cheering him. When Mr. Balfour rose to address the meeting, all again stood up and cheered the new chief. So soon as quiet was restored Mr. Balfour referred to the duties of the services at the chief who for nearly fifty years had been engaged in active political life. No one, he said, would grudge him his well-earned repose, though his loss was irreparable.

"I do not flatter myself," proceeded Mr. Balfour, "that the gap he has left can be filled. But the place he has left must be occupied, and I believe the King has desired me to do my best to take that position. I feel the responsibility very deeply today. I have accepted a great trust and a heavy responsibility certainly from no overweening belief in my own capacity, but because I felt sure, or, at least, have every reason to believe, that in attempting to carry out the duties with which we the most important qualification a leader can have, namely, the respect and confidence in those with whom he works, I cannot well be disappointed. I shall have the continued assistance of all my colleagues. One of the most important of them, with whom I have been associated all my political life, and who has accepted and deserves to accept the highest post in the House of Commons and State, has told me that I could count on his further assistance. I mean the Chancellor of the Exchequer. But though I grieve to say I cannot be alarmed, but the fullest I will use the assistance. I can count with absolute confidence on his good wishes in the admirable phrase before us."

At this juncture Sir Michael Hicks-Beach appeared very dignified in his assent by crying heartily, "Hear, hear."

"For myself," continued Mr. Balfour, "I have nothing to say. To all the parties, or at all events to the majorities in the House of Commons who have served me, I have no secrets and no surprises. You have known me so well and so long that even were I disposed to dwell on my past, there is nothing that could say which could or ought to alter the judgment already long ago formed. But I have nothing to say of personal nature to say at the present moment, and I have no new pronouncement to make on Clauses three and four of the resolutions of the Conference which we have met here, so long as I am able to do this is not the occasion on which other Ministers should or even think of them.

"The Unionist policy and policy I need hardly tell you that the policy of the Government is the policy of which it has always been. We have had a great success which has grown out of our cause. We have lost a man around whom the sentiments of affection and of hope of many years crystallized. Nevertheless, we have not the slightest intention of doing anything to have even the appearance of a change in the policy of the future of the course he has so long and so ably pursued. We have before us the unity in the future which has never been wanting in our ranks in the past, the unanimity of our cause will make up for my weakness in the attempt we have to sustain it."

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach.

After a warm tribute to Lord Salisbury by the Duke of Devonshire, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach said he was one whom he would gladly and more readily have accepted as leader of the party than the man he had followed as leader for more than seven years. But Lord Salisbury's retirement was not the only the traditional loss of past political life. Two years ago he had resigned for personal and not for political reasons, to be represented in the House of Lords, and seated, at Lord Salisbury's instance, to retain it to the end of the war. He was not that the moment had come when such poor services as he could render could no longer be necessary to the country. Mr. Balfour had been good enough to express a strong desire that he should continue in the Cabinet with his colleague, but admitted that the circumstances mentioned required consideration.

Mr. Chamberlain's Message.

J. Austin Chamberlain (Financial Secretary to the Treasury) said his father had asked him to say how greatly disappointed he was at the fact that he could not be present to welcome Mr. Balfour to the leadership, and say with what pride and pleasure he would give all the assistance in his power.

Cheers. Towards Mr. Balfour, the speaker continued:—

"My father bids me to say to you, Mr. Balfour, that you will find in him a loyal colleague actuated by your by private friendship and public regard, and that in offering you his assistance he has may stock also in the name of the whole Liberal-Unionist party of the House of Commons."

Congratulations in the House.

On entering the House of Commons subsequently Mr. Balfour met with a great reception not only from his own supporters, but from the members of the Opposition.

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, on behalf of his party, congratulated Mr. Balfour on the honor he had received on being called upon to succeed his uncle, and said he wished him success and prosperity not only in forming a Cabinet, but in conducting it.

Mr. Balfour, who was so deeply affected that his voice was almost incoherent, expressed in broken terms his gratitude for the kindness shown to him.

Later Mr. Balfour paid a tribute to Lord Salisbury, who, he said, was power to prevent Campbell-Bannerman, who declared that the former was, in international questions, had again and again been their applause, confidence and approval.

THE KING'S CORONATION.

Officially Announced to Take Place Between 9 and 12—Ceremony Will Be Much Curtailed.

London, July 12—It is now confidently expected that the official announcement made last night, that the King's coronation will be on Saturday, Aug. 9, since the holding of the Coronation Commission on Ascension Day August 14, would involve another full bank holiday, with the attendant loss of business and business. While Saturdays are almost universally observed, the Monday is doubtful.

The fixing of such an early date for the coronation is regarded as an additional proof of the good progress of the King's physicians of a continuance of His Majesty's rapid convalescence.

The text of the official announcement, announcing that the date of King Edward was issued from the Buckingham Palace yesterday, is as follows. "The King's medical advisers state that His Majesty's progress has been more speedy than anticipated. Hence, was at first anticipated, His Majesty's convalescence has played a conspicuous part in bringing the subject of the coronation of progress is maintained, and it is on the strong recommendation of His Majesty's medical advisers are of the opinion that His Majesty would be able to undertake the ceremony of the coronation on Thursday, August 9, or at the latest on August 12. The date will shortly be announced the proceeds of the Coronation Commission was to have taken place the day before the coronation is cancelled."

It is understood that the general outline of the programme of the proposed coronation ceremony, including the route to be followed, will not be changed, but the ceremony will be shorn of some of its intended magnificence. The details of the program will be settled by the King himself, who will also decide to what extent the active participation of the Queen is to be allowed.

On one point it is stated that the ceremony should not exceed one hour, and this could be managed by omitting the sermon, the litany, etc.

It is expected that Queen Alexandra and Prince Charles will be physicians in ordinary to the King, with His Majesty's consent, will accompany the King on board the royal yacht, Victoria and Albert, which has not yet been decided whether His Majesty will go to Portsmouth by rail or whether His Majesty will be brought to Sheerness to shorten the journey. Nothing is yet decided of the moving of His Majesty will be kept secret.

The King Improves.

London, July 12—At Buckingham Palace it was reported that the King passed at 10 o'clock yesterday morning:

"The King continues to sleep well and to improve in every respect." Signed Barlow, Fitzgerald, Wilson."

EMPIRE CORONATION BANQUET.

Six Hundred Persons Present and Earl of Onslow Presided.

London, July 12—In the absence of Mr. Chamberlain, who has not recovered from his recent accident, the Earl of Onslow, Under Secretary for the Colonies, presided at the Empire coronation banquet, which was held in the Hotel Hall last night. The brilliant company of over 600 included the Colonial Premiers, the Indian princes and other distinguished visitors now in London.

The Earl of Onslow, congratulating the country upon King Edward's recovery and the prospect of the early coronation, said the colonial conference now being held in London would be found to be a step forward in the principle of free trade than it had in any previous conference.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Canadian Premier, made a speech, in which he dwelt upon the development and prosperity of the Dominion.

The Right Hon. E. Barton, Prime Minister of the Commonwealth of Australia, said to attempt to establish an Australian navy would be on the entire freedom of exchange in the production of each province of the Empire was, at this stage, utterly impossible.

LOU SCHOLES SMASHED HIS BOAT

Lost the Senior Sculls at Kingston-on-the-Thames—Canadian Ministers Entertained at Buckingham Palace—Fire Insurance in Norway—Most Rev. Dr. R. Machray, Primate of all Canada, Seriously Ill.

Bisley Camp, July 15—Riflemen from far and near are here for the National Riflemen's Association annual meeting, which opened yesterday and will continue until the 28th. The Canadian team is on hand as usual, and two of the members came well to the front in the Golden Penny match. The shooting was at 500 yards, with eight shots and the competition does not end until the 24th. Sergt.-Major Carruthers, of Prescott, got within the centre circle of the target on each shot, making a score of 40. Capt Remon, of the Queen's Own, Toronto, scored 39 points.

The entries in the chief events number as follows: King's Prize, 1,568; Saint George, 1,434; Prince of Wales, 407; Daily Telegraph, 1,264; Alexandra, 1,189; All Comers' Aggregate, 957; Volunteer Aggregate, 876; Aggregate, 822; Coronation Prizes, 1,410.

It is likely that eight teams will compete for the Kolapore Cup.

SMASHED HIS BOAT.

London, July 15.—At the Kingston-on-Thames regatta on Saturday, Lou Scholes, the Toronto sculler, was one of the contestants for the Senior Sculls.

In his first heat with Good as his opponent, he won easily by four lengths.

Scholes in the final heat met Beresford, who was a competitor last week at Henley. At the Thames regatta the Toronto boy got away sharply and had a comfortable lead when the Englishman spurted and caught Scholes and again latter repeated the trick. Scholes, however, speeded rowing, Beresford winning by three lengths.

Scholes did not make any claim on account of his defeat, but the race was awarded to Beresford, who was clearly to blame. Many think Beresford should have stopped after forcing his opponent.

Scholes accidentally let his new Clasper boat drop on the platform, when returning it after hauling it to water. The fall completely smashed it.

London, July 15.—Hon Mr. Fielding and Sir William Mulock were at Blenheim Palace yesterday. Prince and Duchess of Marlborough at Blenheim Palace yesterday. Premier of Ontario has gone to Norway.

It is now positive that four and perhaps six more Canadian regiments will go to Canada.

A report circulated by a London newspaper that another Canadian regiment will be sent to South Africa the King's coronation is altogether without foundation.

The British Government is likely to give one-half instead of one-third of what Parliament has voted towards sidings of last Atlantic line.

The Pacific Railway Bill has projected a fast Atlantic service between Canada and Liverpool, but not be confirmed here.

The Most Rev. Dr. R. Machray, Archbishop of Rupert's Land, and Primate of All Canada, is seriously ill at Bournemouth. Yesterday his condition physician has been called in consultation.

FIRE INQUEST AT TORONTO.

Chief Thompson Says He Ordered No Water in the Lane of Death.

Toronto, July 15.—The investigation at the Week's fatal fire is becoming rather sensational.

The coroner announced last night that he had asked Inspector Stack to assign members of the detective force to the task of sifting evidence for the jury that can be secured.

Mr. Hoskin, counsel for ratepayers, was pressed for the proprietors of the building, and those responsible for the heavy weights placed in the structure to the end that the person or persons responsible for the original construction of the building and its use after it was known to be dangerous may be indicated.

Fire Chief Thompson testified that he did not order the firemen into positions around the building in which they were caught by falling walls. The chief denied battery the inference that he had forced men to go into positions during the fire that were plainly dangerous to life and limb.

The week's mission at the Catholic church, and a week's retreat for men, is also will be an event in the history of the township. Although the weather was wet and stormy the church was packed every night with people and overflowed into halls and did not miss a meeting. Father Oliver, who is a musical expert, made the music the choice, which was under the guidance of Mrs. Hogan. The mission was a great success in every way, and will undoubtedly have a lasting on the lives of the congregation, both religiously and moral. The good pastor, Rev. Fr. Much sympathy is expressed for the same by friends of the family in this village and neighborhood, where he was well known. He leaves a wife and daughter and four sons to mourn his loss.

The glorious 12th passed off very quietly here. The 12th of July parade of the local Orange lodge went to Lindsay, also a large contingent of the residents of the village.

Viewing the recent trouble with market fence in Lindsay from an outside standpoint our citizens are discussed to give the press of Lindsay credit for bringing about the satisfactory state of affairs that now exists. Had the press not aroused public opinion there was a chance for even a worse state of affairs before reconciled, and we believe that it was at least partially through that medium that the good citizens were aroused to see where they stood in their call to to either municipal litigation or strict measures were adopted in the town that gave evidence of being that the disease would soon be stamped out, and no unnecessary expense allowed.

Rev. Mr. Cockell, of Toronto, preached in the Methodist church last Sunday. His able sermons were much appreciated by the large congregations present morning and evening.

The young men of the Epworth League of the Methodist church gave a social Monday night. In spite of the unfavorable weather a fair number were present. OMEMEE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The glorious twelfth has come and went, and day was celebrated in elegant style by all true Orangemen throughout Canada. The local contingent, accompanied by the fife and drum band, visited the county town and joined in the monster parade, which was thoroughly enjoyed. The weather was perfect and every person thoroughly enjoyed the day. There never was a more orderly lot of Orangemen at a celebration at Lindsay before, and the reception accorded them by the citizens of Lindsay was never better.

Dr. and Mrs. Beatty, of Toronto, spent a few days at Mr. Morris' here last week. They made the city in a few hours in their automobile.

CANADA CLUB DINNER

Significant References Made About Newfoundland.

SIR ROBERT BOND'S WORDS.

Right Hon. Edmund Barton, Prime Minister of Australian Commonwealth, Brings the Matter Up—In Replying Newfoundland's Premier Said the Journey of Confederation Was Only a Matter of Terms.

London, July 17.— The Canada Club dinner last night was attended by the Colonial Premiers now in London, and many other distinguished guests. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Premier Mount Royal, Canadian High Commissioner in London presided. The Right Hon. Edmund Barton, Prime Minister of the Commonwealth of Australia, in the course of an address, made the first public reference to the plan for the confederation of Newfoundland and Canada, mentioned in these despatches. The Australian Premier said he hoped that all obstacles in the way of Newfoundland joining the Confederation would be removed.

Sir Robert Bond, Prime Minister of Newfoundland, replying, dwelt upon the great strategic value of Newfoundland, which, he said, stood as a sentinel at the gateway to the international highways of Canada. He traced the phenomenal recuperative powers of the island and referred to its present prosperity, declaring the question of confederation to be one of terms.

"If," said Sir Robert, "the terms are satisfactory to the people of Newfoundland, I shall feel it my duty to give the proposal favorable to my people, and, if necessary, exert my influence in the confederation about. We are not jealous of Canada.

Curious features of the affair are that neither Sir Wilfrid Laurier nor Canadian Prime Minister, the Canadian Government, nor the Imperial Government has yet mentioned the matter to Newfoundland, or to his ministers, and that the ball should have been started rolling by Premier Barton.

RETURNED HOSPITALITY,

London, July 17.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Prime Minister of Canada, and the members of Canada, Hon. W. Mulock, Sir Frederick Borden, Hon. W. S. Fielding and Hon. Wm. Paterson, who are with him in London, returned the hospitalities that have been extended to them while in England by entertaining a distinguished company at the Carlton Club last Thursday night.

The Duke of Argyle, Princess Louise, Lord and Lady Minto, Lord and Lady Strathcona, and Lady Aberdeen were among the notable persons present.

Hon. J. M. Gibson, Attorney-General Ontario, was one of the Canadians present at the Canadian dinner.

Reginald Parmenter, Major J. C. Mason, and E. M. Hamber, of the crew, will return home at the time.

It is understood that there will be four meetings before the finish of the colonial conference.

The Canadian coronation procession has been cancelled, soldiers will not be required from Canada, there are thirteen men, also some men of Canadian Mounted Rifles and Governor-General's Bodyguard, will be present Canada as mounted escort. Major Forrester will command.

A private contingent of Canadians will go to the fast Atlantic line results, Major Forrester, Lieut. Elder-Dempster and Allans uniting forces to run a special train from Canada and Great Britain. It is expected Sir Wilfrid Laurier will give half of the whole amount.

The Shooting at Bisley.

Bisley Camp, July 16.—Yesterday in the "Armorer's Company" match, Corp. L. J. Davidson, 8th R.R., scored 46 points, and Corp. T. D. Davies, of the 10th Royal Grenadiers, 45. Davidson made three yards, with ten shots.

The Ladies' Rifle competition, at a distance of about twenty yards with a standard target, ten shots and a time limit of three minutes, Miss Margetts, of the 25th Battalion, made 47 out of a possible 50.

Major J. H. McBride, a Canadian, but not in uniform, in the Queen's Prize competition, scored 37 points in the Lodge Challenge Cup competition, which was scored by Major Reginald Lodge. Shooting will take place at 600 yards with eight shots.

There is a possibility that Lord Kitchener will visit the camp on July 24. He will, if he comes, inspect the Canadian team.

Minister Sails at the Falls

Buffalo, July 17.—Yesterday Minister Tarte and friends took an automobile trip to Niagara Falls, as the guests of Mr. Cleveland. Miss Margaret Jordan was also in the use of machine. To-day the Canadian visitors will leave Buffalo for a trip up the lakes, which will occupy about six weeks.

Lord Dundonald Sails

London, July 16.—Major-General Lord Dundonald, who commanded the second cavalry brigade at the relief of Ladysmith, Natal, sailed yesterday from Liverpool for Montreal, on board the steamer Lake Champlain, in order to take over the command of the Canadian militia.

Rousing Riddance at Rattling Prices

THE headlines are clear enough. Nothing reserved. Nothing restricted. The backward season has forced our hand. The middle week of July has probably never seen such relentless ripping of prices as we make now. It is quite extraordinary to have the chance of picking up in season what you want and what you will from the GREATEST CLOTHING STOCK in Lindsay and get the choicest and everyway best goods made at PRACTICALLY THE COST OF MAKING Don't make any difference which way the goods came to us. They may come through credit failures, force sales or overstocks. The loss of the unfortunate will be your gain. The goods are just as desirable as if they came fresh from the brand new piles of the manufacturers.

A MONSTER PARADE OF

...EXTRA BARGAINS...

Tremendous Garment Sacrifices in Men's and Boys' Wear. A reckless sacrifice of prices and total disregard of values. We are bound to dispose of Summer Stocks at once if taking terrific losses will accomplish it.

Gough Has a Huge Nerve

ALL GOODS SOLD UNDER THE FOLLOWING MOST LIBERAL GUARANTEE :

Select anything you desire, have it delivered to your house and if the next day you are not fully satisfied it is better value than any similar article you can purchase for one-third more than our price, we will return you your money and take the article you have purchased back.

EVERYBODY WILL BE COMING to this GREATEST OF ALL SALES. Coal is Scarce, Wood is Up, Rents are High, Wages have been Advancing and Combinations among the big manufacturers threaten to shove up the prices of wearing apparel—isn't this your chance ?

Don't your best intelligence advise you what to do when such Reduced Prices as these are within your grasp ? And in vigorous pursuance of our oldtime policy to carry nothing over from season to season we are going to have a ROUSING RIDDANCE that will make the last 15 days of July the Greatest Clothing Event of the hour.

ONLY HOPE IS CANADA.

Senator Drummond's View of the Ocean Traffic Situation—What Britain and Canada Might Do.

London, July 23.—The House of Commons Committee, appointed to enquire into the question of steamship subsidies, was in session yesterday and examined Senator G. A. Drummond of Montreal. Mr. Drummond said that he had arrived at the conclusion, from recent developments of American shipping combines, that the land line practically controlled the situation and that the ocean lines were merely adjuncts. At first sight it would appear that the purchase of a number of old British steamers by the American combination could be remedied by building new boats. But he believed that, if this was done by a new organization, it could be made unprofitable by the Americans, who, by means of through bills of lading from the producing centres, could control freights as well as a considerable portion of the passenger traffic.

He believed that the only hope of escape from the control of the American shipping combine lay through Canada. Therefore, he advocated a speedy up-to-date service of twenty-one knot steamers between Great Britain and Halifax, instead of New York. Such a line ought to be subsidized to the extent of £300,000 ($1,500,000) to £400,000 ($2,000,000), yearly for ten years, half payable by Great Britain and half by Canada. Thereafter, he believed, if judiciously managed, the line would be self-supporting.

Will Have An Investigation

INTO THE TOPLEY AND ELLIS CASES

So Decided the Board of Health at Tuesday Special Meeting—Other Matters Considered.

A special meeting of the Board of Health was held last Tuesday in the Clerk's office, commencing at 7.30. Those present were Chairman Kylie Mayor Ingle, Messrs. Geo. Mills, Jas. Keith, J. Staples, J. Duck, Dr. McAlpine, M.H.O., Clerk Knowlson and Sanitary Inspector Douglas.

An account from the Bell Telephone Co. for 80 cents for telephoning Mr. Holland, of Port Hope, on behalf of the local Orangemen, was on motion of Mr. Staples ordered to be paid.

Drain Trouble in North Ward.

Inspector Douglas stated that in compliance with the motion passed at the last meeting re drain in front of Mr. Gibson's house he had inspected it and found that it passed through the Murphy farm, running as far as Mr. Chas. Silver's farm. He had suggested to Mr. Gibson that he clean 150 yards of it himself, but he refused.

Mr. Stapels—"Is there any stagnant water in it?"

Inspector Douglas—"I believe there is some."

M.H.O. Wants An Investigation.

Mr. Kylie said that some time ago a meeting was held at which he understood a deputation was appointed to interview Dr. Clarke regarding his negligence in failing to report a case of scarlet fever. According to The Post editorial of Friday last Dr. Clarke said no committee interviewed him, therefore he called the meeting on the suggestion of Dr. McAlpine in order that this matter could be investigated.

Clerk Knowslon on looking over the minutes of that meeting, said no motion had been put appointing a deputation to interview Dr. Clarke, but he thought it was suggested that a committee should wait on him.

Dr. McAlpine produced a copy of copy of last Friday's Post and read the paragraph relating to the statement made by Dr. Clarke in an interview with the representative of that paper. Dr. McAlpine said he called on Dr. Clarke regarding his carelessness in failing to report cases and that physician gave him an explanation. He was rather surprised to read The Post editorial and see Dr. Clarke's statement. Dr. Clarke had been very slow in reporting cases. He only reported the Topley case when he heard the Board was after him. He saw the Ellis child when it was brought to his office, and why did he not report that case. Accordint to his statement, he is not the family physician, but he (Dr. McAlpine) was prepared to prove that he is.

Mr. Staples—"I spoke to Dr. Clarke about what appeared in The Post, and he said he should not be held responsible for what appeared in that paper."

Dr. McAlpine—"Well, he ought to exonerate me."

Mr. Kylie—"I think Dr. Clarke owes the M.H.O. an apology. He should deny The Post editorial by writing a latter over his signature to the editor of that paper."

Mr. Staples—"Dr. Clarke says he is not responsible for what appears in The Post and that ought to be sufficient. The doctor told me that the Ellis child was brought to him by its father, and after examining it he told Mr. Ellis that he thought it a suspicious case, and that he had better take it home and isolate it from other members of the family. Mr. Ellis did as requested and the next night came and informed Dr. Clarke that the child was much better and able to eat. Mr. Ellis never asked Dr. Clarke to go to his home, and as he had never attended this family before he would not go on his own accord. As Dr. Clarke never diagnosed the case how can Dr. McAlpine censure him for not reporting it?"

Mr. Kylie—"I understand Dr. Clarke issued a certificate to Mr. Ellis, permitting him to go about."

Mr. Staples—"Yes, he did on Dr. McAlpine's recommendation."

Dr. McAlpine—"We should not accept that explanation. It was a clear case of fever and Dr. Clarke should be held responsible. but he may swear himself out of it by pleading ignorance of the case. It is a serious matter, however, when any doctor knows of contagious disease and will not report it. When I saw the child I had no hesitation whatever in pronouncing it fever."

Mr. Staples—"Supposing the doctor swear she is not responsible, what then? There was some carelessness in connection with the McConnell case. I understand no placard was put up until after the child had died."

Dr. McAlpine—"I am responsible for that, and there should not be any blame attached tot he family physician in that case. Dr. Burrows reported almost immediately after examining the child. The patient was isolated and almost every precaution taken to prevent contagion. I defy any person to mention of any contagion being carried from any case on Kent-st. during my term of office. I always watched every case thoroughly. The press censured this Board severely regardin gthe placarding of McConnell's hotel, but it failed to say anything about the services of a special constable."

Mr. Staples—"Dr. Clarke has been a sufferer as well as us from so much publicity. I really think he is doing his duty and should not be persecuted so hard."

Dr. McAlpine—"I am here to state facts, not to persecute any man. I want an investigation of the Topley and Ellis cases."

Mr. Kylie—"Dr. Clarke could have easily denied any statements made by The Post. He has been given the benefit right along."

Mr. Staples—"What does Dr. McAlpine want to do, anyway?

Mr. Kylie—"He wants to have the Ellis case investigated by this board."

Mr. Mills—"Well, if that is what he wants he should make a charge against Dr. Clarke that he had failed to do his duty. He should make the charge in writing."

Dr. McAlpine—"I do not think that putting it in writing is necessary, but I charge that Dr. Clarke did not report the Topley and Ellis cases within 24 hours, the time specified by the act."

Mayor Ingle—"Dr. Clarke says one thing and Dr. McAlpine another. I think in all fairness to this Board and to those gentlemen there should be an investigation."

Mr. Staples—"How will we hold an investigation? It should be in a legal way."

Mayor Ingle—"It is necessary to have sworn evidence."

Mr. Duck—"I think now this matter should be thoroughly thrashed out."

Mr. Staples—"I would not favor an investigation from a legal standpoint, as I am afraid we would be beaten."

Dr McAlpine—"We have a clear case and why not hold an investigation?"

Mr. Keith—"If Dr. McAlpine and Inspector Douglas think there is a case I would favor an investigation. Dr. Clarke is a friend of mine. If it was any other doctor charged with negligence I would favor an investigation."

Mr. Staples—"I understand there was another case in town that was not reported and Dr. Clarke was not the family physician. Dr. Burrows who was in charge of the case, and the M.H.O. are no doubt good friends, and there was nothing said about it. I do not believe in making fish of one and flesh of another. The place I refer to was not placarded until after the time limit."

Dr. McAlpine—"I deny most emphatically that Dr. Burrows or any other doctor ever failed to report a case to me."

Mr. Staples—"I may have been misinformed, doctor but I understood you made a statement once that a certain doctor in town would never report contagious diseases."

Dr. McAlpine—"I did state that, but gave as a reason for it that the doctor referred to could not tell a contagious disease from another disease."

Mr. Staples—"Dr. Burrows made a statement to me. He said there was some carelessness in connection with the McConnell case."

Dr. McAlpine—"As far as I am concerned there was no carelessness whatever. Contagion was carried to the schools, and I regret they were not closed sooner."

It was then moved by Mayor Ingle, seconded by Mr. Keith, that the motion passed at last meeting relieving Dr. Clarke of any blame in connection with the Ellis case be rescinded.—Carried.

Mr. Kylie—"Who will be the proper party to take action."

Dr. McAlpine—"Inspector Douglas is the proper person."

After considerable discussion it was moved by Mayor Ingle seconded by Mr. Keith, that this Board instruct Inspector Douglas to take the necessary steps against Dr. Clarke for failing to report the Topley and Ellis cases.—Carried.

Mr. Kylie—"The Post said we were censured by Dr. Bryce for not procuring a tent for isolation purposes. That paper credited Dr. McAlpine with saying that the local newspapers should apologize to the business men of Lindsay for the stand they took in connection with the outbreak. It was I who stated that, and I cannot understand how the reporter made such a mistake when he was sitting so close to me at that meeting. At previous meetings their representatives have failed to report me correctly."

Mr Staples—"If The Post publishes an article incorrectly I have always known that paper to rectify it, and be glad to do so. We should not come down on the press too hard."

Dr. McAlpine—"Oh, yes, Mr. Kylie, that same reporter got mixed up in connection with certain things that I never stated, but last Friday's editorial surpassed all previous ones. It was simply a daisy."

Mr. Kylie—"The charges made against this board are most outrageous. The press seems to be working against, and consequently injuring, the business of the town."

Dr. McAlpine at this juncture, waxed eloquent and entertained the members by standing in the centre of the room, holding Friday night's Post and reading extracts from the above-mentioned editorial, much to the amusement of those present. He said the doctors are doing fairly well. There was a case in the north ward brought to his notice that was not reported, but it was not the fault of any doctor. The people did not call in a physician. Doctors cannot be held responsible for the spreading of contagious diseases when the people refuse to call them in. The doctor read the clause in the editorial in which it was stated that he had said "the outbreak might be termed an epidemic."

Mr. Staples—"That's correct enouth."

Dr. McAlpine—"You are wrong. I am surprised that the editors, reporters and Mr. Staples do not know what the word "epidemic" means. They had better look up their dictionaries for the meaning of that word."

Mr. Keith—"I notice The Post claims the credit of being instrumental in stopping the disease."

Mr. Mills—"I wonder where the disease came from anyway. Did it come from the country?"

Dr. McAlpine—"It has been in other large towns and cities this year. Lindsay is not the only place."

Mr. Keith—"It was just as bad in Peterboro and other places, but the local papers take care not to say anything about it."

Mr. Kylie—"The Board of Health has as much interest in this town as the local press. I cannot understand why the papers should work against the Board and the town's interests. Country merchants have taken advantage of this."

On motion of Mr. Duck the meeting adjourned.

LINDSAY, FRIDAY, JULY 25, 1902.

Regatta at Sturgeon Point

SATURDAY'S EVENTS WERE KEENLY CONTESTED.

The Sports Will Be Repeated in the Near Future—Handsome Prizes Given.

The regatta at Sturgeon Point was held Saturday afternoon as announced, notwithstanding the inclement condition of the weather and an incessant drizzle of rain. The interest taken by the participants and their friends was very keen, and the banks were lined with spectators.

The sailing course was designated by buoys at Mr. Grantham's boathouse, the starting and finishing point, one near Ball Point and another a little north of Pleasant Point. The sail boats were to make two circuits, keeping the buoys at each point, and the canoes one round of the course. Mr. J. A. Bucknall acted as official starter, Dr. Harry Martin as clerk of the course and Mr. Grantham as timekeeper; the judges were Messrs J. C. Grace, J. D. Flavelle and G. H. Hopkins. The warning gun was fired at 15 minutes to 2 o'clock, the second gun three minutes before the start, and at 2 o'clock the following boats crossed the line: The Shamrock, sailed by Mr. McNamara, of Preston Falls; Mr. J. C. Grace's dingy, sailed by Rev. Mr. Best and Mr. Jolliffe; Mr. Dodge, Mr. H. Hopkins' Black Maria, sailed by Mr. Fred. Hopkins; Nanmyth's dingy, sailed by Nanmyth, jr., and Mise Nanmyth; and Dr. Ryerson's dingy, sailed by Farrin and Dr. Ryerson. The first run over the course the Shamrock led the bunch, with Nanmyth's dingy a very close second, the others being close behind. The unfortunate boat met her rudder at the second buoy put the Black Maria out of business, and a foul at the home buoy spoilt the chances of Nanmyth's dingy, which was in the clinch at the time. The finish was very close and Grace's dingy scoring the coveted silk flag.

The sailing canoe race was also a very exciting event. The four entries were McConnell's canoe, manned by Harry Bruce and Lewis Bruce; Ryerson's canoe sailed by Eric Ryerson and two friends; Wilson's canoe, manned by Bruce Wilson and Bruce Hopkins; Hopkins' canoe, sailed by Bert Hopkins and friends. The start was well made, McConnell leading the bunch, but when turning the buoy the canoe was run into and upset by another, and the boys promptly jumped aboard the "wrecker" without waiting their feet, although their own canoe filled. Wilson's canoe made good sailing up till an accident to her gear put her out of the running. The race finally won by Ryerson's canoe.

The sailing boat race and canoe race was also the occasion of a good deal of interest, there being four entries—Messrs Martin and Bucknall, Misses M. Knowlson and Grantham, Misses Daisy Martin and May Allen, Misses Daisy Barr and Miss Allan. The crews were selected from the canoes were handled with splendid skill. It was a pretty sight, about from the start, however, that Misses Martin and Townsend were the likely prize-winners, their careful, strong stroke carried great speed.

The tub race took place over a course 100 feet long, starting at Mr. Grace's new boathouse. The contestants were Bruce Hopkins, Bert Hopkins and Roy Wilson. The boys got off well, with Bruce Hopkins leading, but an unfortunate stroke put his boat where his head should have been, and the tub upside down. The careful stroke and steady head of Roy Wilson made him a winner by a few feet.

The single canoe race, over a course from Mr. Grace's boathouse to Mr. Grantham's, was contested by Victor Galdman, Mr. Benjamin and Mr. Cyril Gladman. This race from the start was between the two Gladman boys, and was handily won by Cyril.

The prizes were presented at Mr. Grace's bathhouse, which was kindly thrown open by Mr. and Mrs. Grace for the occasion. The silk flags given as prizes were exceedingly appropriate work and were lettered "Sturgeon Point, 1902." The pin given in the ladies' canoe race was adorned set with diamonds in the shape of a crown. The pin given in the tub race was a crescent set with pearls, and for the single canoe a crescent and pin set with diamonds.

The success of the affair was large, by due to Mr. J. A. Bucknell, Dr. Martin and Mr. Grantham. The latter gentleman's spirited yacht, "Puff Puff," was a great convenience in keeping matters in shape over the course. The races were a success in every particular, and it is hoped that at no distant date a similar affair, more or sport may be enjoyed.

IT IS TIME TO TAKE A HOLIDAY.

A Trade Journal's Advice to Business Men.

Now is the time for the retail merchants to break away from business.

The weather has not yet been propitious for the full enjoyment of a holiday, but conditions at present promise the arrival of warmer weather. Oftentimes merchants allow themselves to believe that their business will suffer, if they do not live in fear of their attendance, and with their nose on the grindstone, toil day and night after month, with no thought of the benefit they may derive physically and mentally from a short sojourn away from home and the cares of business.

There are many of them who have never taken a consecutive holiday since they embarked in their mercantile career, and they have seen no change from the ways that have always followed, and there will never be a better year than 1902 for the merchant to inaugurate the idea of taking a vacation for the benefit of himself and family.

If there are any readers of this article who have not as yet thought seriously of enjoying the benefits to be derived from a vacation this year, let them take this matter to heart. It is not necessary to take a big jaunt. A little fishing trip, a camping party or a trip to one of the resorts which are so plentiful in all parts of the country, can be taken at a comparatively expense that the investment so made will prove one of the best investments which a retailer can make.

Peterboro Man for the Plum.

T. J. Moher, M.D., C.M., M.P., S. of Peterboro, has been appointed to the position of assistant superintendent of the asylum for Idiots at Orillia. He will assume duties on August 1st, and will succeed Dr. Clare, who has been appointed to the Asylum for the Insane at Brockville.

Church Notes.

—Rev. G. W. Henderson, pastor of Cambridge-st. Methodist church, delivered two interesting and informing discourses on Sunday. In the morning he spoke of the triumphs of Methodism, showing the gradual rise into power and prominence since the days of the Wesleys. In the evening the very gentleman selected as the foundation of his sermon the text, "Be ye ready," Wherefore let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall." The speaker said that while there were many things that Methodists had reason to feel proud of and grateful for, he would hint the danger signal and warn them to be on their guard against that lay in the way. The first danger was that of complacency. To be a Methodist in early days meant reproach, rebuff and many cases social ostracism. But persecution has resulted in the extinguishment of the gospel and the establishing of the church on a firm basis, and to-day instead of being reproached, we are respected, the Methodist church has become mighty, and if our forefathers should wander into the modern church, with its adjustment and elegant gowns and apparel, they would not know it. There was perfect organization, and next to that materialism, or organization—the Roman Catholic church—stands the Methodist. There is a wonderful tendency toward formalism. But if we fail to trust to organization, instead of trusting in God, then we would be as the body without the spirit, and would be cast out the mother power. There is a tendency to be lukewarm in spirit and zeal should result in a spiritual deterioration. Then, again, we pride in our wealth, and in this we need to guard ourselves. The wealth which has come with the prosperity of the christian nations and their churches is almost beyond conception, and the Methodist church bids fair to become the wealthiest of the churches of the earth. There is also the danger of drifting into a mere ease-loving fashionable church. It is said, had greater success, Jesus Christ, if He had courted the world to too great a degree, and the world, in the shape of shades of departed greatness, of spiritual vitality, in the church, and that of supreme importance, and so amount of pulsatingly, scholarship, other, and much like, will avail. The neglect of the family after shows symptoms of a decline of spiritual power in the church. But write to some effect these things may be, but the life of the church taken on some other form? The growth of missionary effort, the strong stand taken against the liquor traffic, the increased interest in christian education, and the looking after the poor. The speaker said he was decidedly, Mary are on firm ground, and he was an optimist. God still honors His truth. Methodism, he did not think, mourns a vanished glory, and we are being drawn on by the cords of an ever-deepening spiritual life.

Brakeman Greaves Injured

AN UNFORTUNATE ACCIDENT SATURDAY EVENING.

Collided With a Switch While Clinging to the Side of a BoxCar—Fell with His Left Hand on the Rail and Two Fingers were Amputated—Head Cut Hip and Shoulder Bruised.

Considerable excitement prevailed among the people of the town Saturday evening, when it was announced that Mr. James Greaves, son of Conductor Greaves of the Colborne train, had met with a serious accident. Mr Greaves is a brakeman on the Welland branch, conductor W. H. Kelley, which he has to arrive here at 7.45. Saturday evening he was brought in a number of cars containing company steam coal, and as this coal was required for immediate use other cars given that one of the cars be placed on the siding in rear of the roundhouse. Yardmaster Lockwood went to the top of the train and gave the order to Engineer Wallace that everything was alright for him to make a fast movement. Brakeman Greaves stood at the side of the car giving signal, but noticing the car moving rather fast he jumped and caught the top of the car side, expecting that his services would be required at the top of the car. Unfortunately he failed to notice a switch near by and he was thrown against it with such force that he fell, slipping beside the car, his left hand striking and thrown out of the way of the wheels of the car. Being stunned by the blow he lay there, and the train passed over the rail and four fingers were amputated as neatly as though done with a knife. His head was also considerably bruised and cut.

Word was immediately sent to Mr. Price, locomotive foreman, and Mr. Paisley, C.P.R. agent, and these two gentlemen were on the spot a few minutes later. The ambulance was also carried to Mr. Price's office and Drs. Gillespie, Bruce, Burrows and Jeffers were summoned. After dressing the wounds the physicians, having other serious complications, might follow, advised that he be sent at once to the Toronto General hospital. A special was made up, and before midnight the injured man was on the upward mail.

Mr. Price received a despatch from Peterboro on Monday stating that Mr. Greaves was resting nicely and was out of danger.

W. M. S. AUXILIARIES.

Convention of Lindsay District Societies at Fenelon Falls.

The fourth annual convention of the W. M. S. Auxiliaries of the Lindsay District met in the Methodist church Fenelon Falls Methodist church Thursday last, July 17th. The morning session was opened by Mrs. Jeffers, district organizer, presiding. The business consisted of a short devotional, a systematic and proportionate giving, a short address, reports from the Auxiliaries, of which there are twenty-five, of which twenty-one met and gave very satisfactory reports, showing an increase in both membership and finance.

The afternoon session was well attended. A number of interesting and interesting papers were given, outlining the work among the Indians, Japan, China, and among the Indians and Japanese in Canada, and suggesting new opportunities for work among the foreigners in Canada and in the North-West. The review was very interesting.

In the evening the chair was occupied by Mrs. Ashton, president of the Fenelon Falls church, who made a few remarks commending the work of the W. M. S. Mrs. Beasley, Fenelon, gave a short address which was very interesting. This lady expressed thankfulness over the assurance that her son would work for the church by the Women's Missionary Society. Some years ago the Societies were obliged to give excuses for not contributing to the support of our foreign missions. There is also now no need for sending money to the fields of labor. The W. M. S. has taught us to realize the value of money. The amount raised by this small district is sufficient to support six girls in one of the homes, or twelve little women in Japan or China. Who can offer better for the amount of good accomplished by over this number?

The following addresses were given by Rev. G. W. Henderson, Lindsay, Rev. Mr. Ashton, and others, all evidently himself with the work of the W. M. S., and proved the interest in this district, and cordially invited the Methodists to come into Convention at any time. The strong and earnest addresses of the missionaries in China and India made the women present realize afresh the privileges and there is for increased efforts in behalf of their sisters in these lands. Much regret was felt that the speakers were only allowed such a limited time. Excellent music was rendered by the choir of the church.

Ralph Connor Again.

Ralph Connor, who is the "Black Rock," "The Sky Pilot," "Man from Glengarry," and "Beyond the Morsine," all appeared first in that paper, gives a new series of his inimitable sketches in The Westminster this month, entitled "Geography of School Days," in which the fortunes of Hughie Murray are taken up. It is sketch work of this kind that, though comparatively small, the readers are promised a rare treat, and The Westminster is the new form that it is, as in other features, great attractiveness to Canadian readers.

LINDSAY PRESS COMMENDED

The Toronto Falls correspondent of the Weekly Post makes the following reference to the course taken by the press of Lindsay in connection with the late outbreak of fever:—

Viewing the recent trouble with sacrifice fever in Lindsay from the outside standpoint our citizens are disposed to give that city and Lindsay credit for bringing about the satisfactory state of affairs that now exists. Had this press not aroused public opinion there may have been, and even a worse state of affairs being chronicled, and we believe that it was at least partially through that medium that Lindsay citizens at once stepped out where they stood in their relation to other municipalities, based street measures adopted in the town that gave people confidence, that the disease would soon be stamped out, and no unnecessary exposure followed.

Police Court Calendar.

—On Thursday, July 10th, William Grew, of Hope township, came upon the streets of Lindsay and fell in the Sturgeon Point. Unfortunately for him, while at the time he was fined with some bad company, and in order to be one of the boys he drank liquor and consequently overdoes. While in the influence he foolishly picked up a watch belonging to Mr. A. T. Bayley of the Bank of Montreal and carried it home with him to Hope Point, and took it away. On reaching Lindsay, Grew realized his foolishness but was afterwards let go on bail, appearance before the Police Magistrate, July 9th, yesterday and pleaded guilty to the charge of theft, the Crown Colonel allowed him to go on suspended sentence, he paying the costs of the case and paying the costs of prosecution, amounting to $23.

Vertical vs. Slant Writing.

Hamilton Times: It is a pity that time in the history of the Public Schools of the city has the penmanship of young pupils been so great as at present. That speaks well for the vertical system, it seems for legibility, and that is what it is intended to secure. The few who wish to acquire a fancy hand can do so after they have finished. The Times' remarks are to the point—legibility is the main thing in these days of business hustle and fierce competition, and the writing of a number of copy books shown by Principal Dr. Ryerson, at a recent meeting of Lindsay Board of Education disclosed the pleasing fact that the introduction of the vertical style of writing about a marked change for the better in the writing of the public school pupils. Sentences written many years ago have been made as quickly as printed matter. Let the good work go on.

Will Manufacture Portland Cement

Beaverton Express: Some time ago we announced the fact that a project was afoot to establish a branch of the Portland Cement Company with the city of the immediate vicinity as a suitable point for the plant. It is understood that lately the option of Messrs Ross and Mr. Gillespie's farm has been closed, and a company formed whose works are to be erected here. If the report is correct, erroline, it appears large sum deposits of excellent quality have been discovered. Beaverton is the point selected by the company for the arrangement. The Company is composed of Toronto and Montreal capitalists and a prospectus is being prepared and will shortly be in view to exploiting the well known qualities of this class of company formation.

A Live Board of Trade.

The business men of Orillia, however lacking in other respects they may be, are keenly alive to the good work that may be accomplished by an energetic Board of Trade, and the majority of them take an active interest in the organization. The membership fees for the year were $1,000, the total receipts $2,522.80 Over $400 was expended in advertising the town as a summer resort and a sum of $107 was donated to assist in opening a road for the benefit of the summer visitors. Mr. Gillespie at the first meeting the Chairman said there was a positive fact to be positively that the summer resort business could be carried on all the year. Orillia's number, told him that a few years ago there were only twenty-five actual tourists staying in Orillia for the summer, but last year there were ten or twelve hundred visitors and the number had been doubling in its influence. He had more faith in Orillia as a summer resort than the present time than he had four years ago. He was not a prophet, but would venture the assertion that within the next five years the tourist traffic will increase Orillia's population by three or four thousand during the summer months. But there must be a proper accommodation, and the time for that has arrived. The accommodation is not large. He would venture the assertion that invested in the erection of a first-class summer hotel.

CARNEGIE LIBRARY GRANT.

SIR—Regarding the difficulty our Town Council and Library Committee have in the application of the Carnegie donation for a Library building, could not our city fathers—the aldermen—cut the Gordian knot by notifying the donor of the inability of the donation given for the erection of a new monumental building of the Mechanics' Institute, and therefore, with the consent of the donor of the fund, the donation if not cancelled, will be applied on the reconstruction of the present hall and building, a portion of which has been very properly assigned for the use of a free Public Library.

By thus improving and beautifying the building we now have, and which is in very much need of restoration, with Mr. Carnegie's consent, Council would win the approval of our citizens by thus applying the funds at their disposal, rather than to fritter it away in the unauthorized expenditure of time and the erection of a new style of a monument at a great expense to our overburdened taxpayers, and at the same time a monumental building would be only an object of charity and with intelligent of the benefit of enlightenment and education in self-government the Library is intended for. Yours, etc., respectfully,

EDITORIAL NOTES.

On Tuesday a cargo of live hogs was sold in Chicago for $8.55 per cwt. This is 20 cents higher than the Toronto.

Population is pouring into New Ontario. Half a million acres of land have been taken up of twenty-four townships, and ten new townships are now being surveyed. There are millions of acres of good farming land in New Ontario district, which will be opened by the Government railway.

It is a very remarkable report made by the British Board of Trade on railway accidents in the United Kingdom during 1901. It shows that while 1,500,000,000 passengers were carried, only one was killed by a train accident. Such an exhibit is really unprecedented in the history of railroading.

In Springfield, Mass., it costs $76.20 a year per capita for education; in Springfield, O., the figure is $21.90. The average of United States cities is thus stated: Pittsburg, $39.90; Hartford, Conn., $53.60; Cambridge, Mass., $52.30; Grand Rapids, Mich., $27; Jersey City, $33.35; Lindsay, $00.00.

Manitoba and the Northwest want 10,000 men to assist in taking off the harvests. The Government agents of the Province and the Territories report that there are no prospects of the landing of a lot of men at points distant from the long ago reached. There was some difficulty of that kind last year.

Hamilton Times: When Sir Wilfrid is Edinburgh to accept the freedom of Velocity, will he drop the Fraser from his name and claim relationship with Duncan Bain Lindsay? He has admitted more than once that if he were not French he would choose to be Scotch.

The launching of Dr Barry for mayor of Toronto, by "gang" supporters, the regulations in putting travellers to inconvenience and expense to accommodate so many people who never travel, is a bad sign. He stretches the Allan Labor law to make it as offensive as possible, and the reputation of the United states suffered a consequence.

"Hell-roaring Jake Smith," the U. S. Marshal who ordered the execution of all Filipinos over 10 years old without regard to sex or condition, and in pursuance of above order, Hadley Smallwood, was shot down in seaside and the savage deeds wreaked about by Major Waller and Lieut. Day, has been found guilty and sentenced to be reproved by President Roosevelt!

Sir Robert Bond, now in England, urges the immediate and direct, fast atlantic travel from Ireland to Newfoundland, by wireless telegraphy, as soon may be crossed in 24 hours. Sir Robert Bond, who is a Newfoundlander, and a Tory, is a man of ability and a Tory, and Tory reached from London in six hours, and Tory, the disciples of this route may eventually come, but a good many people hope not, and many since it was first seriously discussed, in the time of Sir John Tory, political Grant, who was one of its most prominent advocates.

According to a recent decision of a insurance policy is not in force till the premium has been actually paid, even though the policy had been issued. The plaintiff in this case was the Doherty Organ Co. of Clinton, which claimed $10,000 insurance on its plant. (It may strike some, commentis the Hamilton Times, "that it is both just and reasonable that which would have had a valid claim for thirty days and which, by the action, in issuing the policy showed that it was willing to trust the credit of the insured, should this exemption be applied, but that appears to be the law.

The following sensible comments taken from the Ottawa Free Trade Journal, should be carefully read and pondered by every patriot:

In the special Free Trade number for clemency towards her son, there is a lesson that needs to be laid to heart by every parent in the land. For Mr Fielding's son, who was on the gallows the notice has one to be blamed for not being kept in check by the Minister of Justice, seeing that to prevent his duty to his country is a continuation of his own criminal conduct which is now reaping its inevitable reward. Her story to the Minister of Justice was that her boy, Clarence, had, impatient of restraint, and willful, allowed the law to overtake him, and forgiven time after time. Faulty uncorrected grew to crimes, but commendable crimes on the gallows. Is that some parent is a hundred who is not doing as Mrs. Riley did? Parents have no right to bring children into the world and then permit them to become curses to the community. Where they do allow their children to follow their own unrestrained desires, it is usually a place of rank impudence to ask the protection of the people's interests to be guilty of the same criminal indulgence. If this sadly criminal curse his parents from the gallows but with his pardoned. If the law inflicted the penalties of crime upon the parents instead of upon the offending offspring it would be justified.

Dowey says Manila was given up to the United States by a secret arrangement, after a mere show of force. Gen. Anderson, on the other hand, says it was taken by force of arms without any suspicion that it was an open bonfire. Anyway, a number were killed in the attack, and Dewey will not come home to be feted as that was had to kill a few people, as a mark of honor. How the Bobbing Went.

President Robertson, before asking for bids, said he hoped Messrs. Fitzgerald and Flavelle would be willing to pay as good a price as was realized in Peterboro, bond. He then called for bids. Mr. Fitzgerald started the bid bobbing by offering 9-1-8c. Mr. Flavelle made it 9 1-8c. Mr. Fitzgerald raised it to 9 1-4c, and Mr. Flavelle raised it to 9-3-8c. Mr. Fitzgerald refused to respond and Mr. Fitzgerald called out Maitlands, Beaverton, Maple Leaf, Palestine, Starr, Brandford, and Ogden, but all the exceptions of the last three factories the offer was not accepted.

Mr. Flavelle then offered 9c-8c for further selections, and Mr. Fitzgerald on Fenton Falls and Red Rock, but met with a refusal from each selection.

Mr. Flavelle—"This is the closest we have run last year, so I think we should be careful this time."

Mr. Staples—"Remarks for Cameron factory, and he would not sell unless we bid 9c."

Prof. Robertson—"The best price we had in Peterboro last year was the week was 9-3-8c."

Mr. Gurrin—"I think you are wrong, Mr. Robertson I noticed by the paper your release sold at a higher price than that."

Mr. Ellis—"I think we should not quibble or a point or so in order to have a complete board, and I think there is a difference of two or three points in the price. We ought to get 9-1-2c for Cody."

Mr. Flavelle—"I will give 9-7-16c, for Cameron. Will that be a satisfactory price, Mr. Parkin?"

Mr. Parkin—"Well, I don't know. If that is the best offer I suppose we should accept it, rather than to have an adjournment."

Mr. Staples—There is a feeling among the patrons of Red Rock factory, that the buyers on Lindsay Board are not paying the price for cheese and that the cheese is getting sat upon."

Mr. Flavelle—"This board is open to any buyer who wishes to attend. In Peterboro that was there are several buyers and the best price paid was 9-3-8c. Where there is a shortage buyers have to pay for it. If you figure on the Liverpool market you will find considerable more close a margin we buyers are figuring on."

Prof. Robertson then produced a copy of Saturday's Toronto World. At Toronto 2100 white cheese and 500 colored were boarded, one sold selling at 9-9-16c and the colored a trifle less. At Ottawa 1271 colored and 106 white sold at the same price. Lowest price at Ottawa was sold at 9-9-16c, and South Finch at 9-3-16c.

Flavelle—Some points just mentioned at a speaker to Montreal (Laughter) Lowest price for red factory is 10c per 100 lbs., as against 12c. from Lindsay."

Mr. Ellis—"Well, you see there is a difference of 12c per hundred pounds (that is buyer have to contend against."

Mr. Flavelle—"On account of railway competition buyers in Western Ontario are paying more for trade. Prof. Robertson, in Chatham cup Ontario paid 9-7-16c, and Mr. Ellis 9c, and Mr. Fitzgerald 9-1-2c, and Mr. Flavelle said he would give 9-7-16c. for Cameron, Bobcaygeon, Red Rock, Fitzton Falls, North Verulam, North Opie, Maple Leaf, and Janville. This offer was accepted and he secured 9 boxes. Mr. Fitzgerald then offered the remaining factories—Star, Dunsford, Omemee, Maple Leaf, Rabenbo, Talednian and Marjoram and the same price.

The next sale will be held on Monday, Aug. 4th.

Careful Mothers Should Keep at Hand the Means to Check Ailments That Otherwise May Prove Fatal.

When the weather is hot the ailments of the little life are apt to glide away from you, unless you have kept watch the little one too carefully at the proper time. Looseness, diarrhoea, cholera infantum and disorders of the stomach are those which are appearing the hot moist weather of the summer months. At the first sign of any of these or any of the other ailments that afflict little ones, give Baby's Own Tablets. These Tablets will speedily relieve and permanently cure all hot weather ailments. My attention was first to Baby's Own Tablets, and in twenty-four hours baby was better; the worst of the attack ceased and he recained strength rapidly. I have used the Tablets with my children since, and always with the happiest results. I cannot too strongly commend them to mothers as a medicine that should always be kept in the house."

SUICIDE SOUTH AFRICA.

Ottawa, July 22.—Advice following cable was received yesterday from Lord Minto, Governor General, addressed to the Administrator of Canada:

"London, July 17.—Regret to inform you that Quartermaster-Sergeant Sydney Richmond Margetson, 2nd Dragoon Guards, committed suicide at Kimberley, July 1, impatient of restraint, and willful, allowed the law to overtake him, and forgiven time after time. Faults uncorrected grew to crimes, but commendable crimes on the gallows. Is that some parent is a hundred who is not doing as Mrs. Riley did? Parents have no right to bring children into the world and then permit them to become curses to the community. Where they do allow their children to follow their own unrestrained desires, it is usually a place of rank impudence to ask the protection of the people's interests to be guilty of the same criminal indulgence. If this sadly criminal curse

STORMONT PETITION.

Justice Maclennan Dismissed the Motion to Set It Aside.

THE OBJECTION WAS TECHNICAL

Petitioner, However, Had Failed to State His Right to Petition and Must Pay His Costs—A Cross-Petition in Huron Mr. Reesdale of Hamilton Puts Up the Funds and Files Cross-Petition.

Toronto, July 22. — Mr. Justice Maclennan yesterday morning dismissed without costs the motion made by Mr. J. H. Moss to have the petition against the return of Mr. W. J. McGirt, the Liberal member for Stormont and Dundas, on the ground that the petition failed to make the fact known to the petitioner, Mr. John McLaughlin, was the Conservative candidate in the riding.

In giving judgment Mr. Justice Maclennan said—"In the present case the petitioner's right to petition is the fact that he was a candidate at the election. The question is, does the petition contain a statement of that fact? I think it does contain a sufficient statement of that fact. The petitioner is John McLaughlin of the Township of Roxborough, farmer, and the petition shows John Laughlin of the Township of Roxborough, farmer, was one of the candidates at the election. I think that, reading the document above, the petitioner and the candidate are a fair construction of it, must be taken to be one and the same person. There might be a latent ambiguity, but some evidence of the fact John McLaughlin in the constituency residing in a different township and joining of a different occupation.

A cross-petition has been filed in South Huron against Sandy W. Lean, the Liberal candidate. A petition against the return of the Liberal member, Mr. Henry Ellber, is already before the courts.

The deposit for the petition against the return of Mr. Reesdale of Hamilton arrived at Osgoode Hall yesterday morning. A cross-petition has been prepared, and Mr. Justice Meredith, the defeated Liberal candidate.

The Weekly Post.

LINDSAY, FRIDAY, JULY 25, 1902.

DECEIVING THE PUBLIC.

Having had occasion to censure the Board of Health because of the lottery display of a connection with the late outbreak of scarlet fever, and our plain speaking having led to the inauguration of vigorous and successful measures for the stamping out of the disease we felt inclined to overlook certain attempts to minimize the dangers of the then situation and to have remarried blame upon the town newspapers for having directed public attention to the carelessness of our health authorities.

This is made plain by the proceedings of the Board at its last meeting, a report of which appears elsewhere. Dr McAlpine, Medical Health Officer, read a selection from one of The Post editorials on the subject of the fever outbreak, and complained that it almost seemed to point him out as the culprit. Our remarks were quite plain, and was not clothed in ambiguous language. As for the mercantile, we expected their prompt and deferred action to the latest moment that a sense of our duty, to the public at large would permit. If—as stated by Dr. McAlpine at the last meeting—the newspapers owe an apology to the business men for during their plain duty, what measure of satisfaction does the Board owe to the people if valuable lives were needlessly sacrificed, what excuse for the widespread feeling of alarm engendered, and the financial outlay necessitated?

We regret to note this tendency on the part of the Board to belittle the serious character of the late outbreak, and turn their censure in the wrong direction. It conveys but a poor assurance that the next outbreak will be met in a proper manner. We regret that we cannot compliment the Medical Health Officer good judgment and fairness displayed in the emergency. He is the guiding spirit of the Board, and is the responsible person in the eyes of the public. When he called a meeting of the Board to hear his specific complaint that Dr. Clarke had failed to report two cases of fever he made a statement that the majority of the doctors were simply neglecting their duty; the following week he took back that statement. At the first meeting he declared that as the outbreak was sporadic, and not epidemic in its character, there was no reason why the Provincial Board should be consulted, yet a few days later, in the face of his quoted statement, he admitted that the outbreak might be termed an epidemic. While asking the Board to discipline doctors failing to report, he boldly declared that he would not be bound by the rule, and admitted that in had been guilty of breaches of the law.

That Dr. Clarke was not guilty in the cases mentioned has since been established. A committee was appointed at the first meeting of the Board to interview the doctor. The Post report named Chairman Kyle as one of that committee, and in a letter Mr. Kyle alluded his appointment. Our reporter's hearing is excellent, but we allowed the incident to pass. At the following meeting Chairman Kyle announced that Dr. Clark's explanation of his failure to report cases to the committee, was perfectly satisfactory, and the Board accepted the statement with unanimous satisfaction. To-day, in the course of an interview with Dr. Clarke, that gentleman informed our representative that he had not been waited on by any committee on behalf of the Board and had been given no explanation of the facts to any person or persons deputed to receive it. What a farce is here exposed!

Dr. Clarke's name was again intrigued at Thursday night's meeting for failing to report in the case of the Ellis child. The patient was brought to him at his office; his assistant examined, found dangerous symptoms and told the parents to convey him in a cab to be in the safe side for child should be isolated. He was not the family physician and did not see the child again. On this slight justification Dr. Clarke was again brought before the public as an offender against the law.

There's a "bigger in the fence" somewhere.

Toronto, July 23.—Daniel A. Hall, a lamplighter, in the employ of the Carbon Light & Power Co., was killed off by a cyclotrail, near Queen-street, in Queen street a few feet west of Tecumseh street. Hall was terribly mangled. Hall was riding a bicycle and was on the dirt strip. Passing Dovercourt road he was riding behind Queen street car No. 580, in charge of Motorman William Eastman and Conductor Edward Quinn. In meeting Teming-street Hall came out from the dirt strip to the north side and endeavored to pass the car he had been following. A car was approaching from the east and in order to get out of its way he rode in front of the car going in the same direction as himself. In doing so he westbound car struck him, throwing him in front of the eastbound car. The wheels of the car crushed his body, and he was killed instantly.

The body was carried to Craig's undertaking establishment and Coroner Young was notified. He issued a warrant for an inquest to-day at 10 o'clock.

YUKON GOVERNMENT.

Rev. Father Gendreau Speaks of It Very Highly.

ADMINISTRATION BUSINESSLIKE.

Liquor Permit System Recently Abolished, and Thus Last Ground For Criticism Has Been Removed—Exports to South Africa—Special Freight Service Terminated With Sailing of Steamer Valer.

Ottawa, July 23.—Rev. Father Gendreau, O.M.I., who has just returned from Dawson, paid a strong testimony as to the good government enjoyed by the people of the north. Father Gendreau spent three years in Dawson in charge of the Roman Catholic hospital, and left there in June. He occupies a prominent position in the Oblate Order of Canada, and his opinion, therefore, carries considerable weight. When in Ottawa recently he was asked for his opinion, and in reply said he was perfectly satisfied with the administration. He asserted that every branch of the public service was being conducted in a businesslike way. He had not heard any complaints whatever in this connection, except as regards the liquor permit system. The Yukon council has however, lately abolished the permit system, so that the last ground of criticism has been removed. Father Gendreau said he considered the people of Dawson had good grounds for feeling satisfied at the way the affairs of the Yukon are administered.

Exports to South Africa.

In February last Hon. Mr. Fisher, Minister of Agriculture, obtained permission from the War Office to forward Canadian products to South Africa on ships chartered by his department, for cargo for the War Office, and a monthly freight service from St. John and Cape Town was inaugurated in March. No further shipments of supplies being required by the War Office, this freight service terminated with the sailing of the steamship Usher on the 14th instant. Under the arrangement, made with the Imperial authorities, the miscellaneous goods had to be discharged at Cape Town. This limitation prevented the shipments from assuming large proportions, because the import trade of Cape Town is for local consumption only. Port Elizabeth and Durban being the only distributing points for the interior, the transhipment of goods at Cape Town is impracticable because of the high rates. The class of goods forwarded by these Government transports embraced the following articles: Axes, bags, billiard tables and frames canned apples, canned corn, canned tomatoes, canned lobsters, fish, furniture, iron roofing, metal, sheeting, paper (plain, green, opaque), saddlery, shoes, wood, mantles, axles (for road carts), bicycles and parts, canned goods, codfish, chaff stuff, cheese (Imperial), flour, hardware, lumber, match blocks, pianos, radiators, castings, sash lumber, toboggans, cutlery, boots, shoe machinery, chairs, chair stocks, cushions (road cart), cook stoves, desks, dressers, furniture stock, harness and metal collinns, mats, paint, peas (split), road carts, sash, doors and frames, stoves, boilers, pipes, castings and pots.

—Numerous complaints reach us of young men who are in the habit of bathing at the town bridge and disturbing themselves in an entirely rude, indecent condition and otherwise conducting themselves in an improper manner. The matter has been placed in the hands of the police, who purpose securing the names of the offenders and making an example of a batch. No objection is offered to those using proper bathing suits.

—Mr. Newton, who has the contract for the repairs at the Collegiate Institute, is rapidly pushing through with the work. When completed the building will be thoroughly renovated and will have a bright and attractive interior, in keeping with the neat and tidy appearance of the grounds around the building. Mr. Passmore, though still confined to his home, has made ample provision for the care of the Collegiate grounds that they are looking their best. The grounds, as well as those of the Union School, of which Mr. Frampton has charge, are well kept and are quite a contrast to the surrounding street grounds.

Died at Pembina N. D.

A sudden death occurred at Pembina, N.D., on Friday evening, July 11th, in the person of Mr. Fred. Nickolson, a former resident of Verulam township, and a son of Mr. Thos. Nickolson, Manvers. Mr. Nickolson had just finished milking the cows and was driving them to pasture, when he had occasion to jump over a ditch. While doing so he suddenly fell, a blood vessel sending to the heart, and death was instantaneous. He was a fine young man and was doing well in the west, having settled on one of the best farms in Dakota. His remains were brought to Portypool on Tuesday by Mr. Geo. Tully, a friend who accompanied deceased and his sister west some three years ago. The funeral took place to the Valverton cemetery the same day and was largely attended. Question of Interurban.

Toronto, July 23.—The Ontario Government was waited upon yesterday by two deputations on behalf of the Canadian Pacific Town Tower Company and the Ontario Power Company, in connection with the Niagara Falls Park and the latter company.

The Canadian Niagara Power Company asked that before the new agreement with the other concern was ratified, that they should be heard. On behalf of the Ontario Company, Z. A. Lash held that the Ontario Company was not interested in this matter, which was an agreement with the Canadian Company and the commissioners.

Wallace Nesbitt, for the Canadian Company, asked that the matter be referred back to the Commissioners before whom they wished to be heard. Premier Hardy and Hanna promised to give the company an answer in a day or so.

Cardinal Leidechowski Dead.

Rome, July 23.—Cardinal Leidechowski, prefect of the congregation of the Propaganda, of the Roman Church, died yesterday morning, after a long illness.

Cardinal Leidechowski was born at Cork, Oct. 29, 1822, and was a decendant of an illustrious Polish family.

The Pope, on learning of Cardinal Leidechowski's death, was greatly distressed, and exclaimed: "A valiant fighter for the cause of God and Rome has gone. His memory be blessed." He then knelt down and prayed for the repose of the cardinal's soul.

The Weekly Post.

LINDSAY, FRIDAY, JULY 25, 1902.

Guardians of Our Health.

Our Board of Health Censured by the Provincial Authorities for Neglecting to Establish a Tent Hospital.

The Board met last Wednesday evening in the Clerk's office, business commencing at 7.30. Those present were Chairman Kylie, Messrs. J. Staples, J. Keith, J. Duck, J. Wardrobe, Mayor Ingle, Dr. McAlpine, M.H.O., Clerk Knowlson and Sanitary Inspector Douglas.

The minutes of last meeting were read and approved.

Sanitary Officer's Report.

Inspector Douglas presented the following report: In submitting my report I wish to say that there has been quite a number of cases of scarlet fever in town this spring, but it is not the only municipality that has had scarlet fever. I think the reports circulated have been exaggerated, which had a tendency to injure the business of the town. I have examined the drain on Adelaide-st. and think it is not low enough to carry the water off. If the drain was a little deeper it would benefit the cellars along the street, so I would advise that that be done. Regarding sanitary closets in the Adam property, on Kent-st., I think the work should be done. Mr. Thos. Murdock has complained that the Gas Co. are digging pits on their lot and filling the same with lime and water after having put it through their process. Mr. Murdock is afraid that the stuff may destroy his well, and I would like to have the board examine it in a body. The stagnant water on King-st., opposite Goheen's and O'Neill's property, still remains, and there is anything but a pleasant smell arising from it. I have inspected it and suggested building a drain through their lots to carry the water away, but they would not submit to that plan. To drain it any other way would incur a great expense.

Referring to the drain on Adelaide-st., Mayor Ingle did not think the water should be drained by the town in front of houses.

M. H. O.—"When a nuisance is in front of a person's residence the Board can compel the owner to remove it."

On motion of Mr. Duck, seconded by Mr. Staples, that portion of the report was referred back to the Council. The report was then received and fyled.

Censure from a Superior.

Dr. McAlpine presented a letter written to him by Dr. Bryce, of Toronto, secretary of the Provincial Board of Health, regarding the recent outbreak of scarlet fever, and asking why the Board did not take steps to stamp out the disease. He was surprised to hear that the Board had failed to establish a tent for an isolation hospital when one could have been secured in 24 hours' time. He could not understand why the Lindsay Board were so careless.—Fyled.

A Drainage Grievance.

From G. A. Gibson, of the north ward, complaining about the bad state of the drain in front of his residence, the water being about up to his door.

Mr. Duck—"The heavy rains lately have caused the water to be at the door of almost every house in town."

Mr. Staples—"When a citizen of the town complains about a bad drain I think this Board should look into the matter."

Mayor Ingle suggested that Inspector Douglas should examine the drain and report to this Board. This was agreed to.

Want to be Favored.

From Miss Adam and Mrs. Geo. Foster, relative to sanitary closets in their small stores on Kent-st., and asking that they be given a year's time to do the work, as they got only a small rental for the stores, and they have already been put to a considerable expense.

Mr. Keith—"There is a by-law regarding sanitary closets, and we should not interfere."

Mr. Duck—"I think Miss Adam and Mrs. Foster should have some consideration, as it is not very profitable property."

Interesting Reading.

The following accounts were submitted for payment: Bell Telephone Co., 85c.; P. J. Hurley, groceries, Birchenow family, 99c.; A. Higinbotham, medicine, Birchenow, Lucas and Teevins families, $4.90; E. Gregory, medicine for Birchenow, Teevin, English, McConnell and Hepburn families, $21; M. Andrus, special services as constable, $39; Mrs. Nelson, board and washing for the Lucas children for 18 days, $13.50; Dr. Jeffers, consultation with Dr. McAlpine re Ellis child, $2; Chas. Lucas, articles destroyed, $24.70; J. Teevin, articles destroyed, $28.40. Mr. Douglas presented an inventory of the articles destroyed at McConnell's hotel, but as the account was not attached it was deferred until next meeting.

Mayor Ingle—"Is it necessary to burn the goods in a room where scarlet fever has been? If put in a dry kiln for a time it would stamp out contagion."

Dr. McAlpine—"The cases in the houses where property was destroyed were malignant. The beds were in a bad state and it was quite necessary to burn the goods so as to prevent the disease from spreading. The Board is not compelled by law to pay for the goods destroyed, but they are compelled to protect the health of other people."

Mr. Staples—"I think if people are poor the Board should pay for the goods destroyed, but if in good circumstances they should bear the loss themselves. When I had sickness in my home I did not ask the town to pay the loss sustained."

Mr. Kylie and Mayor Ingle thought it a hardship for people who have had contagious diseases in their homes to have their goods burned to protect the health of others, but they thought some of the accounts sent it seemed to be enormous."

Mr. Staples—"I think so."

Mr. Kylie—"Perhaps if we had an isolation hospital the cost would have been greater. It's a question whether we are not getting off light."

On motion all the accounts except Mr. Lucas' and Mr. Teevins' were ordered to be paid.

It was moved by Mr. Staples, seconded by Mr. Duck, that Mr. Lucas be paid $20.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Keith, seconded by Mr. Duck, that Mr. Teevins be paid $25.—Carried.

Another Case of Neglect.

Dr. McAlpine, when asked to give an explanation of Dr. Jeffers' account, said the Ellis child had contracted the disease about six miles south and was brought to town. Dr. Clarke had been consulted but so far he (Dr. McAlpine) had not been notified of the case by that physician. The neighbors in that vicinity got alarmed and came to him about it; he went to the house and was told by the parents what Dr. Clarke had told them. Dr. Clarke said that the child had symptoms of fever, and if the skin peeled off it would be a sure sign. He (Dr. McAlpine) had no hesitation after looking at the child in pronouncing it scarlet fever, but in order to make sure he sent Dr. Jeffers, and the latter verified his statement. He then placarded the house.

On motion of Mr. Staples, seconded by Mr. Wardrobe, it was decided not to enter an action against Dr. Clarke, the Board being satisfied that he is keeping within the bounds of the law.

Newspapers Get a Roast.

Dr. McAlpine then produced a copy of The Evening Post and read a paragraph in a recent editorial. The Doctor took exception to it, and stated that The Post almost insinuated that he was the scapegoat. The Watchman and The Post, both by their reports of meetings and editorials, had injured the business of the town and they should make an apology to the business men—he did not care whether they apologized to the Board or not, as that body could stand it. He thought the doctors were reporting very well, and the Board had been doing their duty since the first case was reported.

Mr. Staples—"After reading in The Post of Dr. Clarke's negligence re the Moore child I telephoned him and he gave me a very satisfactory answer."

Mr. Keith—"The newspapers were altogether too hard on the Board."

Mr. Kylie—"The Post, in its report of our meeting held on June 26th, said I was appointed as one to interview Dr. Clarke and request him to give an explanation of why he did failed to report the Moore case. I was not appointed, and I denied that in a letter over my signature which appeared in The Post of June 26th."

Mr. Staples—"Let the past rest and let us look to the present and future. I will admit that the doctors, as well as ourselves, are not perfect, but I believe they tried to perform their duty."

The meeting then adjourned.

BURIED UNDER TONS OF ROCK.

One Man Dead, and His Companion Very Badly Injured.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 21.—Two colored men working in the tunnel for the Canadian Niagara Power Company, named Joseph Cook and Charles Ester were buried in the falling rock that fell down upon them after a blast that had been let off Sunday morning, 150 feet below the surface. The men's comrades soon removed the broken stone and found both badly crushed. They were hurried to the Memorial Hospital. Upon their arrival at the hospital it was found Ester had died on the way. Cook has a fractured skull, broken leg and ribs.

Fell Asleep on the Track.

Chatham, July 22.—Edward Dobson, jr., Thamesville, attended the circus here on Saturday and thereby came to his death. He took the train home, but neglected to get off till he got to Bothwell, the next station, and proceeded to walk back. Later he was found asleep on the track by an oil well man and invited to share the shanty till morning, but he insisted on walking home. He doubtless lay down again and fell asleep, for some hours later his mangled remains were found on the track.

[illegible] Garment Workers Out.

New York, July 22.—The 25,000 garment workers who struck Sunday for higher wages and shorter hours were joined yesterday by about 15,000 others, who asked that 56 hours be considered a week's work. As this is the dull season in the trade, it is expected that it will be some days before the various interests will get together. About nine different unions are engaged in the strike.

Drowned in a Slough

Winnipeg, July 22.—Bruer O'Key, a 19-year-old youth, was drowned on Sunday morning in a slough near Cardston. He had attempted to ride across the water, when the horse became entangled, threw itself, and both he and its rider were drowned.

Chamberlain Well Again.

London, July 22.—Joseph Chamberlain, the Colonial Secretary, who was recently injured in a cab accident, has entirely recovered, and will resume his seat in Parliament to-day.

Landowners Form League.

Dublin, July 22.—Irish landowners have formed a combination with a capital of £100,000 to protect themselves against the United Irish League.

Cholera at Tokio.

Washington, July 22.—Minister Buck, at Tokio, reports to the State Department by cable, dated yesterday, that cholera has broken out here.

LOCAL BREVITIES

—Like the circus, the Manitoba wheat crop is bigger, greater and grander than ever before.

—Many a June bride has by this time had her honeymoon disillusioned by a husband who snores.

—The weather this summer is a sandwich consisting of thin layers of warmth put in between thick slabs of frigidity.

—Gillespie & Co., town, are asking tenders for the erection of a flat grain warehouse, 30x80, at Uptergrove, to be ready by Sept. 1st.

—The latest returns of the Education Department indicate that there are 9440 teachers in Ontario, of whom 6810 are females. The average salary is $351.

—A sentence in our Board of Health report elsewhere might lead people to infer that Mayor Ingle held that the town should not drain the streets. His contention was that the town should not be expected to drain cellars.

—Mr. A. O. Hogg, of Messrs. Hogg & Lytle, grain buyers, Mariposa, was in town lately attending the Victoria Cheese Board meeting. Mr. Hogg met with a slight accident last week, cutting his right foot. He is quite lame as a result.

—Mr. Chas. Graham, who represented the 45th Victoria Regiment on the Coronation Contingent, has returned from England. Charlie reports a pleasant voyage both ways, but expresses regret at not being able to see King Edward crowned.

—The Sleepy Camping Club comprising Messrs. B. Miller, of Toronto, Geo. Bateson, of New York, W. Miller and W. Pilkie, town, left on the Esturion Saturday evening for Bobcaygeon for a two weeks' outing. They will visit several points on the lower Kawartha Lakes before returning.

—Lieut.-Col. E. B. Edwards, brother of Mr. J. G. Edwards, of this town, has resigned the command of the 57th Regiment, Peterboro, with which body he has been connected since 1879, when the Lieut.-Col. was gazetted as Captain. The command will be taken by Major Miller, who was gazetted lieutenant the same year.

—The Methodist church of Janetville gave a garden party Friday evening in that village. A number of Lindsay young people were in attendance, including the Lindsay Male Quartette, comprising Messrs. Campbell, Beecroft, Sackville and Dr. Totten. They rendered several popular selections which were greatly appreciated by all present.

—Peterboro butchers are modest in their charges. Following are the prices quoted by Kennedy, a leading dealer: Spring lamb—front quarters, per lb., 10c., hind 13c., sirloin and porterhouse steaks per lb., 12 1-2c., round steaks and roasts, 10c., boiling beef, 5c. to 7c. A discount of 25 per cent. is allowed on these meats by the carcase.

—A camper says that a common clay flowerpot may be made use of in keeping butter cool and firm in lieu of ice when camping. Place the pot over the plate of butter and wrap around it a cloth wet in cold water, sprinkling water over the outside of the cloth as it becomes dry. Milk will remain cool and sweet for some time if treated in the same way.

—Last week the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. offered a prize in the shape of a gold bulletin to the company's agents in the District of Toronto who could write the largest business in three specified days. Saturday, Mr. Jas. Dean, the local representative, received a letter stating that he was the first agent to qualify fully, and stood third in the competition.

—The Star Printing and Publishing Co., of Toronto, have earned the gratitude of all who take vacation by issuing a very interesting work called The Star Summer Directory, containing a fund of information for tourists concerning the charms of various summer resorts, the prices charged at hotels and boarding houses, etc. The object of the book is to advertise Canada as the pleasure land of the continent.

—About 150 Omemeeites arrived last Friday from that village in two special coaches attached to the regular train from Port Hope. The cars were taken by the shunter around to the east ward siding, the passengers being landed at the Rathbun Co's office. They there embarked on the Kenosha, and at 10 o'clock she started off for Bobcaygeon, accompanied by a number of Lindsay citizens. It was the annual excursion of the Omemee Methodist church Sunday School.

—A party of Americans from Middleport, N.Y., who have been enjoying their holidays at Bobcaygeon, passed through Saturday to their homes. They took away with them over 300 lbs. of fish, which they secured chiefly in Pigeon Lake. It is the first visit of some of them to the Kawartha Lakes, and they are greatly taken with the beautiful scenery and excellent fishing of our inland waters.

—Messrs. Pym brothers' new cement stable, with stalls for 30 horses, is now in use, the building being finished with the exception of the iron roofing, on which men are at work. A large driving shed and granary, with cement walls, are also being constructed, and when these are completed the Messrs. Pym will have stable and yard accommodation of the very best, provided at a large expense.

—The Kenosha met with an accident Friday night in Sturgeon Lake. She was conveying a moonlight excursion party from Fenelon Falls to Bobcaygeon, and when nearly opposite Cedar Spring, Sturgeon Point, the main shaft broke. The break being of such a nature that it was impossible to repair it, the Kenosha floated about until the Str. Alexandra came to her relief, when she was towed to the Falls and the excursionists safely landed, after being out in the lake for several hours.

—The Winnipeg Free Press notes the launching of a stern-wheel steamer—the type first used on these waters by Capt. Crandell. The vessel is 100 feet in length, with 24 feet beam, draws only 12 inches of water when running light, and has a speed of 12 miles per hour. The craft has an upper deck with a clear space of 72 feet by 20 feet for dancing and promenading. Our boatbuilders have been constructing lake boats of deep draught for our shallow river navigation, and it would appear to the uninitiated person that both speed and comfort would be promoted by a return to first principles. What say you, Capt. Crandell?

DROWNED IN THE ELBE

Fifty on Board Steamer Primus, Cut in Two, Perished.

BOTH CAPTAINS SURRENDERED

The Boiler Exploded as Men Fought For Their Own Safety Regardless of Others—A Tragic Scene—A Too Precipitate Movement Caused the Disaster—130 Other Passengers Saved.

Hamburg, July 22.—The steamship Primus, of Hamburg with 185 passengers on board, was cut in two and sunk by the tug Hansa on the River Elbe, at 12.30 o'clock yesterday morning. About fifty persons were drowned. Thirteen bodies already have been recovered.

The Primus was an excursion steamer from Buxtehude (Province of Hanover, Prussia.) The disaster occurred between Blankenese and Nienstedten. Among the passengers were the members of the Eilbeck Male Choral Society.

At the time of the accident the Primus was crossing the river channel near Blankenese, from the southern into the northern fairway. According to witnesses aboard the Hansa, the movement was made too precipitately.

The Primus struck the tug's engine-room, and the Hansa endeavored to push her ashore, but the tug grounded soon and the ships parted. The Primus then sank.

In the interval, however, about fifty of her passengers were able to reach the Hansa by means of ropes and ladders. Seventy more were picked up by the tug's boats, while others swam ashore.

Captain Petersen of the Primus, swam ashore and gave himself up to the police. Capt. Sachs of the Hansa also surrendered.

The weather was fine, the moon was shining and both vessels were steering absolutely clear of each other. Suddenly the Primus when about 450 feet from the Hansa, put her rudder hard aport and crossed the bows of the latter.

Less than a minute elapsed between the time the Primus changed her course and the collision. Boats were immediately lowered from the Hansa, and ropes and ladders were thrown overboard. Fifty persons were rescued by the boats. At the same time the Hansa tried to push the Primus ashore, but, being of deeper draught, grounded herself before the passenger boat. The Primus floated down stream and sank 100 feet from the Hansa.

The terrible panic that occurred on the Primus when the Hansa struck her rendered the efforts to save her passengers almost useless. Fortunately the steamer Dolphin came up immediately, and succeeded in saving 60 of those on board the sinking steamer, while other boats assisted in the work of rescue. Some of the survivors furnish graphic descriptions of the awful suddenness of the disaster.

More of the passengers would have been saved by the ropes thrown from the Hansa had it not been that before those who seized the ropes could be hauled on board they were pulled from the lines they had grasped by other persons struggling in the water, and all were drowned in the hideous confusion.

It is asserted that divers have already recovered 45 bodies, but as yet it is impossible to verify the death list.

Match Resulted in a Tie—Increasing Interest in the Noble Game.

Wednesday afternoon a very close and exciting game of cricket was played between a team of cricketers from the town and a team from the Collegiate Institute. A number of players who have not been seen on the cricket field for years—notably Mr. Grace—took part in the game. The playing gave abundance of evidence, if any were needed, that we have in town plenty of material for a first-class Cricket Club. A second eleven nearly as strong as the one representing the town could have been got together. It is hoped that next year cricket will boom in town.

The Collegiate boys have kept the game going this season and have made a remarkably good name for themselves. They intend this fall taking measures in order to secure the services of a first-class coach for the months of May and June of next year, and the time of the coach could be so arranged that town players and school players might have the benefit of his services.

Wednesday's game should be one of a series of weekly games for the season. The School team have arranged to play with Uxbridge in Uxbridge on July 28th, and will very likely arrange a game, Uxbridge Eleven vs the Town, some day next week.

For the town, Messrs. Little, D. Paton and Outredge did the best batting. Mr. Little, who is always a sure run-getter, secured top score for his side and for the School D. Paton played nicely for his score of 10 runs. Mr. Outredge, who is a new-comer—an Englishman who learned his cricket in England—is a splendid cricket, and both with the bat and in the field is one of the strongest players that has been seen in Lindsay in years. Mr. Benjamin, Bank of Montreal, went in to bat late in the day and unfortunately did not get a chance to score before his side was relieved. On the field he played a pure and brilliant game. For the School the Rev. Mr. Strike carried off the honors. We trust that this game will cause Mr. Strike to again take an interest in cricket. By steady careful play he was the means of securing a victory for his old School. Going to bat first, he played all the bowling of the town, having pitted against him Messrs. A. M. Paton, G. Little, H. Outredge and D. Paton. A. G. Hooper, who has been a consistent scorer throughout the season, maintained his reputation; and he rather surprised the spectators and town players by putting away one of Mr. Paton's first balls to him for six—one of the longest hits of the season. He had bad luck in being run out just when he got well set. Scully, McCaulay, Fortte and Koyl all did well and helped the score along when every run was badly needed. For the School Eagleson carried off the honors in bowling.

Following we give the score.

THE KING'S CROWNING

By His Majesty's Command the Date is Announced.

CANADA TO SEND CONTINGENT.

Thirteen Mounted Men to Be Sent From Canada—Will Leave the Dominion on the 26th Inst—Col. Turner, V.C., in Command—Service Men and With Medals Preferred—The King's Progress.

Cowes, Isle of Wight, July 19.—A bulletin issued yesterday morning by the King's physicians says: "The King continues to make satisfactory progress. He is benefitting in every way from the change. His Majesty sleeps well and is able to have his couch placed upon the open deck during the greater part of the day."

The next bulletin will be issued July 21.

Date Officially Announced.

London, July 19.—An official notification was issued yesterday morning that, by the King's command, the coronation of King Edward and Queen Alexandra will take place August 9. Rehearsals of the procession from Buckingham Palace to Westminster Abbey were held yesterday morning, and the officials of the various State departments in the Abbey ceremony are again busy with preparations for the crowning.

TROOPS FOR CORONATION.

Colonial Contingent Will Number Fifty—How They Will Be Chosen.

Ottawa, Ont., July 19.—The Minister of Militia cabled the department from London yesterday to send one officer and thirteen mounted men to sail by 26th inst., to represent Canada in Colonial escort at the coronation procession.

The same men are to be taken, if they can go, who were chosen by Lieut.-Col. Turner, V.C., for the same duty in the procession that did not take place on June 26, otherwise the vacancies are to be filled from the contingent that went over last month. Holders of medals are to have the preference. The whole Colonial escort numbers fifty for this occasion.

Lieut.-Col. Turner, V.C., of Quebec, will be the commanding officer of the Canadians in the coronation escort next month.

LAST DAY OF THE RE-UNION.

Great Sport Provided For Visitors at Tassie Semi-Centennial.

Galt, July 19.—The second day's program of entertainments for the Old Boys' re-union and semi-centennial celebration of Galt Collegiate Institute opened yesterday morning by excursion trips on the street railway to Preston mineral springs, Idylwild Park and Hespeler.

The attendance yesterday was greatly augmented by the new arrivals. Evidences of hearty welcome on the part of citizens generally are everywhere apparent, flags and bunting on public buildings, places of business and private residences being conspicuously and tastefully displayed. A garden party in charge of the Ladies' Committee was held in the afternoon on the lawn of the Collegiate Institute grounds. Several thousands attended, most of whom went by trolley. The Street Car Company furnished a 15-minute service for two hours, during which time every motor and trailer was packed. A cricket match was played between teams drawn from the rank and file of pupils and ex-pupils after which the prizes won in the various sports were distributed.

The closing and biggest event of the series, however, was the banquet held in the skating rink, commencing at 8 o'clock last night. The attendance, including occupants of the gallery, is estimated at considerably over a thousand. The proceedings covering both days, from the beginning to the end, exceeded the most sanguine expectations of all concerned.

OFFENDER'S NAME WITHHELD.

Ottawa, Ont., July 19.—Col. Boulanger, of the 4th C. M. R., writing to the Deputy Minister of Militia, says that a Court of Enquiry fixed the responsibility for the mishap on board the Winnifredian, by which M. Groto, of Newcastle, N.B., lost his life by tumbling into the hold of the vessel. The party's name cannot be published till the official report arrives. He says all the horses were sick of pneumonia on the voyage. Veterinary Captain Harrington deserved great credit for working night and day to keep them alive.

Mother Can Have the Body.

Toronto, July 18.—The Ontario Cabinet, at a special meeting held yesterday afternoon, dealt with the application of Mrs. Rice, who asked that the body of her son, Fred Lee, be handed over to her after the execution this morning for interment in the family burying plot in Champaign, Ill.

The application was discussed behind closed doors, and at 7.30 o'clock the acting Premier handed Mr. Robinette an order directing Sheriff Mowat to hand the body over to Mrs. Rice this morning.

British Immigration Increased That Much Last Year.

TABULATION OF THE FIGURES.

The Returns Are Particularly Satisfactory to Canada—What the Increase Means—Dominion Rifle Matches Postponed—The Palma Trophy Match Will Take Place as Agreed Upon Previously.

Ottawa, July 21.—The Department of the Interior has just completed the tabulation of the immigration figures for the fiscal year ending June 30th last. The outstanding feature in this connection is the very large increase in British immigration. All circumstances and conditions considered, these figures are even more remarkable than the extraordinary showing in regard to the inflow of American settlers. During the year just ended the British immigration totalled 17,000. The previous year it was 11,810. Eleven thousand has been the average figure of British arrivals for some years. The figures since 1897 have been:—1897, 11,383, 1898, 11,608; 1899, 10,623; 1900, 10,360; 1891, 11,810. During the past year conditions have been unfavorable in regard to British immigrants, and the increase in arrivals in Canada is consequently evidence of a much greater efficiency in the immigration methods in the old country. Figures for the past year indicate that the immigration officials were apparently unable to make any showing above the 11,000 average. That seemed to be the limit. Last year Mr. James Smart, Deputy Minister of the Interior, went to the old country and reorganized the Canadian immigration offices. The figures just given bear testimony to the excellence of the work he did. The returns are particularly satisfactory when the unpromising outlook in the old country last year is taken into consideration. Besides the difficulty existing in the apparent impossibility to rise above the 11,000 mark the Boer war constituted a serious obstacle to increased immigration. The war took many persons from England to South Africa who might have been eligible settlers for Canada, and, moreover, there has been a well-developed idea that as soon as peace was restored South Africa would be a very promising field for young and energetic men Undoubtedly this idea has kept in the old country many young men desirous of locating in a new country, but who, knowing the war would soon end, wished to see just what chances would offer in South Africa. The Department of the Interior is consequently much pleased at the results that have followed the reorganization of the old country work. In Parliament and sections of the press the cry has always been that settlers from Great Britain were very much more desirable than immigrants from the continent. It is evident that under the new state of affairs Canada is in a fair way to get many more of the former class of settlers than she has hitherto attracted.

THE CROPS IN CANADA

A Summary of Conditions That Prevail—Rain Destroys Hay and Corn—Reports by Provinces.

Toronto, July 21.—In Ontario there is general depression among the farmers owing to the apparently never-ending fall of rain. Between Toronto and Lake Simcoe and in several other sections the hay crop is rotting in the fields. The farmers are unable to take it in, and if fine weather does not come soon the whole crop will be ruined. The present outlook is exceedingly gloomy, but the weather reports at last point to more favorable weather conditions in the near future.

Other crop reports to hand indicate a most prosperous state of things right through from the Northwest Territories to the Province of Nova Scotia. The reports are particularly bright from Manitoba and the Territories, where the largest crop on record is looked for. Mr. Hartney, the local agent of the Manitoba Government, states that the bulletins from Manitoba continue to be of a most encouraging character.

Alberta's crops are not nearly so far advanced as Assiniboia's, and the reports concerning them while not so sanguine, are in no way pessimistic, and even here favorable weather will assure a good crop.

Western Ontario reports are optimistic, particularly with reference to the fruit crop. Apples are said to be heavier than for years, and there will be an abundance of peaches. All grains are looking well, though farmers are going out of wheat raising and taking to oats and other products. Corn forms a general exception, however, all reports speak of it as being largely ruined.

Eastern Ontario reports generally speak in a hopeful tone. Crops are for the most part, good, those of hay and potatoes appearing to be the most promising.

Quebec reports, in common with those from all over, speak of too much rain and cold weather, the effect being more disastrous towards the east. In Quebec hay and potatoes are doubtful in some places, as are roots, but on the whole a heavy crop of hay may be looked for, as well as of potatoes.

Nova Scotia and New Brunswick will, apparently, have average crops. The fruit crop in Nova Scotia is reported poor, under the average, while in New Brunswick the conditions are somewhat better, and from all accounts the crop should be a good one. Owing to the lateness of the season, it is thought that considerable improvement would result from favorable weather.

Drowned While Fishing.

Kingston, July 19.—Ralph Ferguson, aged 16, while fishing off the bank at Kingston Mills yesterday, fell off and was drowned.

NEW CABINET MEETS

Mr. Chamberlain, Though Pale, Was in Attendance.

EARL CADOGAN HAS RETIRED.

Gen. Buller's Case—Another Debate in the House of Commons—Vote of Censure of the Government Defeated by an Overwhelming Majority—New Scheme of Military Education Promised.

London, July 18.—The Premier, A. J. Balfour, presided yesterday in the Foreign Office at the first Cabinet meeting of the new Administration. The Colonial Secretary, Joseph Chamberlain, was sufficiently recovered from the effects of the cab accident, which disable him, to be able to attend, though he discarded his hansom in favor of a more luxurious carriage. He was pale, and wore a soft felt hat. Otherwise he showed no signs of his injuries.

The meeting of the Cabinet gave fresh impetus to the reconstruction reports. One of these is the suggestion that the Duke of Marlborough will succeed Lord Curzon of Kedlestone as Viceroy of India, but there is not the least possibility of any such appointment. It appears very doubtful if Lord Curzon will come home before the expiration of his term of office. As a matter of fact there is no appointment which could be offered him, except the Foreign Office, which would be a promotion from the Vice-royalty of India, and there is no indication that Lord Lansdowne has any intention of retiring. Under no circumstances, however, would the Duke of Marlborough be given such an important post as India, though he might possibly succeed Earl Cadogan as Lord Lieutenant of Ireland. All suggestions in regard to appointments are still of a highly tentative character.

Earl Cadogan Resigns.

GEN. BULLER'S CASE.

War Secretary Brodrick Says He Is Good Peace Commander—Vote of Censure Lost by 236 to 98.

London, July 18.—The Buller controversy was again raised by Sir Edward Gray, Bart. (Liberal), in the House of Commons yesterday on the War Office vote. Sir Edward charged the War Office officials with having acted unfairly towards General Buller, and demanded the publication of further papers.

The War Secretary, Mr. Brodrick, opposed further publications which, he declared, could not relieve Gen. Buller of the responsibility of such mistakes as the abandonment of the guns Colenso, and the proposals to surrender Ladysmith, which, if they had been listened to, would have produced a disaster for which there was no parallel in British history. In regard to those proposals, continued Mr. Brodrick, when Gen. Buller sounded his note of despair to Gen. White, he had a heliogram in his pocket, received a fortnight before, saying that Gen. White had provisions for 70 days, and could defend Ladysmith while the food lasted. Gen. Buller's retention after Colenso and Spion Kop was inevitable under the circumstances, and his appointment to command at Aldershot was simply a resumption of his former office. Gen. Buller was a good peace commander.

Sir Edward's proposed vote of censure of the Government for its treatment of General Buller was subsequently defeated by 236 noes and 98 ayes, after much speech-making.

Simultaneously the War Office was being attacked in the House of Lords. Lord Monkswell (Liberal), brought up the scathing allegations contained in the report of the Committee on Military Education, and urged the immediate appointment of an inspector-general of army education. Lord Raglan, the Under Secretary for War, and Lord Lansdowne, the Foreign Secretary, defended the War Office, saying that a new scheme for education, containing sweeping changes, was in process of being drawn up. This statement satisfied Lord Monkswell and his supporters, and the motion was withdrawn.

THE CORONATION ESCORT.

The Thirteen Canadian Soldiers Who Go Back to England.

Toronto, July 21.—When the Canadian Coronation Contingent was in England, 13 of its mounted members were chosen to represent Canada, as a royal escort in the coronation procession Since the contingent returned to Canada, the authorities have decided to have those men in the procession, as previously arranged, and they have been, consequently, notified to be in readiness to depart again for England this week.

It is likely that they will embark on the steamship Pretorian, at Montreal, on Friday night, to sail on Saturday morning. They are all medal men.

The men will form a portion of the King's Colonial escort, of which Col. Turner is to be the commander. The escort will include representatives from every colony of the British Empire, and will be 100 strong.

TAPS FROM THE WIRES.

At Manila cholera is decreasing.

Secretary Hay has invited the attention of the British authorities to the Gaynor-Green case.

Melville Bailey, aged 18, was drowned in the Mossy River at Fork River, near Dauphin, Man., on Friday.

George Whalley, shipper in Evans & Sons, Limited, Front street, Toronto, was found dead in the warehouse on Sunday, he having been dead 24 hours when found. This firm's premises have been the scene of a burglary, a fire and two mysterious deaths within two months. An inquest will be held.

COLONIAL QUESTIONS.

Ministers in London Talking of Various Projects.

PRECEDENTS IN THE DOMINION.

Admiral Beresford's Suggestion—Sir Wilfrid Laurier on Canada's Future as a Grain-Supplying Country—Proposed Combination Between Allan and Elder-Dempster Line—Wireless Messages to Canada.

London, July 18.—Nothing has been officially reported about the meetings of the Provincial Premiers and Ministers from Canada, who are here at present, but it is understood that they have discussed the important question of securing better terms for the Provinces from the Dominion. An increase has been proposed for all Provinces, and its adoption would mean an increase of half a million per annum in the revenue of Ontario, the other Provinces in proportion. The Maritime Premiers, Messrs. Tweedie, Murray and Peters, desire that the money from the fishery award should be divided amongst the Maritime Provinces. They think they would have a good claim in an arbitration on account of their great fishing trade.

The question of the precedents given Provincial Premiers and Cabinet Ministers in the Dominion was discussed. At present the Provincial Ministers rank after Dominion members of Parliament, and the opinion of those at the conference is very strongly to the effect that they should rank after the Dominion Cabinet Ministers.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier is evidently considering the preferential trade question seriously and tactfully. I hear this afternoon an authentic report that in his interviews with the British Government Premier Laurier said that he did not want Britain to tax its people for the benefit of Canada, but suggested that as Britain taxes all grain it should exempt Canadian wheat. Perhaps Canada might be able to reciprocate by the admission of some articles of British manufacture. It is said that the British Ministers are considering the proposal.

The banquet given by the Canadian Club last evening was a successful affair. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Sir Edmund Barton, Sir Robert Bond, and the Canadian Ministers now in London were among the distinguished guests. Canada's Prime Minister, in his speech emphasized the loyalty of the Dominion, and declared that if they only had sufficient emigration to the country Canada could supply all the grain the entire Empire needed. At present the country wanted population.

Nothing definite has been reached in regard to the combination between the Allans and the Elder-Dempster Line towards securing the fast line subsidy. No offer has yet been made, but representatives of these steamship companies are interviewing Cabinet Ministers and presenting their scheme for a fast line between Canada and Great Britain.

In order to shorten the conference, the Premiers are having special interviews with the Admiralty. Defence and other departments in regard to preferential trade and the proposed steamship line. Admiral Lord Charles Beresford advises helping Canada with a fast steamship route. With a British combine for Atlantic trade it would surely knock J. Pierpont Morgan's plan in the head.

The Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company announces that they will send commercial messages to Canada before December. The rate will be 6d a word for private messages and 3d a word for press messages.

Scores of the Canadians.

Pte. T. J. Fennie, of the 5th Royal Scots scored 38 points in the Association Cup match at 200 yards, and 37 points in the 600 yards.

In the Alexander Martin match, 800 yards with ten shots, Sergt. T. G. Bayles, of the Royal Grenadiers, Toronto, made 47 points out of a possible 50.

Sergt. W. C. Smith, of the 43rd D. C. O. R., was credited with 47 points in the Armourers' company match, 900 yards, with ten shots.

Lady Aberdeen, wife of the former Governor-General of Canada, and Col. Otter of Toronto, visited the Canadian hut yesterday.

Honor For Sir Wilfrid.

Edinburgh, Scotland, July 18.—The municipality of Edinburgh has decided to confer the freedom of the city on Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Premier of Canada, and Sir Robert Bond, the Premier and Colonial Secretary of Newfoundland, on the occasion of their visit here July 26, to receive degrees from the university.

THE KING'S CONDITION.

Attended Divine Services on Sunday—Surprises His Physicians.

Cowes, Isle of Wight, July 21.—King Edward yesterday attended divine services, which were conducted by Commodore Lambleton, the commander of the Victoria and Albert, Queen Alexandra and the other members of the royal family aboard the yacht were also present. A cold northeast wind necessitated the enclosing of the sides and stern of the deck where the King usually stays.

His Majesty now rises at 9 o'clock in the morning and takes breakfast a half hour later, after which he is visited by his physicians. The King's progress continues to surprise his doctors.

China Accepts Conditions.

RICE PAYS THE PENALTY.

Murderer Did Not Flinch—Noose Slipped and Death Was Due to Strangulation—Relatives Get Body.

Toronto, July 19.—The murder of Constable William Boyd by three desperadoes on June 4, 1901, was finally avenged yesterday morning in the hanging of Fred Lee Rice. The black flag of death unfurled above the Toronto Jail signified to the hundreds of persons assembled out of morbid curiosity at the jail gate that the last scene in the tragedy that began with the formation of the notorious "Rutledge gang" in the Colorado State Prison five years ago had just been finished.

Rice walked to the scaffold with a firm step, a set, determined expression and a rigid bearing. His face was pale, and only once did he cast a glance at the group of witnesses in the jail yard. There was no dramatic incident. The doomed man ascended the eleven steps of the gallows practically unaided and awaited the executioner without a word. In fact, the usual question as to the desire of the prisoner to say anything was not asked. The drop took place at 8.02 o'clock, and twelve minutes later the heart stopped beating, and the physician, Dr. James H. Richardson, pronounced the man dead.

The doctor said afterwards that the noose had slipped around back of the ear, and that the death was due to strangulation. The neck had not been broken, although the man weighed 175 pounds, 13 pounds more than when he entered the jail last October. There seemed to be a tendency on the part of some present to believe that the hanging was bungled.

In accordance with the decision of the Government on Thursday, the body was surrendered to his relatives.

CHAPTER XI.

There are two kinds of men who deserve to be held in abhorrence—those who are forever saying mean things about their fellows and those forever blowing their own horns and telling their mates, the second passive. The first are generally regarded as the more dangerous and objectionable. But as the result of some 30 years' study I am constrained to believe the second the worst. The first has at least the courage of his convictions and says what he is mean enough to think. The second lacks even that degree of personal pluck and, not daring to say the slander himself, gives it birth under the cloak of "I heard." How many of you who read here felt sad to meet the man who draws his chair close to yours and confidentially begins: "Say, mate, is this about Jimmy Rush? Now, I was told last night by a man he ought to know," etc. Ask him who the man is, and he shirks and becomes mysterious. "He's a—Well, I promised not to mention his name, but he's a gentleman. It was told me confidentially. The source is always intangible, but in nine cases out of ten you can safely bet your last dollar the information is never existed and your hopes of eternity that if he did he wasn't a gentleman. Gentlemen do not circulate slander.

But cake who have fallen below the plane of their fellow men and cannot climb back seek to restore their social position by selling others their souls. Captain Nathan got back to Pawnee to find himself in bad odor. Torrance, who would rather have done a soldier's duty had he been permitted, was involved, through his intimacy with Nathan, in Nathan's growing unpopularity. Santley, who had had to serve as Nathan's adjutant, now had unjustly the shoulder a section of Nathan's obloquy. Woodrow escaped because Nathan accused him of gentlemanly instincts, and the youngster, with Rodney May and others, back him, as much as he told Nathan he hoped he would prefer charges and have him tried by court martial. A most unhappy state of affairs was arising on the batteries at Pawnee, and the politely veiled contempt of the cavalry was something that made the gunners sweat. Two or three troops under Channing and Stryker had done tiptop service during the riots. Infantry from Omaha and Leavenworth had saved hundreds of thousands of dollars in property and covered themselves with credit for cool, even tempered, forbearing but resolute work. Everywhere had the regulars been unstinted praise from all law abiding citizens except that one individual little fashion at Brentwood, and nothing prevented a court of inquiry but the feeling that, for the sake of the club, the whole thing were best ignored or forgotten. "Ah error of judgment" they had at Nathan's door, but nothing more serious. And old "Cal," who secretly sympathized with Woodrow, was instructed to release the lad from arrest, with the caution to hold his tongue and temper in the future. Then Melville was sent south at the urgent advice of the doctors, and by that constant Pawnee caused discussion of Nathan's failure.

But great was the glorification among the gunners of Nebraska, and word spread was the story of Mr. Langdon's prowess, and now was the ridicule at the expense of the Brentwood rider and the rejoicing over the triumph of the Grays. Grant, was the applause that greeted Langdon's soldier pupils when they came on the prize and Langdon on their shoulders and greeter still the grief with which a few weeks later it was learned that the Big Horn had held that gentleman accountable for the robbery of its safe at Brentwood and discharged him from the service of the road.

And this came to pass: "Bearers" at Pawnee. "I heard," said Captain Nathan confidentially to the new post commander six months after the riots and not six days after the receipt of the latest news from Nebraska—"I heard from a source that can't be questioned that the real reason was that he had been paying off for months and the robbery was to conceal his own stealings." "I heard," whispered Torrance in the confidence begotten of Burgundy to Major Sinkerton of the staff, "that he had blown in over $2,000 in a hack shop in Chicago, and detectives had been on to him for weeks." All manner of things detrimental to Langdon had Nathan and his few satellites heard in the same way, and all they did hear and much more they did not was duly communicated to such as would listen, who were, fortunately, few. It was Nathan's insidious stories that turned the local shoppers against the absent and the exile and incidentally a pretty penny for their information, as the story went, was offered to him for 60 cents on the dollar, and he confessed to Melville long weeks later.

"I heard," said Torrance, "that old Sharp-eyed Langdon was sent from Sheridan and sent the sergeant of the guard to see him off the reservation."

"I heard," said Nathan, "that Dr. Armistead gave him warning that if he wasn't of the post before morning gun fire he'd give the whole story of his maltreatment of his wife to the papers, and that's what started him."

And now there was no Melville to stand his friend; at Pawnee, for the users of the army in general and at Sheridan in particular. Facts to substantiate its theories being necessary, The Palladium had drawn upon the repertory of certain discharged and disgruntled soldiers ever to be found about the stables and check the imaginations of its reporters, to the end that many sensational stories were published, which, while adding to the enemies of the army among the turbulent and unruly element in Chicago, succeeded only in disgusting the educated and the thinking men among its readers. The Palladium lost some and subscribers in the clubs, the professional and business circles generally. The management saw and pondered. It could not change its policy or drop the matter at its present stage without bad admission of defeat. They perhaps could find a man who knew Langdon, who could tell the real story of many a discreditable thing in the service of the rank and file, who knew that, unlike almost everything it had asserted in the past, could not be disproved and denied. In the interests of the Seattle and the hope of winning friends and subscribers among the officers of both roads it had vigorously abused ("roasted" was the technical term) Mr. Langdon and published several letters from its own correspondent in the scene of the riots which happened to be the editor of the Brentwood Sun, in which poor Rick was held up to public obloquy as a dangerous demagogue, a reckless murderer, etc. Now, the Sun was published in the same city with the office of that assessment if not sinlterative headline, "A Kicked Out Captain," and of Langdon's imprisoning for the time one of its own reporters, a gentleman from top to toe, who had known Rick for twenty days at the Point, made vehement personal appeal to the managers and editors and succeeded in having it stopped. It was The Palladium's policy when discrediting Langdon to refer to the unimpeachable veracity of Nebraska officers, gentlemen of unstained honor, which had cast him from the fold." Now it recited confidential instances with which to impeach these same officers, whose unstained honor was only more likely to be in possession of numerous interesting facts or in readiness to part with them because of the "kicked out captain," now needy, and hitherto so unfortunately soft hearted? It was a reporter who brought Langdon the message that Mr. Manager Rice wished to see him. Rick was in his shirt sleeves and was at work on the chair to which he was affably waving him to a seat. Rice, with a little talk with him, and Langdon went, silently took

THE OLD FELLER'S FISHIN'

By ARTHUR E. McFARLANE

As we stepped off at the raw, red station in the Algoma cedar bush, Mat's dusty democrat came into view through the open doors of the baggage room, and the old fellow himself waved us the hand of genial recognition from a group he was taking leave of at the steps of the next car forward. The party consisted of three tanned young men in picturesquely soiled and battered fishing raiment, and a grey-haired old couple, evidently their father and mother. And it was with the old gentleman that Mat was chiefly concerning himself. By the pile of valises and suit-cases, still awaiting the toss of the baggage-man were two shapelessly bulging oat-bags which experience told us were heavy with ice-and-sawdust-packed 'lunge and black bass; and it was plain that the ancient sportsman was fondly and nervously determined to see those two bags safely aboard before he embarked himself. But apparently Mat finally overruled him; for, with a traveling satchel in one hand and and a green-baize-covered bundle of rods in the other, he managed at last to drive him reassuringly behind the others into the train. A moment later he was out again, and, hurrying up the platform, arrived at the baggage-car in time to "take ends" with the "agent" and heave the second sack thumping after the first. Then, as the train pulled out he came back in his striding run, waved his weather-browned slouch hat in an awkward gaiety of farewell at the young men lounging in the vestibule, and caught the old gentleman's tremulous fingers through the window. His parting quaver of thanks he shook off with vigorous deprecation, and received the radiant gratitude of the tearful proud little old lady beside him with kindly shyness. And till the last car was well passed the platform he beamed after them broadly and lovingly. It was as if they had been two little children of the city and he a country grandfather bidding them good-bye after the most joyous of holidays. It was not hard to see that he had been very good to them—and on the sixteen mile drive out to the forks we were to hear the story.

Mat gave us our annual welcome in a long grip apiece, assured us that all was well with him and that fishing had never been better. Then we slid our satchels, rods and minnow-pails into the back of the democrat and two minutes later we were bowling swiftly northward over the new Government road. Waters was first to come back to the "one subject." "So all the bass in Wistassining aren't caught yet?" he asked tentatively.

Mat slowly turned himself sideways in the front seat and thoughtfully grasped the gray Wednesday stubble on his wrinkled jaw. "Well, I reckon, now, not to exaggerate, there's mebbe one or two left."

"The crowd you've just seen off seem to have got their share, all right, all right," said Gunn. "You didn't let them hike out that six-pounder you've been saving for me, did you?"

The old boy's shoulders went straight up in a sudden chuckle. "By jinks, now, Mr. Gunn, mebbe there you're aimin' better than you think for. They certainly did get some fish. Not to go too close into details, they weren't more than a thousand pounds inside the legal limit, I should say. And the old feller caught the best of them, too. That's what he did. And I don't think catchin' fish ever filled any man's heart fuller of solid happiness, neither. I know I never got more pure joy out of helpin' any catch 'em."

"Who are they—more New Yorkers?"

"Pretty near. They come from York State—Albany City. Hutcheson their name is, except the young feller with the moustache; his name is Rogers, and he's a son-in-law. The three boys were up here last year—come the week after you left, and when they began makin' arrangements to strike north again this summer th old feller took a notion that he's come along, too. He stayed with his daughters the year before, and now he guessed he'd go a-fishin' with the men. And of course the old lady was bound to go along with him. Well, the sons, they're really good fellers, and they got right up and encouraged them in it. They picked the old man our a rod and tackle of the best, wrote on to me, and laid out to just make him one of the boys again. If they'd actu'lly thought of him as old, and acted smooth-handed accordin' it might have saved a lot of needless heartburnin'.

"For the old feller couldn't seem to catch any fish, and they, treatin' him exactly like one of theirselves, could'n't seem to roast himself enough over it. You boys don't need to be told how it is when the crowd gets in at night and starts countin' up and comparin' catches. Fishin' put all of us on the same footin' and the feller with the short string—no matter who he is—has got to stand it.

"But I could see plain enough—though they seemed to be daft blind to it—that he was a long, long way from takin' it as it was meant. He smiled through it all some way or other, but it was a vinegared knife to him none the less. For he was just enterin' on those years when an old man begins to doubt and dread he ain't keepin' all his faculties—when he's forever strainin' his ear pitiful open to hear every little word and hint that he ain't, and if what he fears is slowly beginnin' to be true—I tell you, now, that doesn't make it any easier to bear. I'm just gettin' old enough to guess what that is myself. Mebbe I'm not showin' great outward signs of weakness, but I own to you, boys, that I haven't got the power and speed in me now that I had ten years ago. And when my lads, Jack and Lige' come home after harvest to help me lay out the winter's firin', and I take an end of the cross-cut saw with one of them while the other splits—often and often now, toward the middle of the afternoon I'd give the whole bush lot pretty near to be able to quit off for a restin' spell. But, by jinks, I don't let myself take it just the same. If I did it would seem to me as if whole good from all the fatherin' and whalin' and teachin' I'd ever give them would be clean lost and gone. The wife tells me I might as well face it now as later, and not mind how they take it. But—to give in that I'm playin' out—well, it's too mortal hard an own-up for me just yet a while. And with old Mr. Hutcheson I knew it must be a hundred times harder; for with me it was only a matter of the body, and with him it was the head. Every night I could see it was cuttin' him deeper, and more and more I felt I ought to get out and help him. But what with my hay bein' only about half in, and my not knowin' just what to say to him anyway, I held back and kept my mouth shut.

"But along toward the end of the week, when one night he hadn't fin or scale to show for his day, and heard about it accordin', and him and me was walkin' up slow from the landin' in the dusk about a stone's throw behind the others—'They're good boys,' he comes out all of a sudden in a kind of achin' burst—'they're good boys, and I know it's only natural for them to have their joke—but they've about made it plain to me that I'm not good for anything any more. I should have stayed at home and sat with the women. It's where I belong now.'

"That was just about all I needed. 'Well, Jerusalem, Mr. Hutcheson,' I says, 'this hot weather must be gettin' the better of you. You've got the excuse of not knowin' either black bass or the Wistassining, but that's all the excuse you have got, and you needn't try to get behind any other.'

"'I'm a played-out, weak-headed old man,' he says, 'and that's all there is to it.'

"'All right,' I says; 'if you are, so am I, too. But I reckon we've neither of us quite lost our grip just yet. And if you'll let me come along with you to-morrow and show you the river—you to supply the brains and fishin' part of it—mebbe you'll decide that you've been talkin' about side-trackin' yourself about twenty years before your time.'

"'May be, may be,' he answers, mighty sick-hearted; 'but I guess the truth about me is that I've been side-tracked now for long enough, without even brains enough left to see that. And the sooner I get to the scrap-heap the better.'

"'Quite so,' says I; 'quite likely that's the truth about me, too. But all the same I reckon it's worth while puttin' our heads together for one day anyway, just to make dead sure of it. This is the age of young men and great combinations, so they say. Mebbe if we two old fellers make a little combination of it to-morrow we'll learn a thing or two. Will you take me?'

"He said 'yes' to it, but I could see the heart in him dead and water-logged. And that night I heard the old lady doin' her best to comfort and spirit him up, too. But she didn't seem to be able to do him any good and only made herself completely miserable. I tell you I was so mortal sorry for them I couldn't half sleep. And I swore to myself; 'Old feller, you'll get bass to-morrow if there's one left in the Wistass. And as for the hay, well, it ain't good farmin', but I'll take the risk of leavin' it to the Creator. I reckon this week He's thinkin' more on old men that can't catch fish than He is on clover and timothy."

"So next mornin' at dawn I went up to the board of works boom and netted a good pailful of big shiner minnies. And comin' back I stopped off at Kelly's Marsh, and added a dozen or two frogs, just for luck. Crabs I could get best where I was goin'. And when I got home, while the wife was fixin' up the lunch for us—with a spider and a tea-pail for cookin' on the rocks—I hunted up my rubber thigh-boots and some spare old togs. When I stuffed them into the bow of the shalloop I overhauled the old feller's tackle kit. He was well enough provided, but I added a couple of devon bait and a card of No. 3's—gut—to be on the safe side. Then I called him and we had breakfast.

"We were pushin' off in the old tub while the boys were still at their mornin' swim, and of course they did some wonderin'. 'Goin' out early to get a scowful?' one of them asked. And, 'I reckon that's what,' I sent back; and then to the old feller; 'And it depends just on you whether we get it or not.'

"'Then it depends on a worn-out tool,' he says.

"I showed him the boots. 'We'll have to wade out into the middle. Are you willin' to resk the rheumatiz?'

"'I am, indeed I am,' he says; 'I'll bear any pain at all if only I can get one big string. Every day for the last week I've thought I'd get it, and that would show them, but——'

"'All right,' I says, 'I guess you'll show 'em this time.' And to tell the truth I didn't intend him to get wet and didn't much fear the water'd hurt him if he did, for it's been milk warm this year from early June. So I pulled ashore above the Chute, and we struck down through the burnt lands.

"Now, mebbe you think I'm goin' to tell you exactly where I took him—but I'm not, neither. You boys can't say but what I've always showed you places that give your creels full and overflowin' by supper time. I haven't need for any guilty conscience about no fishin' party that ever came to the Forks. But if I, or any other man that ever took outsiders over this river, was to say we'd give 'them all we knew of the water, complete and unreserved,' we'd be lyin', and that's the truth of it. There's just about three places I've kept for myself—and it was to one of them that I took old Mr. Hutcheson.

"I'll tell you this much, though. It was to one of the Lower Falls rapids. And when we'd pushed out of the bush and he'd got sight of the ragged water I could see what I'd said about havin' to wade come back to him, and he couldn't help bein' pretty nervous at the prospect. But, as I told him while I was puttin' him into my boots, exceptin' for the hole I was goin' to have him fish, it wasn't up to his neck anywhere. And once I'd got him startedin, it was only a matter of steppin' from one flat stone to another, though the foam and whirl of the current didn't let you see them. He gripped to me hard enough, and I could feel him quake every time he reached out and let his foot down. But he never got deeper than mid thigh, and pretty soon I had him standin' ankle-deep on a sill of rock beside the black hole—a place known and named by the Injuns before ever a dressed log came through. I took another rock five or six feet lower down, and a little bigger, for I had to have room for the kit and minnie-pail. There I could bait for him and use the gaff-net without gettin' in his way. I started him with a minnie, and the Hole didn't fail. In a twitch he had his first bite, and—well, one good reason for the old feller's gettin' no bass was plain and open to me; he was just pullin' the hook out of their mouths at the first jerk! To you it's old news, but a 'rapids' bass has his jaws and palate triple-zinc-plated; and if you're goin' to put the barb into them you've got to strike it in—give a little slack and then snap your line like a whip. Now, that isn't easy when you've twenty foot of silk gut, and for lev'rage only an eight-ounce lancewood with a tip you could tie nots in. But if the old feller was goin' to catch fish he had to learn the twist right there; and I took hold of his leads from my gaffin' rock, give him his bites, and learned him! He struck and struck till he got it right, and after that I put him through a course of managin' his reel. Then I warned him that I'd stop baitin' the very first time he forgot his teachin'—and give him another minnie.

"And then—well, and then he began to catch bass! I've seen some pretty good rod sport in my forty years between James' Bay and Nipissing. I've caught them big and I've caught them many, as old Alf. Johnston used to say. But I reckon I've never seen better than I did that day out in the mist and roar of the Ragged Rapids of the old Wistass! I've never seen fish more raven'n' hungry for the bait, and if I'd been holdin' the rod myself I couldn't have had one touch of the fun I had just lookin' on.

"The old feller lost any number. I made him take time and play them: his tackle wouldn't have stood him anything else. But, by jinks, he caught 'em, too! He just had one long fight of it; his line never dangled two seconds waitin'. And what was more they were bitin' large. What makes one-pounders bite one day day and three-pounders the next. I've puzzled my head about that a hundred times But I know this, that that day the old feller got a run of bass that kept him lurchin', pitchin' and stiffenin' on his rock like some crazy toy-balloon on the end of a stick. At first too, it was all terrible earnest with him. Every time he'd get his tug his jaw would set together and his old face get fierce as sin; and if he'd lose his fish he'd fairly groan. But once he found he was goin' to get all and more than he could handle, the true joy of fishin' come to him; and he just let himself out and reveled in it! And it got into my veins as bad as it did in his. I reckon we both went back to them happy days of childhood all right, with all that's shoutin' delirious of a luny asylum into it.

"A whopper would grab for it, and when he'd leap and show his foot-and a-half of solid flashing green the old feller'd let one yoop-ee! out of him, and stiffen to it like a trojan. Down stream the zinc-jaw'd streak a-rippin', and—'No, you don't, neither!' the old boy'd screech—'No you don't! Come back, come back, come back!' And he'd dig his heels into his rock, and grip to it and fight him over to me inch and foot, both of us yellin' like Injuns at a horse race. Lordy! the Wistass'll never see the like of it again. Once a four pounder ran in straight behind him; I could see him totterin' backward off his balance and 'a' sworn that next minute he'd be in ears over apple-cart. But no sir! he whirled himself round in time, and, lettin' out his legs in one standin' lep, he came down on the slippery edge of my rock and took me round the neck crazier'n a woman! And there we stood grippin' each other, gaspin' and chucklin' till I'd got him sure on his own pins again. Then between us we added that four pounder to the double string weighin' from my belt like pig lead.

"When I made him break off for dinner and the noon rest he had thirty-four. But even then it was pullin' to get him to spare me two or three for the pan. However, I switched him off by gettin' him to dike in a little pond along shore for the others and cover them over with long marsh-grass so they'd keep cool and not bleach. By that time I had dinner cooked, which I saw to he eat his share of. And after that I made him smooth it down well with a good, slow smoke before I'd let him in again.

"And It was just as well I did, for the mornin' had taken more of his strength than I'd thought for. When I'd got him out and on his rock again for a long while his legs didn't seem to have any confidence into them, and couldn't seem to stay put. For all I laughed and laughed at him, and he laughed just as much at himself, I wouldn't have him planted half a minute before his knees would begin to weaken and wobble, he'd feel his hold a-goin' from under him, and he'd let go and come back to me a-leppin' and a-huggin' worse than the time before till at last, when I'd broke about his fourth strangle-holt, I says to him; 'Now, look here, old feller; you're gettin' altogether too giddy. You leave off this female-affection business and get back to your fishin'. And so, by degrees, I got him steadied and hard a-baskin' 'em in again. Then he seemed to fish stronger than ever. He caught a dozen in the first hour, and for a while I thought he'd beat his mornin's record. However, his nineteenth was his last. But I guess he didn't regret it any.

"I saw him get the tug, and his silk cut the eddy so swift it threw up a reg'lar 'fin' of water. And when he got the full force of it the old feller let out a holler and all but went in headforemost. I took it for granted it was a lunge—and a fifteen or twenty pounder at that—for you sometimes strike a stray big one even in the roughest water—and I yelled to him to pay out his line and I'd be there in half a jiffy. But he screeched back that he had him tight and he'd fetch him in or break the pole. And break that rod did, next minute! I thought it was all over then. But he clawed out and got hold of his line. And then crouchin' down, he braced himself and—buckle-backed and stiff-wristed—put up a fight no man'd ever believed was in him! It left me just one wonderin', unbreathin' admiration! His old eyes a-glitterin', and his mouth half open and his bristle of whiskers pumpin' up and down—I can see it yet. One minute he'd all but have him in—but no, there he struck, off again—and it was give him more line or lose him clean! And next minute he'd put in for the eddy behind the old feller, and he'd bend back and back back till I just stood waitin' to grip out for him as he came floppin' down the stream! And then off that fish'd pike again—and it'd start all over. At last I just naturally couldn't stand it any longer, and took one lep for the old feller's rock, shakin' nervous as as he'd jumped for mine. And then through the rest of it I held him, and give him the gaff-net when he was ready to fetch him in— Mr. Gunn, if that six pound bass you've been after was below the Falls, I reckon you'll have to look for him now in a Albany animal-stuffer's. For a six-pound bass this was—six pound five. And, as he lay buckin' and kickin' in the net, and gapin' like the mouth of a two quart milk jug, I thought he'd go a good seven. I tell you, when the old fellers combine they make a pretty strong team sometimes. But, Lord love you, just at that moment we didn't feel old. We just raised up one youp together and went in—hose hands clutched and jumpin' from stone to stone like two ten-year-olds makin' for a divin'-hole.

"But that ended fishin' that day. The old fellers rod was past mendin' outside the tool-house, and it was all but sundown, anyway. He put the six-pounder in the dinner-basket—cuddlin' him down in grass like a mother cradlin' her first baby—and I strung the rest on a doubled piece of old troll'-line. We hung the string over a tam'rack saplin' and each of us took an end on our shoulders. And I reckon as we struck off through the bush we were as near like those two poineer Israelites bringin' back the the bunch of Eshcol grapes from the Promised Land as anything you're likely to see hereabouts!

"Up till then, when we took the road homeward the old feller seemed to have almost forgot what we'd come out for. But now, when I turned to look at him, I could see it had all come back to him in a rush. The whole joy and pride of it was shinin' in his face. His eyes were just hangin' on those bass as if he couldn't believe in them; and he was sort of whisperin' to hisself in a way I've only seen afore in little children.

"'You got your string this time, all right,' I says to him.

"'Yes,' he says; 'I guess it's all right this time.' And then he fell quiet, and so we tramped out into Thompson's Meadow.

"The sun was just settin', and the whole west was one rollin' sea of crimson and purple and gold, wonderful and mighty and serene, like the hosts of the Lord seen far away. Oh, I tell you, friends, no old man could look at that and be sick hearted or afraid! And this poor old feller, I could see it fillin' him and his soul risin' and swellin' with it like a sail in a strong wind. The tears come into his eyes, but they were tears of strength and thinkfulness. And as we went on into the silence and the glory of it, the first thing I knew he was singin'! It wasn't loud; he only quavered that old hymn to hisself, soft and inward-like.

"'At even, ere the sun was set'—

"'The sick, O Lord, around thee lay,
Oh, in what divers pains they met!
Oh, with what joy they went away!'—

"He got his reception all right that night. When the boys caught their breath they rose to it and piled it on in a way that would have satisfied all the old fellers in yankeeland. And the old lady just wanted to hug him right there and then, whether or no. He shipped that six-pounder off to Albany next day, and then fished with the rest of them—and caught bass for bass—and 'lounge, too, a-trollin'—till their stay was over. And as far as I could see, he went home tol'able content and proud with hisself.

"As for that hay I left to the Almighty, I'm bound to say there didn't seem to 'a' been any miracle worked on it; it didn't increase tenfold, nor it wasn't any juicier for layin' out that day longer than it should—mebbe, on the whole I lost as much as ten dollars on it. But, so far, I've managed to bear up under that pretty well!"

Black crackets and bachelors have been entertaining our citizens late, with their fishing and camping in baselbell. These games have been quite a relief from a religious standpoint, as well as for the player themselves. The principal and novel feature of the benedict temp is the battery, comprising Rev. Mr. Daniels and Rev. Mr. Martin, Baptist and Presbyterian ministers respectively. The two games already played have been won by the bachelors, but the married folks are going to get even on Friday night next. It is needless to say that both sides are in a large number of admirers to witness the games.

Old Sunday, July 20, Mrs. J. C. Andrews, of this place, passed away after two weeks' illness. The funeral took place on Tuesday, 22nd inst., and was attended by a large number of friends and relatives, most of whom accompanied the remains to Mount Pleasant Cemetery, Cartwright township. The surviving members of the family have the heartfelt sympathy of the whole village in the sad bereavement.

Mr. W. E. Tilley, inspector of Durham county, spent three days here last week fishing.

Mr. Tom Kingdoro, of Harvey, who has been ailing for some time, is now in a critical condition, and very little hope is entertained for his recovery.

The Cambray Citizens' band was present and rendered a number of choice selections, much to the enjoyment of present. The selections rendered by the Cambray Male Quartette and the solos by Mr. F. Predicted Annual Production of Wheat in Western Canada.

WHEAT INFLUENCES PROSPERITY

What the Learning to Eat Wheat by New Races Means to Canada—A Very Large Problem Reasonably Solved—Upon Upon by an Apparently Very Wide-Awake Western Observer.

New York, July 23.—A special to The Evening Post from Washington, says: "Within ten years Western Canada will be producing annually 250,000,000 bushels of wheat."

This is the prediction of Theodore M. Knappen of Minneapolis, made in an address before the State Bankers' Association. He is an observer who have been lately quoted in these columns where his views, if this article proves correct, it will constitute one of the most far-reaching economic movements of the time, and one destined to have notable political effect on both sides of the line.

"The prosperity of the United States always depends in large part upon the foreign market for our great central products, and wheat is the king. Its price is regulated in the markets of Liverpool, and as that fluctuates so, prosperity smiles on the great Northwest, and when it goes down prosperity Hopens in the hearts of the people.

"For five years or a decade ago, which gave birth to the Farmers' Alliance and People's party movements, culminating in their capture of the Democratic party in 1896, we in this country began to feel the sudden prominence attained by Russian and Indian wheat in the world's food markets of the world. There was seen to be a new supply of cereals which reacted unfavorably upon the United States. Since that time the consuming power of the world has been steadily increasing, and new markets, especially in Asia, have been opened for our cereals.

"Now Asia has learned to eat wheat, the most aristocratic of foods, and the great masses of these peoples have been accustomed to afford luxuries in the Asiatic, we can home market, the most important of all, has supported this upward movement, and consequently by increased demand the world over, until the Northwest is going to be a state of unprecedented prosperity. But they, you say, will be a time, we may properly ask where this new Asiatic market is going to be, and what will be its effect upon the world's market, in case present predictions are fulfilled. The United States is to-day exporting about 80,000,000 bushels of wheat, and, as much more in the form of flour. Canada's 250,000,000 bushels of western Canadian production within a decade would thus be nearly double the amount export by the United States.

The suggestion that the existence of such a food supply on British territory, with the cattle raising possibilities of Australasia, would make the temperament of this Imperial federation scheme much more feasible than before, is natural. It could scarcely be considered without a perceptible increase in the price of foodstuffs to the working people, classes, which has hitherto been the stalking-horse of opposition to the favor of the colonies, as to the return to protection of Canada's trade. But to the American wheat raiser of the Northwest the consumption of the Japanese Canadian scheme is not necessary in order to make the Canadian wheat, Canada's serious development. On a line of rail from Minneapolis to Liverpool, as to-day, the Canadian would still get as much for their wheat as our farmers, and their cost of transporting it there would hardly more expensive. It could be shipped in bond to Duluth, Minneapolis, or Chicago, on the American wheat, or it might be exported from Port Arthur on the northern shore of Lake Superior. The Canadian Pacific Railroad, with its branches, is now rapidly extending, has a double interest in making the most remote parts available for this wheat movement. Its increase will bring it in contact with Asiatic late general business.

The Knappen thus relates the dramatic coming in of American settlers to Canada, and, after claiming that it is the beginning of the Americanization of Canada, proceeds:

"Let your imagination go much what as North Dakota, and, with the Canadian Pacific, Canadian Northern, Grand Trunk Pacific, Saskatchewan and Assiniboia, produced 62,000,000 bushels of wheat, and produce this year 75,000,000 bushels, and a year later 100,000,000. One Minneapolis milling company has already made arrangements to receive a million bushels of wheat in bond, and is planning to build a grain mill on the Canadian side of Canadian wheat for the export trade. Many other mills have called back with the money, ten thousand dollars in hand, to commence building, then a common method of transfer, getting funds. I was sitting one morning on the guards viewing the operations, we were passing, when a gentleman wearing a white necktie sat down beside me, and entered into conversation. He soon led the subject to the grain business, and I, of course, and informed me that there were several professional gamblers aboard which we were expected to be drawn in by them to play or I would be a fool.

Notwithstanding this advice, one of the gamblers seemed to take a confidence, got us to play euchre without stopping, and he and his partner made a game for money, and I realized that I was in this hands in a manner, I have never been in my life. Upon raising my face from the table I saw a gentleman in the white cravat standing by a dozen others who had been watching the play.

"My boy," he said, "let me have a twenty dollar bill. I have money of my own, but I want to play with your money and for you alone. Perhaps I may get back some of your loss.

There was a surprised look on the faces of those who stood around the table, for the man was apparently a clergyman. I gave him the twenty dollar bill with a motioned prayer for the success of his mission.

"Now, Emory Thorne," he said, "I propose to teach you the game of euchre."

"How did you know my name was Emory Thorne?" asked the sharper, looking at his scrutinizing. "Never mind that. As we proceed I may clear up everything, but you may put you on the track of mystery. Now, boy!

For hours I, in company with a constantly growing crowd, watched the play, surprising as was the gift of a clergyman playing with a gambler for high stakes, it was more so that the parson was as effect as to what would do the more clever cheating. I was not sufficiently quick digital to detect their expertness but knew by frequent expressions of wonder on the part of the onlookers that they were exhibitions of genius. The game was the champion grew slowly, but surely, you and again slightly diminished but every loss made up with a gain. The gambler was the better at the player; his opponent the better at cheating. Once were the stakes made a loss he asked.

"What is your name, Tom Clarkson last Emory?"

The gambler looked up at him with something like terror in his face, but made no reply. The circle were death again and my friend, taking advantage of having disconcerted his opponent made a trump card, upon which gave him all trumps, with both hands on the ace, creating a game by which he made five hundred dollars. Every face was turned to whichever he lost he invariably threw a card from a pocket and with a reference unbearased only by the two parties, the gambler was seen taking his opponent in the eye, said, "Jim, you have cheated me for the last time. Emory, I'll give you back your money and take the article you have purchased back."

B. J. Gough,

THE WONDERFUL CHEAP MAN,

The Man in the White Cravat.

The changes in American during the last half of the nineteenth century are in no particular more marked than in the Mississippi river. Many days ago the highway between the northwest and the gulf was almost given up to the boats, some for their time, carried all sorts of people, among them the most refined in the land. A singular proximity to mothers and children were the gambling tables in the mess cabin, separated from the ladies' cabin only by a curtain.

When a youngster of eighteen I was sitting in the cabin of a boat, then a common method of transfer, getting funds. I was sitting one morning on the guards viewing the operations, we were passing, when a gentleman wearing a white necktie sat down beside me, entered into conversation. He soon led the subject to the gambling business, and I, of course, and informed me that there were several professional gamblers aboard which we were expected to be drawn in by them to play or I would be a fool.

Notwithstanding this advice, one of the gamblers seemed to take a confidence, got us to play euchre without stopping, and he and his partner made a game for money, and I realized that I was in this hands in a manner, I have never been in my life. Upon raising my face from the table I saw a gentleman in the white cravat standing by a dozen others who had been watching the play.

"My boy," he said, "let me have a twenty dollar bill. I have money of my own, but I want to play with your money and for you alone. Perhaps I may get back some of your loss.

There was a surprised look on the faces of those who stood around the table, for the man was apparently a clergyman. I gave him the twenty dollar bill with a motioned prayer for the success of his mission.

"Now, Emory Thorne," he said, "I propose to teach you the game of euchre."

"How did you know my name was Emory Thorne?" asked the sharper, looking at his scrutinizing. "Never mind that. As we proceed I may clear up everything, but you may put you on the track of mystery. Now, boy!

For hours I, in company with a constantly growing crowd, watched the play, surprising as was the gift of a clergyman playing with a gambler for high stakes, it was more so that the parson was as effect as to what would do the more clever cheating. I was not sufficiently quick digital to detect their expertness but knew by frequent expressions of wonder on the part of the onlookers that they were exhibitions of genius. The game was the champion grew slowly, but surely, you and again slightly diminished but every loss made up with a gain. The gambler was the better at the player; his opponent the better at cheating. Once were the stakes made a loss he asked.

"What is your name, Tom Clarkson last Emory?"

The gambler looked up at him with something like terror in his face, but made no reply. The circle were death again and my friend, taking advantage of having disconcerted his opponent made a trump card, upon which gave him all trumps, with both hands on the ace, creating a game by which he made five hundred dollars. Emory, I'll give back your money and take the article you have purchased back."

It was wonderful how the rascal covered up outward signs of his emotion. It was only by the eye that we knew how he suffered. By this time the pile of bills my opponent had were stacked up in front of the clergyman, and he was winning with every game. Indeed, the gambler seemed to have lost his head in keeping the money. They man finally just accepted the situation, and called a halt.

"How much did you lose, my boy?" he asked me.

"Every from my best ten bills of five hundred dollars each, five thousand dollars in all. Then are all gone, besides about twenty-five dollars. I had in my pocket."

"Very well, here's your money." Handing me a five hundred and twenty five thousand dollars, he turned it to me and shoved the rest across the table to his opponent, saying, "Keep and turning to the crowd, he said:

"Gentlemen this has doubtless been to you a surprise, but I knew this man," pointing to the gambler, "and overheard him say that the boy had money, which he proposed to take. At an early age I developed a taste for sleight of hand and most of my boyhood was spent in fooling friends. The tricks practiced by gamblers especially interested me, and I took lessons under an expert professional gambler. I have practiced the game and never won or lost a cent in my life. Then to the gambler, Emory Thorne, I ask what your companion call you by name when you were filling him how you proposed to fleece this boy. As a reward I will give back the money, brother-in-law, Tom Clarkson, to the doubtfuled of your wife. Have I discharged me if I met you to tell you that you were forgiven."

With this he turned and walked toward the door, the gambler slunk away.
